Suez Canal 'Tributary Of Peace'

PORT SAID, Egypt (AP) — President Anwar Sadat reopened the Suez Canal today as a "tributary of peace and a channel of prosperity and cooperation among men." But he vowed to liberate all Arab lands from Israeli occupation.

Sadat said Egypt, in reopening the canal, wanted to "rekindle friendly people everywhere that cherished parts of Arab land are still suffering under foreign occupation and Arab people are enduring the anguish of forced exile."

Egypt is determined "to perform the sacred duty of liberating" these lands and recovering usurped Arab rights," he declared.

Wearing his white naval uniform as commander of the Egyptian navy, Sadat proclaimed the waterway "completely cleared and purged of Israeli aggression following our glorious crossing of the canal Oct. 6, 1973."

"It is only natural that this Egyptian artery should continue to serve the prosperity of mankind and return to its role of linking the four corners of the world, promoting trade and harmony among people and nations," he declared.

The canal reopened on the eighth anniversary of the 1967 Arab-Israeli war, and Lt. Gen. Abdel Ghany Gurnah, Egypt's war minister, said in a speech ending military control of the

Lawmaker Quizzed In Swainson Case

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A state senator's telephone credit card has been linked to bribery allegations against Michigan Supreme Court Justice John B. Swainson.

FBI agents have interviewed Sen. Basil Brown, D-Detroit, and possibly one other state senator about the calls. They were made on state credit cards that might be connected to the Swainson case, said Neil Welch, FBI field office director in Detroit.

Brown said calls in question on his credit card were not made by him but by Harvey Wish, a friend and former bail bondsman.

Brown said Wednesday he believes the phase of the FBI investigation dealing with him is completed and he knows of no other lawmakers who might have been questioned.

He said he hasn't been "requested or summoned" to appear before a federal grand jury investigating the Swainson matter and doesn't expect to be called.

However, the Lansing State Journal said Wednesday that Brown had been before the grand jury. The article also said Brown told a reporter that Senate Secretary Beryl Kenyon also was summoned about a week ago. Kenyon refused comment.

Brown said Wish was the bondsman for John Joseph Whalen, 30, who claims he paid Swainson $40,000 in 1973 to win a state Supreme Court review of Whalen's Lenawee County burglary conviction.

Two or three years ago, Brown said, he loaned Wish his state telephone credit card when Wish was helping with Senate business. The bill for use of such cards is picked up by the taxpayers.

"I suspect he used it for purposes not authorized," Brown said. "Apparently some of them (the calls) were in connection with this (Swainson) case."

$800 Auction Price In Line With Times

By NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

The season's first crate of strawberries was auctioned off for $800 yesterday at the Benton Harbor Fruit Market.

Market observers were not surprised that this year's first crate fetched less than half of the all-time record of $1,825 paid last year. The price may mirror pessimism about expected fruit prices this year or, more generally, over the overall economic situation.

Ten persons representing businesses concerned with the area's important fruit industry combined to pay $50 a quart for the Midway berries. On Tuesday John Falkner, III, son of John Falkner, Jr., the owner of F&F Farms, Decatur, delivered the first crate to the market.

Members of the purchasing combine were: Pierson Fruit Market, Sister Lakes, Farmer Friday Market, Coloma; Coloma Canning Co-op; Blossomland Container Corp., Benton Harbor; Watervliet Fruit Exchange; Coloma Growers Sales; First National Bank of Watervliet; Radom Farm Supply; Bainbridge Center; and two season buyers, Perry Wolfe and Tom Jennaro.

With one addition and one subtraction, this year's purchasing combine is identical to last year's list of buyers. Absent is John P. Provenzano, long-time season buyer who died in a Tucson, Ariz., hospital last month. New member of the combine is the Watervliet Fruit Exchange.

Money from the auction is divided by the grower, who gets the first $25 of the sale price, and the remainder goes charities designated by the buyers.

Yesterday at the market other growers delivered 4½ 16-quart crates, which buyers purchased for $10 a crate, according to Al Braudo, market manager.

Israeli Cargo Headed For Suez

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israel's Transport Minister said today that Egypt had pledged in writing to permit Israeli cargoes through the Suez Canal and said a Liberian ship headed for the canal with sugar for Israel would be "a test case."

Minister Gad Yaacobi said "I very much hope" the Egyptians will let the freighter and its Israel-bound cargo through the newly opened waterway. "It will become a test case, if the reaction of Egypt is negative."

Yaacobi told Radio Israel that under the disengagement pact signed in January last year, Egypt had made a definite commitment to allow Israeli cargoes through the canal.

"Without any doubt this is a part of the disengagement of forces agreement," Yaacobi said. "It was a commitment given by Egypt to the United States, in writing ..."

Father Sentenced To Death

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A Houston man described by a friend as a decent person has been sentenced to death in the electric chair for killing his 8-year-old son with poisoned Halloween candy.

Ronald C. O'Bryan, 30, appeared unmoved and impassive Wednesday as a district court jury of 10 men and two women recommended the death sentence after only 71 minutes of deliberation.

The same jury on Tuesday convicted O'Bryan of murdering his son, Timothy, by giving the youngster cyanide-laced trick-or-treat candy. Deliberation on that verdict lasted 46 minutes.

The state contended O'Bryan was deeply in debt and that he killed his son to collect more than $30,000 in life insurance.

Appeal of the conviction is automatic.

Defense attorney Richard Harrison said his client felt "rotten, absolutely rotten."

"We got a fair trial," he said. "But sometimes I lose a little faith in the jury system. I felt all along that he was innocent and I still feel that way."

"Death should be given only in a proper case," Asst. Dist. Atty. Mike Hinton said. "If this was not a proper case, I don't know what one would be."

The state presented no witnesses in the punishment phase of the month-long trial, but nine of O'Bryan's friends and neighbors testified for the defense.

All said they believed O'Bryan to be incapable of violence that would threaten society. They said he was an active church member, a leader in the Parent-Teachers' Association.

"He was a decent person," said Dr. D.L. Akin, an optometrist who worked with O'Bryan. "Peaceful. Agreeable. A very nice person."

Testimony in the trial showed O'Bryan took out $10,000 accidental death insurance policies on his son and daughter, Elizabeth Lane, 6, in January 1974, and $20,000 life insurance policies on the children the following October.

O'Bryan, wife, Daylene, and two other relatives testified that after Timothy's death, O'Bryan discussed at length how the insurance money was to be spent. She said he mentioned a trip to Florida, a long vacation from work and a new home.

An insurance agent told the jury O'Bryan called him to start processing a claim within hours of Timothy's death.

MICHIGAN MEDICS FAVOR PLAN

Malpractice May Be Arbitrated

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Patients could institute medical malpractice suits via arbitration rather than going to court under legislation approved Wednesday in the state House.

The procedure was okayed via two bills passed on identical 105-0 votes. Passage was hailed by Gov. William Milliken, who said the legislature must move quickly if it is to avert doctors' strikes like those experienced in other states.

One of the measures would establish three-member arbitration panels comprised of a doctor, a lawyer and a layman.

The panels would hear complaints and authorize awards.

The medical community favors the legislation because it is widely believed a panel will be more impartial than a courtroom jury.

The second measure would create a supervisory, 18-member Arbitration Advisory Committee. It would be appointed by the state insurance commissioner.

A third measure, which places a two-year statute of limitations on malpractice suits, was approved by the state Senate, 33-0, and sent to the House.

Another Senate bill, approved 31-0 and returned to the House, says members of professional review groups could not be sued by the doctor they are investigating.

Labor Runs Aground On Anti-Trust Shoal

Congress in 1914 adopted the Clayton Act, the second in a series of federal statutes outlining restraints of trade, for the dual purpose of exempting unionization of employees and to strengthen some loopholes in the Sherman Act of 1890, the original anti-trust law.

Congress adopted the exemption for labor organizational efforts because the Sherman Act's broad language threw a cloud over that activity.

Since the Clayton Act's effective date, the courts and administrative agencies supervising labor-management relations have permitted a wide latitude of conduct to labor unions in furtherance of their goals.

The Taft-Hartley Act, passed over Harry Truman's veto in the late 1940s, is one major exception to this wide blanketing. Taft-Hartley bans the secondary boycott, which is an effort to discourage the public or the employees of another company from dealing with the first employer target of a union.

Another somewhat rarely applied stricture is a judicial ruling against a union conspiring with a non-labor party to stifle competition.

Conflicting with that position is a wider held rule by the courts and the National Labor Relations Board that organizational efforts to mute competition are sometimes proper if designed to eliminate substandard wages and working conditions.

This week the U.S. Supreme Court, by a narrow 5-4 vote following closely along ideological lines, stated flatly that under certain conditions organized labor is subject to the anti-trust statutes' ban on restraints in trade.

The case involved a general contractor in Dallas where the Plumbers and Pipefitters union was trying to organize all subcontractors.

By way of trying to gain the objective the union picketed the general contractor until it agreed not to pass out jobs to the non-union subcontractors.

The Washington tribunal sustained lower court decisions that the general contractor could sue the union in triple damages for this coercive restraint of trade.

The majority acknowledged the wide exemption enjoyed by labor but rejected the view taken by the minority and the Plumbers that the freedom is absolute.

The decision goes beyond the Taft-Hartley ban. Taft-Hartley simply forbids the secondary boycott. It permits the court to enjoin the activity, but does not impose a financial penalty. This week's opinion takes up where Taft-Hartley leaves off.

Salutary as is the ruling, the question immediately arises on its durability.

Courts change their minds as their memberships alter from time to time, so what is today's law of the land may be something else in the future.

Congress can rewrite the anti-trust and labor laws to nullify the opinion. This is certain to be George Meany's first order of business now that the legislative branch is returned from its Memorial holiday.

The decision is a long overdue, forthright response to the raw power plays being run for years by some unions and for a long time there has been agitation to bring unions totally under the same restrictions the anti-trust laws impose upon business and industry.

This is an over reaction which is not required and which for the long haul could be more damaging than it would prove helpful.

Any law, if it is to be worthwhile, should accent the positive and when attacking the negative, should seek out excessive conduct, not put everyone in a straitjacket.

UNIVERSITY WOMEN AGAINST 'LOOP'

Editor,
The Board of Directors of the Benton Harbor-St. Joseph Branch of the American Association of University Women has taken a stand against the proposed new 1-94 business loop and in particular to the "Alternative 3" route. At the May 20th board meeting members voted unanimously to send letters to appropriate governmental representatives expressing opposition to the proposed penetration.

We urge other concerned citizens to study the pros and cons of this important issue and to voice their opinion to public officials and the community.

Sincerely,

VFW AUXILIARY LETTER OF THANKS

Editor,
We of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and Auxiliary of Post No. 1137, wish to offer special thanks to those who participated in the "Togetherness" Memorial Services at Crystal Springs on May 26, 1975.

We are especially grateful to Rabbi Wayne M. Franklin of Temple B'nai Shalom, to Mrs. Dolores Gunn for the Pledge of Allegiance and hymns, to the Gold Star Mother, who was escorted by Officer of the Day, Andy Cutler, in placing of the wreath at Holy Cross, to our former Mayor Smith of Benton Harbor, to the Gold Star Mothers of World War I, of Barracks No. 582, the Mothers of World War II, of Units 1 and 43, the Disabled American Veterans of Chapter 17, the American Legion post and Auxiliary of Post No. 105. The American Legion post and its auxiliary of post No. 163 and the American Legion post and auxiliary of No. 410. The V.F.W. post No. 206.

With great appreciation we thank the Twin City Drum &

Bugle Corps, the benediction by Rev. Arthur L. Jelks, Sr., of the Union Memorial A.M.E. church, the taps by Bill Peden, and to Rev. A. Bolin, County Council of Churches, for his assistance in making the program a successful one.

We appreciate, too, the help by the girls of the Auxiliary Post No. 1137 on the refreshment committee. These special thoughts were honored for all of our departed comrades of all wars, and our firm resolution given that we work together without regard for religion, political or racial feelings for everlasting peace.

WALTER BROWE OFFERS HIS THANKS

Editor,

As my last official act as president of the Twin Cities Symphonic Society Board of Directors, I want to express my appreciation to the many fine people who have supported the symphony concerts during my seven years on the board and four years as president.

So — thanks to our entire community, the members of the Twin Cities Symphonic Society, its board and officers, our dedicated orchestra personnel and Georgiana Smith, Concert-Master, and especially to the area news media.

With the selection of our new Resident Conductor of Music (Mr. Robert Vodyny) following a two year "search", I am sure next year's concerts will provide even more enjoyment for all of us.

Thanks again.

Walter Browe
President
Twin Cities

Do You REMEMBER?

— 10 Years Ago —

The Lew Saret Audubon sanctuary east of Benton Harbor has grown to 130 acres with a donation of 40 acres announced today. The gift was made by Mr. and Mrs. William Vawter, II, who also gave the original 90 acres last fall.

— 25 Years Ago —

The 1950 strawberry season in southwestern Michigan opened Sunday with the first crate of strawberries of the season going at an all-time record high of $80. Al Dragomir, owner and operator of Super Save-Way grocery and market, Benton Harbor, was top bidder, at $80, and bought crate from Howard Mundt, Keeler.

— 50 Years Ago —

The glory that is the Hotel Vincent's — and also Benton Harbor's — invested last night's grand opening and dinner dance. Benton Harbor's first families, augmented by sister city notables and out-of-town guests, gathered for the occasion and made it memorable. Three hundred sat down at 7 o'clock to a dinner that spoke eloquently of the efficiency of the hotel's management. It was after midnight when the orchestra — a wonderful musical organization — played its last piece and the curtain fell on the dedicatory service that committed the Vincent forever to a place of pride and service. Eden Springs, House of David, is now open for the season. A musical program will be rendered every evening.

— 75 Years Ago —

In the continuation of the races that have been in progress for the last two weeks, Samuel Hannon's horse won in the half mile contest on Broadway, Benton Harbor, last Saturday afternoon.

A big sewer for East-Benton Harbor is to be built as soon as the necessary preliminary steps are taken and residents of Morton Hill and the Paw Paw avenue district will in a short time enjoy the same conveniences as citizens in other parts of the city.

For a long time loofers have been in the habit of sitting on the railing near Bird's drug store in Benton Harbor and covering the walk with tobacco juice. Regs to stop the practice have been in vain, and Saturday the railing was painted with whitening. Saturday evening a man seated himself in his accustomed place without noticing the soft paint. When he discovered the white on his clothes he tried to "clean out" the drug store, but was quickly shown the door. It is thought loofing has ended on that corner at least.

Bias Suit Creates Strange Alliance

WASHINGTON — There's a moral in the reasoning that brought such opposites as the liberal Civil Liberties Union and Eugene McCarthy on the one hand and the conservative Sen. James Buckley and Human Events together as joint plaintiffs in a lawsuit against the federal election reform not passed by Congress last year.

It is not only that the reform claimed in the law is a cover for chicanery. It is, more importantly, that the public has been snowed by such a plethora of glorifying adjectives as a substitute for facts, that few people have read and fewer analyzed what the law means. Most of us live in ignorance as to the law's effects; our reactions are simple gut responses.

Faced with such widespread public misinformation, these political opposites, and others of one persuasion or another, met and decided that if any one person or any look-alike groups filed alone in opposition to the new law, the press would jump in with headlines so prejudicial the protest might sink without a trace.

If the conservatives filed alone in protest to inequities in the law, it was feared the suit would be branded an attempt by Neanderthal rightists and their "big business" allies to scuttle election reform and "return" to big money politics.

If the liberals filed alone, the move would be condemned and go on the public record as a thrust by "left-wing zealots" and their "kooky" associates.

To solve that dilemma, liberal and conservative decided to band together, hold their first press conference jointly and go to court as a united front.

We would, they believed come in with preconceived notions — without reading the material — and label each document or statement, not according to its contents or merits, but according to our perception of the bias of the men or organizations making the statements.

"Joint action was the only way we could think of to get reporters to look at the issue rather than the personalities involved," said one planner.

It is not only in election laws that we of the press shut our eyes to the facts and allow our writing to be skewed by our admiration or hatred for a person a movement or a country.

Many of us ignore the tyranny and exploitation of the poor by the power holders in India and the political chicanery and imperialist takeovers of small neighboring countries by Mrs. Gandhi because, by some mystique, we think of India as a democracy.

One prominent publisher who rightly castigated the deeds of President Nixon's aides H.R. Haldeman and John Erlichman writes with obvious admiration and a "boys will be boys" attitude when depicting unwholesome activities by President Kennedy's associates.

We hate Nelson Rockefeller or like him, according to our particular beliefs. When we write what he says, the result is a jumble of garbled biases in one direction or another.

Those writers who hate President Thieu of South Vietnam imagined a variety of non-existent virtues in the totalitarian North. Those who admired him saw statesmanship in Thieu's every maneuver.

Kennedy Threat Worries Foes

Is Teddy coming? The guess here is that he is not, and for several pretty solid reasons. True enough, the White House expects to be running against Teddy Kennedy, in 1976, but it will be recalled that Richard Nixon was also constantly preoccupied with Teddy only to find himself running against the paper-mache liberal, George McGovern.

It is also true that the nomination of Teddy might solve at least temporarily some of the major intramural problems of the Democratic Party. To some degree, Teddy would paper over the chasm that separates the lunch-pail Democratic constituency from the New Politics grumpy-glasses and Lenin-beard types.

Finally, it has to be admitted that the current field of Democratic candidates to the left of George Wallace endows Teddy with a certain lust.

Six months ago, Senator Henry Jackson appeared to be the most electable Democrat, though he faced a hard fight for the nomination. Jackson possessed a certain specific gravity, he seemed competent, and he stood within shouting distance at least of the middle of the political spectrum.

But in the last six months, Jackson has undergone "Stassen-ization" — that is, he has undergone a lesion of seriousness, perhaps an irreversible one. In order to irritate the Left, he turned dove-ish on the war, he sounded McGovernish on the refugees, and he attacked Ford's handling of the Mayaguez rescue only to reverse himself when it appeared to have been successful. Jackson looks panicky, lacking in major league political instinct.

The other Democratic contenders so far do not even seem to be plausible Vice Presidential candidates.

Fred Harris is a radical chic candidate masquerading as a populist. He could not even get re-elected in Oklahoma, which has a long tradition of genuine populism.

So-called "new Southerners" like Jimmy Carter and Terry Sanford come across like New York Times editorials with a drawl. To establish a valid "new Southern" candidacy, either Carter or Sanford would have to take on "old Southerner" George Wallace and defeat him in a primary. Do not hold your breath waiting for that.

Morris Udall? Birch Bayh? As Sen. Hugh Scott remarked, a parade of pigmies.

And so, despite his emphatic statement of non-candidacy, the Democratic gaze turns back to Teddy.

But, conceding that Teddy could be nominated by acclamation, is there really much doubt about what would happen in the election, or what kind of a campaign it would turn out to be?

In the first place, recent polls showing a decline of concern over Chappaquiddick are surely misleading. What killed off interest in Chappaquiddick was precisely Teddy's statement of non-candidacy. Last year, growing speculation about a Teddy candidacy produced a rash of articles re-opening all the old unanswered questions. In a revival of his candidacy the scrutiny again would intensify.

In the campaign itself, things would get very rough. Gore Vidal has foreseen one kind of campaign TV spot. First, you would see a finger on the nuclear button. Then you would see videotapes of Teddy trying to explain what happened at Chappaquiddick. Republican partisans would certainly begin to call for Teddy to "clear himself" by taking a lie detector test.

There would be a savage informal campaign: bumper stickers reading "After the Crooks, the Bum, Vote Teddy," and "Would You Let Teddy Drive Your Used Car?", and "Nobody Drowned at Watergate."

No, the Teddy solution to the Democrats' 1976 problem is probably an illusion. In the event of a deadlock at the convention, this could really be the year of the dark horse, and, rather than Teddy, something on the order of Hugh Carey-John Glenn might well emerge.

Sergeant Challenges Dismissal As Homosexual

By publicly declaring that he is a homosexual, Air Force T. Sgt. Leonard P. Matlovich has reopened the old debate on whether homosexuality poses a threat to national security. The American armed forces will not enlist acknowledged homosexuals, and they routinely discharge servicemen who are found to have engaged in homosexual acts. Matlovich, a decorated Vietnam veteran with 12 years of service, is now challenging efforts to discharge him through the military court system, and he says he will take the case all the way to the Supreme Court if necessary.

As the case makes its way through the legal process, some old arguments are sure to be heard again. The federal government's stand on employment of homosexuals in either military or civilian jobs has changed little since a Senate subcommittee headed by Clyde R. Hoxby (D-N.C.) issued a report in 1950. "It is the experience of intelligence experts that perverts are vulnerable to interrogation by a skilled questioner and they seldom refuse to talk about themselves," the report said. "Furthermore, most perverts tend to congregate at the same restaurants, night clubs, and bars, which places can be identified with comparative ease in any community, making it possible for a recruiting agent to develop clandestine relationships which can be used for espionage purposes."

Gay liberation groups retort that the blackmail threat would disappear if laws and regulations proscribing homosexuality were repealed. They further contend that homosexuals are present in the military and in federal civilian agencies in about the same proportion as in society as a whole. These men and women, gay liberationists insist, are indistinguishable in appearance or job performance from their heterosexual co-workers, and very few of them come into conflict with the law.

In the past few years, some cities and states have modified or repealed laws against homosexuality. California, for example, recently passed a law that struck down criminal sanctions governing the private sexual behavior of adults. But now a move is under way to repeal the law by submitting it to the voters in a referendum.

If 314,404 valid signatures are collected by Aug. 11, the issue will be put on the June 1976 primary election ballot. For Matlovich and other homosexuals, the outcome will provide some indication as to whether American society's attitude toward homosexuality is changing.

Prosecutor Closes Cases In Two Deaths

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

Berrien Prosecutor John A. Smietanka yesterday announced his office has concluded investigations into the deaths of two women who died earlier this week, and no criminal proceedings will be initiated in either case.

The announcement came in connection with the deaths of Joanne K. Friest, 25, of Buchanan, a diabetic who died Monday after she voluntarily stopped taking insulin because of religious beliefs, and Ruth Stieger, 18, of Harvey, Ill., killed when a car in which she was riding crashed into a tree Tuesday near Bridgman.

Miss Friest, an assistant county medical examiner ruled, died as a result of diabetes and its complications because of lack of medication, which she stopped taking because of her religious beliefs.

"Her parents (Mr. and Mrs. Robert Friest, also of Buchanan) attempted to counsel her out of her decision," Smietanka said, "and she apparently was competent when she made her decision."

Smietanka said as far as the prosecutor's office is concerned, the case is closed, adding: "We find no criminal responsibility."

The prosecutor labelled Miss Stieger's death "purely accidental," noting the cause for the crash off Red Arrow highway near the entrance to Warren Dunes state park was a mechanical failure in the car in which she was a passenger.

The accident, in which seven other Illinois residents were injured when the car left the road and hit a tree, was due to a malfunction in the steering assembly of the car, Smietanka said.

He noted an auto mechanic examined the car immediately after the accident, and reported three sections on the front end of the car had previously broken, "providing a hazardous defect in the car, but which would not necessarily be detected by the average motorist."

New Cove Restaurant Opens In SJ

The Cove, most posh of a long line of restaurants at 227 Main street, St. Joseph, officially opened this week.

There has been a restaurant at that site since 1939. The restaurant was closed several months for complete remodeling.

John Sassano, president of Hilltop Foods and The Hilltop, is the owner of the Cove, formerly the Red Rooster. Sassano said Tim Peele, 26, formerly of Midland, is manager of the new operation.

Peele announced Ken Schimming, 33, of Baroda, will manage the new lounge and day operations. Barry Van Harn, 24, of Fort Wayne, Ind., will be manager of food and dining room operations.

The original coffee shop has been retained but with new fixtures and lighting. A beamed ceiling features the dining room. A new lounge has been created in what was the second dining area.

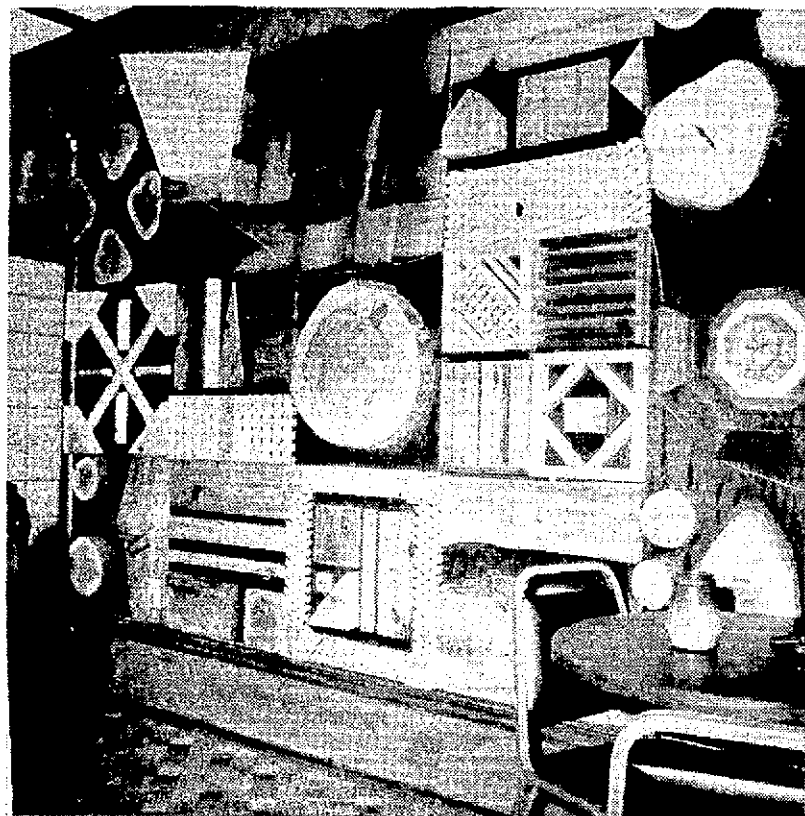

Peele said the name, "Cove," was selected because it is short and distinctive and to indicate the restaurant and lounge is a welcome, secluded spot for the traveler.

The first restaurant at 227 Main opened in 1939, the second in a chain of restaurants operated by Holly Grills, Inc. It became the Red Rooster when it was sold after Holly's moved to Courthouse Square in 1969.

Peele was an honor graduate of Northwood Institute's school of hotel and restaurant management in 1973. Peele was formerly with the Saginaw Country club and Holly Grills in its Saginaw and St. Joseph units before being named manager of the Cove.

Schimming was formerly with Flagship restaurant, St. Joseph Holiday Inn.

Van Harn is a native of Greenville where he worked in his father's restaurant. He is a 1973 graduate of Western Michigan university with a BA degree in marketing. He was with Holly's the past two years in Fort Wayne, Ind.

BH Garage Destroyed By Blaze

Fire yesterday destroyed a large garage at the home of Arthur Pettis, 865 Superior street, Benton Harbor firemen reported.

The owner and a neighbor removed burning mattresses from the garage then called the fire department when they saw flames inside. Cause of the fire is undetermined and damage to the building and contents was estimated at $1,700.

Welfare Chief To Visit Here

State Welfare Director John T. Dempsey will visit Berrien county next Wednesday, and will get the final results of a complete case-by-case audit of all ADC cases in the county.

County Director Wesley Bowerman said Dempsey will address a breakfast meeting of staff members of the county social services department at the Namada Inn, Benton Harbor, at 7 a.m. News media representatives will be invited. Bowerman said, and will be furnish details of the Corrective Action study of ADC cases now being completed in the county.

Bowerman noted that the social services department staff carried out the extensive study, on top of carrying on its regular duties, without any additional personnel.

The Corrective Action study was directed for all counties in Michigan by Dr. Dempsey, shortly after he assumed directorship of the state social services department last February. The case-by-case examination of all ADC cases was ordered after the federal

Cleanup Drive

NEW CASTLE, Pa. (AP) — New Castle Mayor Francis J. Rogan says his private clean-up campaign was a big success.

Last week, the mayor offered to pay 10 cents a poster to anyone bringing in political posters left on display after the May primary.

Defendant Loses On Own Advice

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

Jurors in an armed robbery trial in Berrien circuit court said they couldn't reach a verdict after some six hours of deliberation. But the defendant urged the jury to try one more ballot.

The jury did, and came back with a guilty verdict.

Convicted of armed robbery by jurors in Judge Chester J. Byrns' court was Stanley Wayne Dorris, 18, of 368 Brunson avenue, Benton Harbor.

The verdict capped a four-day trial in which Dorris was accused of using a pistol to rob Irene Scott of about $45 Dec. 9 at C & T Cleaners, 386 East Main street, Benton Harbor.

Another Benton Harbor man was acquitted of an armed robbery charge in connection with the same case last month in circuit court.

After deliberating four hours Tuesday afternoon, the jury sent out a note from the jury room saying they were deadlocked. Byrns, however, told them to come back to court the next morning. After continuing deliberations yesterday morning, they again said they were deadlocked. But Dorris and his counsel, St. Joseph Atty. Peter Kosick, both asked the jury to continue deliberations.

Byrns told jurors to try one more ballot, and if they still couldn't agree on a verdict, he would declare a mistrial. They adjourned, came back into court a short time later to have some testimony read back to them, and again retired to the jury room.

Ten minutes later they announced the guilty verdict.

Meeting Fails To Resolve Mayor, City Manager Rift

A meeting last night between the Benton Harbor city commission, Mayor Charles Joseph and City Manager Charles Morrison apparently did little to resolve the recent rift between the mayor and city manager.

"Nothing came out of the meeting as far as I am concerned," Mayor Joseph said. "There was a lot of discussion but nothing really was solved," he said.

The two-hour meeting was attended by Joseph, Morrison, and Commissioners Carl Brown, Charles Yarbrough, Edmund Eaman, Alfred Williams and Arnold Dolin.

Commissioner Eaman called the meeting "helpful" and said it did not turn out to a "knock down, drag out fight."

Commissioner Williams said the meeting "really didn't accomplish anything and said "the rift between the two remains about the same."

Morrison said "It isn't my place to comment about it (the meeting)."

The meeting last night was called by city commissioners after Joseph went on an attack of Morrison Monday night at the city commission meeting and suggested that the city manager's contract be terminated.

Joseph accused Morrison of "blatant and irresponsible action" in dealing with the press.

No new meeting was scheduled to air out the conflict between the mayor and the city manager. Joseph said he "hopes another meeting could be set where we can sit down and talk about some of the problems I'm concerned about."

SJHS Graduate Earns Doctorate

Harris Whitney Lindenfeld, a graduate of St. Joseph high school, received his doctorate in musical arts this week Monday from Cornell University.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Beta G. Lindenfeld, 4642 West Alice, Stevensville, attended commencement on the Cornell campus at Ithaca, N.Y.

Already the composer of several published works, one of which won the top fine arts prize at the University of Virginia in 1972, Dr. Lindenfeld plans to continue composing and teaching. He has been assistant band instructor at Cornell.

Dr. Lindenfeld is 30 and married to the former Miss Lois Hirschberger of Syracuse, Ind. His wife was a special education teacher in the Benton Harbor schools at the time of their marriage. They have one child, a daughter.

Dr. Lindenfeld obtained his bachelor and master's degrees in music from the University of Virginia, Charlottesville. Mrs. Lindenfeld received her bachelor's in special education from Purdue and her master's in the same field from the University of Virginia.

TC Symphony Chooses New Leaders

MRS. JEROME (SUZANNE) WARREN
Twin Cities Symphonic Society President

Society President

The board of directors for the Twin Cities Symphonic Society, Inc., which sponsors the Twin Cities Symphony orchestra, has elected Mrs. Jerome (Suzanne) Warren as its new president.

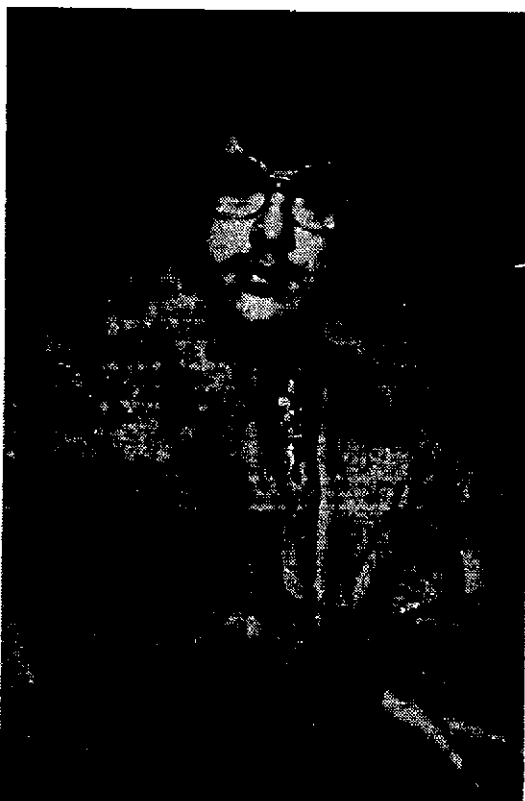

Mrs. Warren succeeds Dr. Walter Browe, who served the society as president for the past four years.

Other new officers are Frederick Schultz, first vice president; Mrs. Harold W. Fowler, second vice president; Mrs. Edwin E. Dwan, third vice president; Mrs. Ray Hansen, secretary; Mrs. Stanley O. Miller, treasurer, and Miss Carolyn Nickel, director.

Mrs. Warren received a bachelor of music degree in music education from the University of Michigan and is a former public school music teacher. She now teaches voice, piano and flute privately.

She is a member of the board of Monday Musical club and serves as an advisor for the Junior Monday Musical club. She is also a member of the University of Michigan Alumnae club, Antiquarian and Historical society, Chancel choir of First Congregational United Church of Christ, St. Joseph, Cathedral Choral Society and Camerata Singers.

Mrs. Warren has appeared in the Twin City Players' productions of "The King and I,"

ROBERT VODNOY
New Resident-Conductor

"The Sound of Music," and "Kiss Me Kate." She has also been soloist with the Twin Cities Symphony orchestra, St. Joseph Municipal Band, Monday Musical club and various area churches. Mrs. Warren, her husband, Jerome, and three teenage children, Steve, Rick and Lorri, reside at 2608 South State street, St. Joseph.

Resident Conductor

Robert Vodnoy of South Bend, Ind., has been named resident conductor of the Twin Cities Symphony orchestra.

Vodnoy, who was guest conductor for the orchestra in February, will take the post vacated two years ago by Hendrick de Blij.

The orchestra has for the past two seasons been led by guest conductors as the board of directors of the Twin Cities Symphony Society, sponsors of the orchestra, searched for a new resident conductor.

When Vodnoy, 28, conducted the orchestra in February, the concert was highlighted by a dramatic performance by the orchestra of Beethoven's "Symphony No. 7."

Vodnoy began his musical training at the age of six studying piano with his mother and later violin with Edwyn Hames. His conducting debut came at the age of 15 when he led the Interlochen Arts Academy orchestra in a performance of his own composition.

He received a diploma from the North Carolina School of the Arts for violin, composition and conducting. He conducted premieres of the ballet, "Rituals" and a chamber opera, and won first prize in composition awarded by the University of North Carolina.

He spent two summers conducting in Siena, Italy, and has participated as violinist and conductor at Pierre Montoux's Domaine School in Hancock, Maine.

Vodnoy, who will move to the twin cities in July, earned his bachelor of music, summa cum laude, and his master of music degrees in composition from Hartt College of Music of the University of Hartford. He was assistant conductor of the Greater Hartford Youth orchestra, co-founder of the Hartford Chamber orchestra, and professional violinist in the Hartford symphony. He was awarded the Zucker prize in composition by the University of Hartford in 1969.

His most recent appearance as a guest conductor was with the St. Louis Philharmonic last May 1. He has also served as music director for the Simsbury Players and as conductor of the Winston-Salem Youth orchestra.

Vodnoy has been studying for his doctorate degree at Indiana university, where he was on a fellowship for the past year.

He previously served as an associate instructor at Indiana university and as an assistant instructor at Hartt college of music.

He has signed a three-year contract with the Twin Cities Symphony orchestra.

Say Vows

MRS. KENNETH FLEMMER
Brenda Wernick

BERRIEN SPRINGS — The father of the bride, Elder Francis W. Wernick, performed the ceremony for the marriage Wednesday, June 4, of Miss Brenda Kay Wernick and Kenneth Dale Flemmer at Pioneer Memorial church, Andrews university.

Elder and Mrs. Wernick reside at route 1, Box 374-A, Berrien Springs. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Leo Flemmer, Lehr, N.D.

The bride wore an empire ivory polyester organza gown trimmed with venise lace daisies and designed with a ruffled edged skirt and chapel train. A matching lace and pearl trimmed Camelot headpiece held her elbow length veil and she carried a cascade of white roses, daisies and stephanotis.

Miss Carolyn Wernick was maid of honor for her sister. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Joe Christoffel, Miss Connie Schwarz, Miss Alice Hutchinson and Miss Yvonne Flemmer, sister of the groom. Junior attendant was Jolene Flemmer, sister of the groom.

Candlelighters were Coreen Flemmer, sister of the groom, and Kimber Flemmer, brother of the groom.

Kelly Eick served as best man. Ushers were Mike Nickless, Robert Wernick, brother of the bride, Leroy Schweigert and Clifton Kahler.

A reception was held at the Andrews university campus center.

The bride graduated from Andrews university with a major in elementary education and a minor in library science, and has attended graduate school in education at AU. Her husband will receive his bachelor of arts degree with an English major and German minor from AU in August, after which the couple will reside in Osaka, Japan, where they will teach English at the Language School in Osaka.

Outdoor Wedding

THREE OAKS — A blossoming apple orchard in Oshkosh was the setting May 17 for the wedding of Mrs. Kathy McEntier and Mark Hellenega. The Rev. John Hoos of Oshkosh performed the ceremony.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. James Sudman of Oshkosh. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Hellenega, Three Oaks.

The bride wore a beige lace gown trimmed in embroidery. A Juliette cap held her lace veil.

Mrs. Darlene Holisek was matron of honor. Ramon Baca served as best man. Usher was Ken Hellenega, brother of the groom.

A reception was held on the lawn of the bride's home in Oshkosh.

The bride is a student at Kalamazoo Valley Community college. Her husband is a student at Western Michigan university and is employed at First National Bank of Kalamazoo. He served four years in the United States Air Force, with a tour of duty over seas.

Following a wedding trip to Gatlinburg, Tenn., the couple is making their home in Oshkosh.

Personal Convenience Outweighing Concern

EAST LANSING — Consumer purchases of nonreturnable soft drink containers show that their interest in personal convenience continues to outweigh their concern for the environment, says James F. Brooks, chief executive officer of Brooks Products, Inc., which includes beverage bottling.

Traditionally, the returnable soft drink container was returned and reused 30 or more times. But when a large 16-ounce returnable bottle was introduced two years ago in some areas of Michigan, it was reused only four times.

"The venture was not successful because the consumer would not bring the container back," Brooks explains. "Saving money is not enough of a motive for a consumer to return bottles. He must feel guilty when he wastes a container rather than returning it for reuse."

"In today's society, we're losing the stigma on waste that for generations influenced such decisions."

Proposed laws to eliminate litter by requiring container deposits would force the beverage industry to use only returnable containers.

"But litter is a people problem — not a container problem," Brooks says.

Most littering — disposing of trash improperly — is done by a few people, and solving the problem will involve educating people not to litter. Brooks urges small, logical fines for littering.

"Then the courts should enforce these fines and publicize the names of the offenders."

"Today's social mores were not created in a short time. Being realistic, it will take appropriate time to adjust, but I believe it is beginning to happen."

Name Scout For Tour

ANNE PETHE

COLOMA — Anne L. Pethe, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Pethe, 304 Tannery drive, Coloma, has been selected as one of 125 Girl Scouts throughout the 50 states to attend "Dallas Presents: Fashion Careers, Creating through Consumerism," a wider-opportunity career exploration event.

Sponsored by the Texas Girl Scout Council in Dallas, Texas, the event will be held June 12-17.

Miss Pethe, a Girl Scout for nine years, is a member of the Singing Sands Girl Scout Council. A sophomore at Coloma high school, she is active in the drama club, yearbook staff and was a pompon girl this year. Last summer she was selected from the Singing Sands Council to go on the "Wyoming Trek" held at National Center West, Ten Sleep, Wyo.

While in Dallas, Anne will go through a dress factory to see how clothes are made, visit the huge Dallas Apparel Mart building, see designers of famous fashions at work, and watch and learn from professional models what it really means to be a model. She will visit the stockroom of one of Dallas' high-fashion stores to watch the uncrating, pricing and placing of newly-arrived fashions, then see how a fashion advertisement is conceived, written and illustrated. She will also have the opportunity to discuss essential training, education, job potential and salary possibilities with professionals in the fashion field.

While in Dallas, the Girl Scouts involved in fashion career exploration will live in a dormitory at Southern Methodist university. For recreation, they will be taken on tours of the Dallas-Fort Worth metroplex, visit Six Flags Over Texas, go on week-end camping spree, visit a dinner theatre, and see a real Texas rodeo.

Wrinkle Free Vacation

NEW YORK (NEA) — Ever get to your dream vacation resort and find you had "nothing to wear" or that everything was a mass of wrinkles?

It doesn't have to be, since, as the travel-wise know, every successful vacation starts at home — with the packing of your suitcase. The following tips, supplied by the Tourist Board of the island of Bonaire, Dutch Antilles, are oriented toward the Caribbean, but are equally applicable to other popular vacation destinations.

The degree of formality of your destination is all important. Do check this out with your travel agent, the hotel representative or tourist offices. The Dutch Caribbean islands, for instance, are generally casual, although you can dress up a bit in the evening if you like. Men are not required to wear jackets and ties in most places, but at least one of each should be included in packing.

Aim for double duty by taking tops that go with a basic pant or skirt and of course plan around a central color scheme. Accessories can vary the wardrobe, too. Naturally, choose care-free, travel fabrics.

Pack two extra sets of lingerie — one to wash and one to spare. Two pairs of shoes in addition to your travel sandals; beach clogs that can double as bedroom slippers plus a dressier evening shoe. Your tote bag can be used as a beach bag and take along a small evening clutch.

For a week's stay at any one resort plan on two changes per day. And that doesn't mean different outfits — take advantage of your mix and match sets. Add two bathing suits with cover-ups and you're set — secure that you're appropriately dressed and haven't brought all the wrong things or more than you need.

No system of packing is completely wrinkle-proof but there is a practical one which lets you use available space efficiently. Most veteran travelers find that a suitcase and tote bag suffice for up to a two-week trip. Cosmetics and breakables plus extra sandals are best in the tote. Pack your bag in sections with all similar things together. They'll be easier to find.

All heavy items should be at the bottom of your case where it hinges so that they do not become dislodged and work into your neatly packed clothing. Remember also to distribute the weight evenly to avoid shifting. Soft rollable items can fit into the toes of shoes or into purses to save space.

In folding dresses, pants and suits start with the most crushable. Fold lengthwise, front down, in three sections, following body lines. Place in case with collar or pant top touching bottom edge and hanging over the opposite side of the case. Place your other dresses folded the same way, in opposite directions, with the ends hanging over the edge of the case. Place non-wrinkle knits in the center. Then place rolled scarves, lingerie, bathing suits, etc. at the sides of the case where the garments will fold to help buffer the crease when you fold them back over one another, layer after layer, smoothing wrinkles as you go. Your most crushable (with which you started on the bottom) will be the last to fold over and therefore will have the most protection.

Now you're ready to be on your way with perfect assurance. But don't forget your sun lotion, for although the sun can be a blessing it can also be a vacation-spoiler. So lather yourself up and enjoy your resort vacation.

ATTENTION!

Future Brides

Brides-to-be planning engagement announcements and wedding stories in this newspaper are asked to observe the following rules:

Engagement and wedding forms are available in the women's department at The Herald-Palladium offices in Benton Harbor or St. Joseph. The pertinent information should be typed or plainly printed in filling out these forms to prevent errors.

Wedding forms should be picked up at least two weeks and turned in one week before the wedding is to take place.

When wedding information is sent within two months of the engagement announcement date, only ONE picture will be run. The bride-to-be may have her choice.

Use proper names — not nicknames. In wedding information, use husband's names for married attendants.

Only pictures of the bride in her wedding dress will be used. Formal glossy black and white portraits are preferred.

Engagement and wedding pictures are usually available at this newspaper office after publication for a short time.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Not All Politicians Crooked

Dear Ann Landers: My father is the person I love most in all the world. I respect him above all other men. I know he is honest and works long hours for a very meager salary. He is a state senator.

Throughout my high school education (I'm a 16-year-old girl) I have had it drummed into my head that politics is a dirty business and people in government are all corrupt and dishonest. Every time I hear one of my friends, or worse yet, a teacher make this ignorant accusation, I cringe.

Most people don't have the faintest idea of the hard work people in politics do. Just because a few dozen characters in Washington went wrong it doesn't mean politics is dirty and ALL politicians are crooked. Please tell them there are still plenty of decent, respectable men in office. Open their eyes. Ann. Sign me — Of The People

Dear Friend: I know several extremely fine people in politics in both parties — at every level — city, state and national. I too, resent the implication that all politicians are crooked. Furthermore, I seriously doubt that there are more rotten eggs in politics than in other fields — medicine, law, business, labor unions, farming, etc. Politicians receive more publicity because what they do makes news.

We mustn't lose sight of the fact that politicians are elected by US — the people. If we put crooks and liars in high places it's our fault when things get loused up. People get the kind of government they deserve.

Red Faced

Dear Ann Landers: I'm sure you'll think this is silly compared with the serious letters that cross your desk every day, but I need to know if blushing is a physical problem or an emotional problem.

Can you tell me if there is anything a person can do to overcome blushing? Thanks for your help. — Little Pinky in Fort Wayne

Dear Pinky: Blushing is the physical manifestation of an emotional problem. When something occurs that causes discomfort (guilt or embarrassment — feelings of inadequacy or frustration), the blood supply mechanism goes into action and the result can be a red face.

You can do nothing about blushing because it's not in the realm of "controllable impulses."

The following day when she went home she discovered her husband had left and taken most of the furniture with him. (Must

The grand slam force was invented by Ely Culbertson about 40 years ago. The bid, designed to find out how good partner's trumps were, was too advanced for that day. But it has been revived and put in every expert's bidding kit today.

South intends to bid six if North shows no aces, but North shows one ace and South is interested in seven.

He doesn't want to bid it, North might have jumped without the king of clubs. How can he ask North to bid seven?

He starts proceedings by bidding five spades. This bid says in theory, "We are one ace short for six. Bid five notrump and play it there."

North bids five notrump and now South goes to six clubs. He has delivered a second message which is, "We have enough aces for seven. Bid seven if you think your trumps are good enough."

North's trumps are good enough and he bids seven. There is a little play to the hand, but with trumps breaking 2-1 and spades 4-2 South is able to draw trumps, ruff out one spade, discard two diamonds from dummy and finally ruff his small diamond.

CARD SENSE

Special Luncheon June 12

DOUGLAS — Women from the Douglas, Saugatuck and Holland areas will hold a noon luncheon and style show Thursday, June 12, at Point West, Holland.

Ruthanna Alexander Metzgar, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Henry Clay Alexander of Ganges, will present a program of music and speaking. The Rev. Alexander is pastor of the Community church, Douglas.

Paine Farms Shop, Allegan, will be in charge of the style show following the luncheon.

Tickets are $3.50 per person and may be secured by contacting Mrs. Cleg Beilfuss, Ganges, Mrs. Paul VanVorst, Douglas, or Mrs. Vi Galpin, Douglas.

Mrs. Metzgar, of Seattle, Wash., is a 1962 graduate of Fennville high school. She received her bachelor of music degree from University of Michigan in 1966 and her master's degree in voice and choral conducting from U-M in 1967. She spent eight summers at the National Music Camp at Interlochen.

In 1972-73 Mrs. Metzgar was director of the Phoenix Choir, Baltimore, Md. She is presently a homemaker, and speaker for Christian Women's Clubs International on the West Coast and in Canada.

PREVENT WRINKLING
To prevent wax paper from wrinkling or slipping when rolling out pie crust, moisten the counter top underneath the paper with a damp cloth.

Women's Weekend Workshop

BUCHANAN — The women of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ will hold a workshop Friday and Saturday, June 6 and 7, at the church.

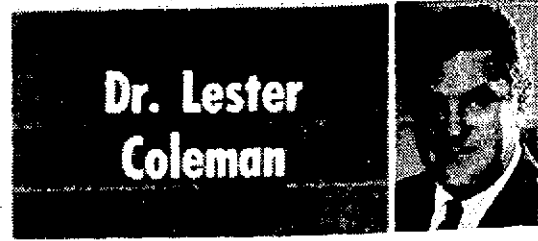

The public is invited.

Mrs. Loretta Marshall of Rockford, Ill., will be guest speaker during the workshop sessions. Her topic will be "Word of Wisdom." She has conducted workshops throughout the United States.

Classes will be held Friday at 8 p.m., followed by refreshments, and classes will begin Saturday at 9:30 a.m. A salad and casserole luncheon of health foods will be served at noon Saturday, followed by more class meetings.

Workshops will include demonstrations on how to make bread and rolls, nutritional recipes, and sprouting seeds.

Mrs. Victor Canfield, women's department leader, is general chairman for the event, assisted by Mrs. Kenneth Jones.

Dr. Lester Coleman

I could hardly believe it when we were told that our 11-year-old girl has a stomach ulcer. Do you think I should get another doctor's opinion before beginning treatment?
Mrs. G.G.E., Washington, D.C.

Dear Mrs. E.:
It is not commonly known that peptic ulcers of the stomach and the duodenum can occur early in childhood. Because of the relative infrequency, many of the symptoms that so closely resemble ordinary "belly aches" are not associated with the possibility of an ulcer.

One of the characteristics of these ulcers is that the pain is relieved by eating. Children are less likely than adults to be aware of this cycle of pain and relief.

Far too often, such pains in children are attributed rather quickly to the "ice cream - and - pickle" kind of overindul-gence.

Physicians today give special credence to the possibility of stomach ulcers when such symptoms persist for a long time. The same methods of study used for adults are used to reveal ulcers in children.

Barium X-rays safely and quickly reveal the presence or absence of these ulcers. If this was done for your child and the diagnosis confirmed, there is no need for an additional opinion. Yet, if you need that second opinion for greater personal assurance, or for further confirmation, I am certain that your doctor would welcome such consultation.

Far too many people make the mistake of seeking an additional opinion independent of their own doctor. This leads to duplication of tests, waste of time and money. And it frequently disrupts the valuable relationship between patients and their physicians.

Country Kid Makes Good--As A Model

By JURATE KAZICKAS
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Last fall, Margaux Hemingway, 19-year-old hot-dog skier from Ketchum, Idaho, was casting about, looking for something to do.

Today, Margaux is the latest pretty face peering out of just about every major fashion magazine in the country. She just signed a million-dollar advertising contract with Fabergé, getting more money than the likes of long-established model Lauren Hutton of Revlon.

It's been quite a transformation: from drifting drop-out (killing time as an au pair girl for actor George C. Scott and "go-fer" for stuntman Evel Knievel at Snake River Canyon) to millionaire perfume pusher. It was accomplished with some luck, public relations and the fortuitous appearance of a hot, new personality with a famous last name.

The granddaughter of novelist Ernest Hemingway and daughter of an Idaho conservationist, Margaux is ingenious and corn-fed pretty. She's almost six feet tall (she likes to describe her height as 5-foot-12), has blondish hair, ice green eyes, a snub nose, dimples and a generous mouth that in motion shows more gums than teeth. Margaux is giddy from the excitement of these last months.

How did it all happen? "I'm just a country kid with style, honesty and good timing," says Margaux.

But her rapid rise to celebrity model status would probably still be earthbound if it weren't for a story book romance with Errol Wetson, New York gadabout and king of his own hamburger empire.

Wetson, who looks like a brunet version of actor Gene Wilder, is the kind of guy who doesn't like to give his age (early 30's) and wears his body-hugging shirts unbuttoned down the front.

Wetson talks endlessly about their relationship — his first encounter with the gorgeous Margaux in the Palm Court of the Plaza, the preliminary flirtation in an elevator, the weekend of champagne and roses.

Wetson took Margaux — decked out in corduroys, boots, and a Nepalese shirt — to a party in September attended by models, photographers and agents. Suddenly, everyone was asking: "Who is that girl?" And suddenly that girl was rising out of the sea on the cover of Town and Country magazine. And in its pages languishing around her grandfather's haunts in Key West. And grinning wickedly from the cover of Vogue, photographed by camera geniuses such as Richard Avedon and Francesco Scavullo.

Said Scavullo: "I loved photographing her. She was born beautiful. Anything you do to her is just an accessory to her beauty. She has the personality, the enthusiasm and the drive to make it. She's got the ball, and she should run with it."

On one recent day, Margaux, in a granny gown, her hair pinned in little bunches, was euddled up at Errol's feet in their hotel suite.

"Margaux, what do you think is the key to your success?" the reporter asks.

"Unlimited looks, talent, super ability. This girl has everything," Errol answers.

"Margaux, how does it feel to be famous and rich?" the interviewer asks.

"Money bores us," replies Errol, who grimaces at any comparison of Margaux and him with Twiggy, the doll model of the '60s, and her mentor, Justin de Villeneuve.

"This is not a business deal, this is a love affair," Errol says. Margaux beams.

At a recent Fabergé press conference, the promoters described her with boundless enthusiasm: "Young, vivacious, feminine, pretty exciting, a great girl, the hottest property around today."

State Education Official To Talk

BUCHANAN — Dr. Gorton Riethmiller, vice president of the Michigan board of education, will give the address at commencement for Buchanan high school seniors Friday, June 6. His message to the 133 members of the graduating class is titled, "First Class Citizens."

The ceremonies will be held at 8 p.m. at Memorial field if the weather permits. If it rains after 2 p.m. that day the ceremonies will be held in the high school gymnasium, as the field and bleachers will be too wet.

Dr. Riethmiller is president emeritus of Olivet college, where he served as president for 13 years. He was appointed to the state board of education in 1969.

Puritans Laid Groundwork For Revolution In 1630

By DANIEL Q. HANEY
Associated Press Writer

Almost 150 years before the American Revolution, God-fearing Englishmen were laying down the principles of New World democracy and the groundwork for open rebellion still generations away.

They sailed into the crude hamlet of Salem in the colony of Massachusetts Bay on a spring day 345 years ago. John Winthrop, the straitlaced leader of these Church of England Puritans, envisioned "a city upon a hill," a model of Christian good living for the decadence back home.

It was June 12, 1630. Within 75 years, the intense power of these pious people over the whims and ways of their fellow settlers would be eroded by succeeding waves of immigrants. But the strength of their convictions and prejudices would leave a profound imprint on the character of American life — through the War for Independence, the westward expansion, and into modern times.

The traditional American respect for work and education, determination, representative government in America — all have their roots in this opening phase of a radical religious experiment.

The Puritans' list of New World accomplishments includes the first college, first public school, first printing press and first organized industry.

Under the guidance of Winthrop, 400 of them glided into Salem Harbor and found a band of hollow-eyed countrymen living in squalid wigwams and tents. Within months, they moved to Charlestown and then to the ideally located Shawmut Peninsula, which they named Boston.

There evolved a form of government that became the standard for the colonies, the states and the nation that followed.

The Puritan leaders took the royal charter of the Massachusetts Bay Co., the investors who backed the expedition, and turned it into a constitution for democratic government. The stockholders of the corporation became the voting public of the colony. Their meetings, held quarterly, were called the General Court.

The company had a governor, a deputy governor and 18 assistants who managed affairs between meetings of the General Court. As the charter became a blueprint for government, the assistants acted as a legislative assembly and the governor as chief of state.

Slowly, almost by accident, democracy grew. The voters, all church-going men, earned the right to elect the governor. They turned the General Court into a he planned to let into Heaven. One hint was wealth. The Puritans thought God rewarded those he liked with material possessions. This belief encouraged them to work hard and acquire as much as they could. It made toil a religious must.

"An hour's idleness is as bad as an hour's drunkenness," said the Rev. Hugh Peter of Salem.

The respect for labor and wealth lingered long after the spiritual reason for it faded away.

Comfort was another matter. The Puritans abhorred all excesses except dedication to God. Winthrop, the bearded, sharp-faced leader of the Puritans, believed he should indulge in physical pleasure only as a break from work so that he could go back to his labor harder than before.

He wrote in his journal, "O Lord, crucify the world unto me, that though I cannot avoid to live among the baits and snares of it, yet it may be so truly dead unto me and I unto it as I may no otherwise love, use or delight in any the most pleasant, profitable, etc., earthly comforts of this life than I do the air which I continually draw in or the earth which I tread upon or the sky which I ever behold."

The Puritans also believed that religion should stand the test of reason as well as Scripture. But to nitpick a holy point, people had to know what the legislature, with elected representatives from each town, who made laws limiting the power of their leaders.

By 1644, the General Court had separated into two houses, and the little colony had something like a modern state government.

The Puritans adopted a "Body of Liberties" that spelled out such rights as jury trial, no taxation without representation and free elections.

There were 100 provisions in all, and many of them were later incorporated into the Bill of Rights of the Constitution.

However, the Puritans had not left the Old World to seek political freedom. They left to prove that a pure religious community was viable, and their faith permeated every aspect of life in early New England.

The Puritans believed that man's fate was preordained. Only a select few would be saved by God, and there was nothing anyone could do about it. However God hinted at whom

ONE MYTH associated with the birth of the American flag in 1777 is that the new standard immediately took its place at the head of the American troops. Nothing is further from the truth. The privilege of carrying the American flag was granted to the various Army services only much later, beginning with the Artillery in 1834. Flags with the devices of stars and stripes have been carried by American forces since the War of Independence, but they were regimental banners, not the national flag. The World Almanac notes.

TV Networks Accused Of 'Maltreatment'

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Ever get ticked off when two top-quality TV specials are aired by competing networks at the same time? You're not alone. John E. O'Toole is right in there griping with you.

So what, you say? Well, he also happens to be the president of a major advertising agency — Foote, Cone & Belding, the eighth-largest in the United States in terms of billings in both print and broadcast media.

In a March newsletter to his firm's employees, he groused about what he called the networks' "maltreatment" of viewers in putting quality specials on against each other in the same time period.

He cited two examples — the Feb. 4 showing by NBC of "All Creatures Great and Small" at the same time ABC offered "Death Be Not Proud." On March 6, he said, ABC offered "Love Among the Ruins" at the same time CBS was showing "Twigs."

He asked why, after enduring nights of routine TV fare, "must I suddenly select from a largesse of riches?"

In a phone interview last week, viewer O'Toole said two factors are responsible for this sort of thing happening in TV.

He said one is that the networks realize there's a stillsmall, but gradually increasing, audience of educated, affluent and interested viewers who prefer quality specials to the usual weekly fare.

The networks tend to pit special against special on a given night lest a solo special have this select audience all to itself, he said.

The other factor, he continued, is the Federal Communications Commission's primetime access rule, which currently limits network entertainment programming on week nights to only three hours during the prime evening period most people watch TV.

"There's less prime time available now," he said. "And your quality specials go on for 90 minutes, sometimes two hours, and that knocks out most of the evening's regular network shows."

"I believe the audience for this kind of (special) program is growing. Therefore, if there are more of them but less prime time available, we're more likely to see them up against each other."

He said he had two wishes. One is that the networks "would realize that they're probably discouraging clients from sponsoring this kind of show by dividing the audience" with competing specials.

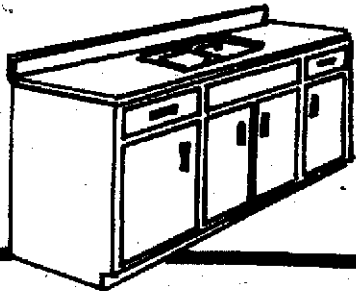

Wish two, he said, "is that the FCC would see — to be charitable — the lack of wisdom in its prime-time access ruling."

O'Toole, whose clients include Hallmark Cards, sponsor of NBC's "Hallmark Hall of Fame" specials, was asked if there's anything the major advertising agencies can do about the situation.

He had bad news for viewers. "Not a thing," he sighed. "If we could, 'Death Be Not Proud' wouldn't have been up against our Hall of Fame special — 'All Creatures Great and Small' — that night. But there's not a thing you can do."

"The networks schedule their own programming and we can't interfere with that."

Higher Benefits May Begin Soon

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — About 450,000 of Michigan's 600,000 jobless are expected to begin receiving higher benefits next week under a measure sent to the governor Wednesday.

The bill increases weekly compensation checks by up to $30 a week, boosts assessments against employers and toughens penalties for people who quit their jobs or are fired for cause.

Votes of 22-11 in the Senate and 85-20 in the House sent the measure to Gov. William Milliken.

The bill is a compromise hammered out after the governor threatened to veto a Democratic version that would have cost business some $240 million a year. The new bill is expected to cost $100 million less.

Milliken said he expected to sign the measure before the weekend, thus allowing the increases to take effect next week.

The bill increases benefits from 55 to 60 per cent of the worker's former average weekly wage. Workers in their first 39 weeks of benefits would be eligible for the increases.

The maximum a worker with four or more dependents could receive is $136 a week, up from $106. A single worker would get a maximum of $97; with one dependent, the maximum would be $107; with two dependents, $119; with three dependents, $128.

The bill also increases the base on which employers pay compensation tax from $4,200 to $5,400, beginning Jan. 1.

In addition, the disqualification time, in increased for workers who are fired for various reasons.

The waiting period for receiving benefits would increase from six to 13 weeks for a worker fired for misconduct; from 13 weeks to total disqualification for a worker fired for sabotage or theft costing more than $25 or for physical assault, and increase from six to 13 weeks, effective Dec. 1, for a worker who voluntarily quits the job.

The measure retains the present 12-week waiting period for a worker fired for sabotage or theft costing less than $25.

The rate scale and tax base increases were the key provisions of the Democratic version. Republicans insisted on toughening the penalties to disqualify more workers and save business some money.

Business objected that the Democratic proposal would drive many of them out of business and place the state at a further competitive disadvantage in attracting industry and providing jobs.

The Democratic proposal was passed by the legislature last month but was recalled from the governor's desk to avoid the threatened veto.

Estimates On Budget Called 'Out Of Line'

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Current legislative proposals for the state budget would push the total $200 million above his recommendations, Gov. William Milliken says.

Appropriations committees in both houses are trying to put together a budget, with funds short and needs growing. House Speaker Bobby Crim, D-Davison, has said budget increases will be little more than enough to keep pace with inflation.

But Milliken said Wednesday current budget estimates are way out of line. He has proposed a $3 billion budget for fiscal 1975-76 which begins July 1.

There is no chance a new budget will be adopted by then and some legislators are preparing to work until late July.

"I would hope that in the weeks ahead we can continue to work together to keep a lid on state spending and, therefore, on state taxation," Milliken said in a taped interview over WKAR radio.

Milliken noted Michigan residents already have had income taxes raised this year.

"Michigan taxpayers have already had to absorb one tax adjustment this year ... I am calling on the legislature to exercise restraint," Milliken said.

Pending Insanity Laws Supported

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Mental health legislation now pending would help prevent dangerous criminals from being set free to commit more crimes, says a state official at the center of the controversy.

Dr. Ames Robey, director of the Center for Forensic Psychiatry in Ypsilanti, said at least two former patients now accused of other crimes might not have been set free if they had been committed under the pending legislation.

Contained in the proposal is a new jury verdict for criminal insanity cases and a new definition of mental illness.

One of the men Robey mentioned, Gary Taylor, has been charged with one murder and has admitted to three others since his 1973 release from the forensic center. Taylor was committed after a series of sniping incidents involving women.

The other man, John McGee, is charged with the beating death of his wife following his release by a Wayne County jury under a recent Supreme Court ruling. McGee had been found innocent of murder by reason of insanity.

Robey, who has been criticized for his role in releasing Taylor, said Wednesday there was no way the state could have foreseen Taylor's later behavior since he showed no signs of mental illness while in custody. And while McGee "was clearly mentally ill," his illness was not connected to his crimes, Robey said.

But, Robey said, the proposed law may avert such occurrences in the future by holding in custody criminals who are judged insane even if their illness is not related to the crime.

UPON THIS ROCK

"Wherefore, my beloved, as ye have always obeyed, not as in my presence only, but now much more in my absence, work out your own salvation with fear and trembling." Phil. 2:12

Paul praised those Christians for their obedience to the gospel and exhorted them to continue to work out their salvation with fear and trembling. They had faith in God but there were also things which they had to do for their salvation. And what they had to do they were to do earnestly, with fear and trembling. So must we today.

There are works that Christians must do for salvation, works of faith. There are also works that one must do to become a Christian. We do not earn salvation nor merit it by OUR works (Eph. 2:8-9). Salvation is FREE, but on God's terms. His terms are faith in Jesus (John 6:29), repentance from sin (Acts 17:30), confession of Jesus (Rom. 10:9-10), and baptism in water (Mark 16:13-16). Then after becoming a Christian one must continue to do the will of God (1 Cor. 15:38).

Will you, by faith in Jesus, do the commandments of God? to work out your salvation with fear and trembling? We hope that you will. If you have any questions on this article please write to us.

Area Damage Light; Ottawa Takes Brunt Of Hail Storm

By JERRY KRIEGER
County-Farm Editor

A prolonged rain and electrical storm, laced with a light touch of hail in some areas, caused generally minor, scattered damage through most of southwestern Michigan last night.

But in Ottawa county north of Holland, the same storm produced hailstones that smashed windows and windshields in houses and cars, and broke through the roofs of at least a couple homes.

An Ottawa county civil defense spokesman reported he personally saw many hailstones the size of baseballs, and added that many reports were received of hailstones as large as softballs. One report, he said, was of a hailstone six to seven inches in diameter.

Seventy mobile homes north of Holland lost all their windows on the west side, and the windshields of numerous cars were broken. Aluminum-sided houses and the metal bodies of many cars in the heavy hail area were badly battered. The civil defense spokesman said his own car was "all hills and valleys".

One injury was reported from the Ottawa county barrage of oversized hail. An unidentified man suffered cuts and a possible broken arm and shock after the icy missiles broke into his house trailer.

A brief round of light hail fell in the Twin Cities and north central part of Berrien county after 10 p.m. as the storm moved in off of Lake Michigan.

A tornado and severe weather watch was posted until 11 P.m. by the National Weather Service, and then was extended until after 5 a.m. today. No tornadoes were reported, although unusually heavy lightning kept the sky alight for some hours. Rainfall ranged from .15 of inch to slightly over a half-inch.

Indiana & Michigan Electric Co. reported scattered, minor power outages, caused mainly by tree limbs being broken down across power lines. Entire trees toppled in several locations.

Lightning may have been the cause of a fire that destroyed a swimming pool bath and pump house in Sodus township about 1:30 a.m. Sodus Fire Chief Calvin Bennett, Jr., said his department was hampered by a power outage at the scene. The fire occurred at the residence of William Shumacher, 3032 St. Joseph River drive, who estimated the loss around $10,000.

Funnel clouds, high winds, hail and heavy rains danced across Southeastern Lower Michigan and a tornado was reported near Clio in Genesee County. Much of the rest of the southern Lower Peninsula was pelted with thunderstorms and put on alert for tornadoes.

Two homes and a doctors office were gutted by fires blamed on lightning strikes. There were no injuries. One house was south of Bay City, the other northwest of Port Huron. The doctors office was in Mt. Pleasant.

The Mt. Pleasant fire spread to an adjacent beverage distributing company. There was no estimate of damage in the fire, but both houses were gutted, according to authorities.

The National Weather Service said one funnel cloud was seen in Macomb County, headed toward St. Clair County, which was put under a tornado warning. The other funnel was seen near Union Lake in Oakland County. Neither touched down.

Near Memphis in St. Clair County, winds flattened a barn, but the cattle and horses inside were not injured. And winds uprooted a 100-foot tall tree that was eight feet in diameter near Smith's Creek, also in St. Clair County.

Winds in the Macomb sighting area were reported as high as 90 miles per hour with some large trees downed. Trees also were downed in the Clio area but no other damage was reported.

TEARFUL MEETING: Mary Childs cries in Los Angeles, Calif., Wednesday as she is handed an 8-month-old girl who may be her own child. Mrs. Childs was told that she had delivered a stillborn baby but investigators are exploring the chance that her baby was born alive and taken by a nurse. ## Malpractice May Be Arbitrated

Under the current legal system, malpractice suits often take more than four years to settle.

Forty per cent take more than two years to settle and one in five take more than four years, according to data gathered by House staff.

All patients would be offered the arbitration option when they enter the hospital. Fulltime staff doctors at a hospital would be covered by the process, with other, less extensive arrangements made for outside doctors.

The Senate bill placing a time limit on suits says the two-year limit begins at the end of treatment or within a year after the patient becomes aware of poor treatment.

Since insurance companies have to reserve funds for malpractice suits which might be filed years after treatment is over, premium costs become higher, said Rep. Hal Zeigler, R-Jackson, sponsor of the bill.

"It (the bill) will probably preclude some people from bringing malpractice suits," said Michael Dively, deputy director of the Department of Commerce and an adviser to Gov. William Milliken on malpractice matters.

"But it will also give insurance companies knowledge they won't be confronted with suits coming in 10 and 15 years later. It allows them to avoid the necessity of anticipating claims way down the road."

The impact on rates is not expected to be "major," Dively said.

The other Senate bill is intended to encourage peer review by granting immunity to reviewers.

The Senate Judiciary Committee, meanwhile, reported out two other bills dealing with malpractice.

The first says only hospital employees guilty of "gross negligence" in an emergency situation would be liable. The second bill puts criminal penalties on the sale of medical information for the purpose of initiating a malpractice lawsuit.

Bargaining Rights Lost

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers union has lost exclusive bargaining rights for 450 employees at a Federal-Mogul Corp. plant in Hamilton, Ala., after a federal labor referee ordered a new election. The union won representation in a March election. However, the company contended the UAW misrepresented facts in pre-balling campaign literature and asked the National Labor Relations Board for a new election. An NLRB director ordered another vote, which was conducted last Friday, and the union lost 237 to 200. In the earlier balloting the union won by a margin of 252 to 199. The union has until Friday to appeal the results.

CIA Language Offends Church

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Senate intelligence committee says he resents the CIA's use of terms like "elimination with extreme prejudice" and "executive action" to describe murder plots against foreign leaders. "Everyone understands 'murder,'" Sen. Frank Church said Wednesday after asserting that his committee has "hard evidence" of CIA involvement in assassination plots. "I prefer the plain spoken language. These other words are intended to obfuscate what is in fact going on," Church said following a closed-door session with CIA Director William E. Colby.

British Euromart Vote Today

LONDON (AP) — Britons vote today in their first referendum in history to say whether they want to stay in the European Common Market. The final public opinion poll predicted a 2-to-1 "yes" vote. More than 40 million persons were eligible to vote in England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland, but the turnout was expected to be much smaller. Counting begins Friday morning, and the decision of those voting should be known by Friday afternoon. Throughout the campaign, opinion polls have indicated a sizable vote in favor of remaining in the European Economic Community (EEC), which Britain joined on Jan. 1, 1973, after death removed the chief obstacle to British membership, President Charles de Gaulle of France.

waterway that Egypt's accomplishments in the 1973 war "enabled us to turn the 5th of June from a day of sadness to one of ecstasy."

He said the armed forces would "remain fully alert to ensure the safety of the canal."

Sadat signed a decree putting the Suez Canal Authority in charge and handed it to the authority's chairman, Moshour Ahmed Moshour. Then he stepped from the orange-and-gold replica of a Pharaonic barge on which the ceremony was held, and a launch took him on a brief tour of the harbor while his guests were transferred to the destroyer Oct. 6, named for the 1973 war.

Shiphorns blared and the crowd of thousands cheered, then the gray warship fired a 21-gun salute as Sadat boarded it for an afternoon ride down the canal to Ismailia, the midpoint city.

In a second day of celebrations Friday, Sadat and his guests will complete the journey from the Mediterranean to the Red Sea.

After the celebrations, shipping convoys will start moving through the 106-year-old canal. The first will have only seven ships, but the Egyptian government is hopeful that eventually business will at least return to the 1967 volume of 60 ships a day.

Sadat was host to several hundred official guests for the celebration, including 14-year-old Crown Prince Reza Pahlavi of Iran; whose father, Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, has given Egypt more than a billion dollars since the October 1973 war with Israel.

Israel in an unexpected conciliatory move this week pulled back half of its troops and tanks and all of its artillery and missiles on its desert front line 12 miles east of the canal.

Sadat welcomed the Israeli move, but its unexpectedness was underlined Wednesday night by a Beirut broadcast in which he belligerently warned used Brown's card. He said only that he and Brown "are good friends."

Welch said he believes one other state senator besides Brown was interviewed by agents but no significant involvement was found.

Welch said Brown "was able to assist us and he furnished us with some records."

"We were developing some information and they were interviewed... Obviously, we are conducting an investigation but it isn't fair to say we're investigating them," Welch said.

"They said they were investigating some calls involved in the other (Swainson) investigation that allegedly or apparently were made on my telephone card," Brown said. "They didn't tell me which ones they were interested in. I really don't want to know."

Investigation of the bribery accusation against Swainson is headed by Robert Ozer, head of the U.S. Justice Department's Organized Crime Strike Force in Detroit.

Because of the probe, Swainson on May 22 removed himself from further Supreme Court business. He continues to draw his $43,500 annual salary.

Whalen was convicted Oct. 2, 1970, in a 1969 burglary. The Supreme court refused to review the case Sept. 7, 1972, and again Oct. 6, 1972.

However, 18 days later, Swainson proposed — and now Chief Justice Thomas G. Kavanagh seconded — a motion granting a review. On Dec. 18, 1973, the court ordered a new trial for Whalen, who again was convicted.

Lakeshore Girl 'Slips' From Contest

By JERRY KRIEGER
County-Farm Editor

Peggy Long, Berrien county's eighth grade spelling champion from Lakeshore junior high, stayed in the National Spelling Championship contest in Washington, D.C., Wednesday until only 32 champions from across the United States remained. Eighty-four had started. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Long, 1407 Brentwood, St. Joseph, finally missed, on a word that her dad had never even heard before. She called her father, operator of Dale Long's Barber shop, 2398 Cleveland avenue, late Wednesday and told him she knew how to spell the word. She said, however, a wrong letter slipped out of her lips and the contest rules did not allow her to retract the slip.

She and her mother will remain in Washington until Saturday, to see the televised finals of the contest today, and for a visit to the White House Friday and a tour of other historic sites.

Peggy, coached by Mrs. William Achterberg, English teacher at Lakeshore junior high school, was winner of the Berrien county junior high spelling contest conducted by the Cloverleaf Spelling Contest group representing 18 public and private schools in Berrien and Cass counties.

This is the first year the county champion has gone to the national contest, and Mrs. Achterberg said hopefully it will become annual followup to the county contest.

Man Is Accused Of Car Assault

Maurice G. Needham, 23, demanded examination when arraigned in Berrien Fifth District court Wednesday on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon (a car) against Deputy Sheriff Van Clark.

Needham of 757 Nickerson avenue, Benton township, also demanded examination on a charge of breaking and entering. He was jailed in lieu of posting $3,500 bonds for each charge.

The Metro Crime unit said the incident occurred at Fairplain Plaza parking lot Tuesday when officers approached Needham's car in connection with an investigation into a break in at the Fairplain Little League concession stand.

Needham drove off allegedly knocking Clark down and was apprehended following a chase through the lot when an officer pulled a gun. No shots were fired and Clark sought his own treatment for a minor injury.

Two BH Library Branches Post Summer Hours

Benton Harbor public library has announced a change of hours starting next Monday at neighborhood branches at 979 Waukenda avenue and 1609 Highland avenue. From next Monday until school resumes next fall, the two branches will be open from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Thursday; from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday; and from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, according to Michael McGuire, outreach coordinator for the library. The Morton annex branch at 809 Territorial road will continue to be open from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Thursday, and from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday. In addition to educational and recreational books, the neighborhood centers offer magazines, newspapers, cassette tapes, filmstrips, art prints and movies.

'Thinking' Signal To Be Installed At M-139, Napier

The busy intersection at M-139 and Napier avenue, Benton township, is getting "thinking" traffic signals this summer, the State Highway department announced.

The $40,000 installation will have the ability to sense and count traffic on each approach. This is done by electronic detectors buried in the roadway.

The department explained that during periods of light traffic, when only one car is waiting for a green light, the signal will assign only enough green time to clear the vehicle. If no car is waiting the signal will skip that approach and revert to lanes with traffic.

When traffic is heavy, the signal provides long green periods to clear backups.

The Kalamazoo area will get two of the signals while Lansing, East Lansing, Ann Arbor and Grand Rapids get one each.

Bank Mortgagees Purchase BH Malleable Property

By MIKE WYNGARDEN
Staff Writer

KALAMAZOO — All the personal property and equipment of the bankrupt Benton Harbor Malleable Industries was sold in an auction sale yesterday to Continental Illinois bank, Chicago, and Farmers & Merchants National bank, Benton Harbor, for $830,000.

The two banks' bid on the personal property was primarily for self-protection since they hold a $1.8 million mortgage against Benton Harbor Malleable. Farmers &

Merchants bank has a 25 percent share of the $1.8 million mortgage.

Of the approximately 50 businessmen who were present at the bankruptcy sale in federal bankruptcy court, Kalamazoo, none would bid as high as the $830,000 offered by the two banks. The equipment and personal property was valued at more than $2.9 million by a court-appointed appraiser.

The two banks plan to resell the equipment and personal property, according to Richard Willard, president of Farmers &

Merchants. The sale included office, die cast, malleable and foundry equipment and a Herman pneumatic molding machine. The real estate of Benton Harbor Malleable, 171 Graham avenue, was not put up for sale yesterday. Willard said the buildings and property would properly be auctioned off at a later date.

Purchase of the personal property by the two banks amounts to taking money out of one pocket and putting it into another because as secured creditors the banks have first claim on Malleable's assets. U.S. Bankruptcy Judge David Nims Jr., who presided over yesterday's auction sale, declared Benton Harbor Malleable officially bankrupt last January when the firm failed to meet a final deadline for depositing $740,000 as partial payment to creditors.

Malleable went into bankruptcy proceedings after closing its foundry in 1973. The firm continued to operate its die cast division until last Dec. 17. Some 300 people were put out of work.

Malleable had owed about $4 million, including the $1.8 million secured mortgage to the two banks, $1.7 million in unsecured debts and some $400,000 in local property taxes.

Creditors who have unsecured debts prior to the 1973 initial bankruptcy proceedings will most likely not receive any money. Donald Hove, vice president of Continental Illinois bank, said the chances for those creditors receiving payment were "extremely unlikely."

Hove said debts owed to the other creditors, including the City of Benton Harbor for unpaid property taxes, were still under contention. Hearings on the debt dispute are scheduled for July 7 and 8 in federal bankruptcy court in Kalamazoo.

The personal property was auctioned first in six separate parcels and then together in one bulk bid. High bids on the six separate parcels totaled only $384,400. Continental Illinois and Farmers & Merchants banks then submitted the high bid of for the one bulk bid.

VAIL RUBBER PLANS EXPANSION: Joseph Hanley, president of Vail Rubber Works, Inc., 521 Langley avenue, St. Joseph, looks over blueprints for $250,000 combined shipping, receiving an production addition to present building. The 120 by 60-foot addition will be Vail's third expansion in 10 years. Hanley said major importance will be shift of shipping traffic from congested Ann drive to Langley. Work on building is expected to begin soon. Vail Rubber makes rubber covered rolls for steel and paper mills, meat packing houses and aluminum industry. Expansion will not increase number of Vail employees, Hanley said. (Staff photo)

Second BH Candidate Meeting Friday

Candidates to the Benton Harbor board of education have been invited to attend a second

"meet your candidates" meeting, scheduled from 6 to 8 p.m. Friday, at St. Mark's Lutheran church, Napier avenue at Union street, Fairplain.

The meeting is open to the public, reported Mrs. Mildred Wells, chairman of a citizen committee for voter education, sponsors of the session.

Five people are seeking two board seats at the annual school election next Monday. They are incumbents E.E. (Bill) Bentley, board president, and Mrs. Janet Scott, board treasurer; and newcomers, Mrs. Zelma Morris, Mrs. Ruthie Haralson, and Lawrence Sherman.

The committee held a candidates' luncheon last Wednesday, attended by candidates

Bentley, Mrs. Scott, and Mrs. Morris, and about 45 citizens. Mrs. Wells said many people

Property Tax Renewal Asked At Saugatuck

SAUGATUCK — An 11-mill property tax renewal levy for two years faces Saugatuck-Douglas district school voters in the annual school election, Monday, June 9.

Six candidates, including one incumbent, will also seek election in two four-year seats on the school board. The candidates are incumbent Thomas F. Phelps, board vice president; and challengers Mrs. Sallie Kay Erlandson, Franklin E. Lamb, Mrs. Bonnie Lowe, Mrs. Arlene Philp, and Mrs. Janet Wolbrink. Board president Robert Brackenridge is not seeking re-election.

Donald Oyler, school superintendent, said the 11 mills being sought is renewal of millage that expired with the last tax collection. Based on the district's new tentative state equalized valuation of $20,570,325, the 11 mills if approved, would raise approximately $226,000 in local taxes. Oyler said if the millage is approved the district's total tax levy for 1975-76 would be 33.09 mills, the same as last year. Oyler also indicated there is a strong possibility the district's debt retirement millage will drop one to six mills, meaning the total millage could be less than last year.

Oyler said the district's operating budget for 1975-76 has not been decided yet, but indicated the school board plans to hold the line and predicted a budget very similar to last year's $349,588.

Phelps, 34, is seeking his second four-year term on the board. Current board vice president, he is general manager of American Twisting company, Saugatuck. He and his wife, Jeannie, have two children. They reside at 447 Butler street, Saugatuck.

Lamb, 35, of 3121 Indian Point road, Saugatuck, is controller of Lloyd J. Harriss Pie company, Saugatuck. He and his wife, Sherry, have two daughters.

Mrs. Lowe, 27, of 445 St. Joseph street, Saugatuck, is currently a substitute teacher and formerly taught full time in the Bangor school system. She and her husband, Douglas, have lived in the area two years.

Mrs. Philp, 39, is a sales associate for Woodland Realty, Holland, She and her husband, William, live at 3019 Lakeshore drive, Douglas. They have lived in the Saugatuck-Douglas area for the past five years coming from Blissfield. Mrs. Philp previously was a teacher and curriculum coordinator for 14 years.

Mrs. Erlandson, 38, of 91 Union street, Douglas, is employed as a secretary at Douglas elementary school. She and her husband, David, have four children and have been residents of the area the past 18 years.

Mrs. Wolbrink, of 6396 Riverside road, Douglas, is a housewife and teacher's aide at Douglas elementary school. She and her husband, Robert, have five children and have been residents of the Saugatuck-Douglas area for four years.

SCHOLARSHIP: Ricky Harasewicz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Harasewicz, route 4, Dowagiac, has received $250 scholarship to attend Southwestern Michigan college, Dowagiac, from Alvin M. Harasewicz foundation of Owosso. Harasewicz graduated from Eau Claire high school in January.

Circus Kingdom To Perform

The Circus Kingdom, one of the most unique circuses in the country, will give two performances Saturday, June 7, at 4 and 7:30 p.m., at Lakeshore junior high school.

The circus is unique in that all of its 35 to 40 performers are of college age, representing some 22 universities from more than 30 states. The performers and musicians get together each summer and form the circus.

The appearance is being sponsored by Stevensville Methodist church youth group and tickets at $1.25 for students and $2.25 for adults are available at True Value Hardware, Grazi's Supermarket, and Lakeshore Pharmacy, all of Stevensville.

Owners Will Pay

COLOMA — Beginning Monday, June 9, Coloma public works employees will start cutting grass on vacant lots, if needed, with the cost being assessed against the property owner.

Mrs. Patricia Beezley, city clerk, said the minimum charge for mowing the lot is $15.

Property owners have six months in which to pay for the mowing before the charge is added to the property tax bill.

State Delegation Voted Party Lines On Override

WASHINGTON (AP) — Michigan's congressional delegation divided along strict party lines as the House narrowly failed Wednesday to override President Ford's veto of a $5.3 billion emergency jobs bill.

All 12 Democratic House members voted in favor of the measure, while the six Republicans stood by the President. The vote was 277-145, five votes short of the two-thirds needed to override.

In Lansing, a spokesman for Gov. William Milliken said the governor did not ask the Republican House delegation to support the bill, which included $137 million for public-service jobs and summer recreation programs in Michigan.

But the governor called on Congress to pass a stimulus bill of about $2 billion as requested by the President.

"Michigan, with the nation's highest unemployment rate, needs the jobs the bill promises and it needs them now," Milliken said in a statement.

He warned that several thousand people now in Michigan public service jobs will have to be laid off within the next month or so unless federal money is made available.

In addition, 27,000 summer jobs for youth and many summer recreation programs are jeopardized, he said.

In Detroit, United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock expressed disappointment at the House vote.

"Jobless Americans cannot understand why U.S. financial assistance is so readily available to the governments of other countries while our own people must beg for crumbs," he said.

"In Western Europe, unemployed citizens are treated with dignity and given every assistance by their governments, while our jobless are treated shamefully and as mere statistics on a government chart."

Earlier in the day, legislative Democrats urged Michigan's Congressional delegation to help override the veto. "It would go a long way towards easing the human suffering so prevalent in our state," said a telegram by House Speaker Bobby Crim, D-

Davison, and Senate Majority Leader William Fitzgerald, D-Detroit.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats who lost their attempt to override President Ford's veto of a jobs bill are talking of more modest legislation and of how right they were in not labeling the present Congress veto-proof.

The Democratic House majority failed by five votes Wednesday to override the veto of a $5.3-billion bill designed to provide 900,000 publicly financed jobs for the unemployed. The vote was 277 to 145; a two-thirds majority was needed to override.

A group of Republicans has introduced a $2.3-billion bill, some $265 million above Ford's recommendations, but said they thought it would be acceptable to the White House. Majority Leader Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., and other Democrats said they expect other substitute legislation to be introduced. There was some talk of trying to attach it to a bill, like one to extend U.S. Treasury borrowing power, that would be hard to veto.

Democratic leaders, who had made the vetoed bill a symbol of their quarrel with Ford's economic policies, did not hide their disappointment at the outcome.

"Unfortunately and disappointingly," Speaker Carl Albert called it. He predicted Republicans would be hurt as a result of the veto, "but more important it will hurt the country."

O'Neill commented, "Today an unelected President and a Republican minority of the House denied 900,000 people the opportunity of employment. It is a sad day for America."

"It continues the veto tyranny he (Ford) has over the House," commented Rep. John J. McFall of California, the Democratic whip.

The AFL-CIO set out to elect a veto-proof Congress in 1974 and some Democrats campaigned in 1974 for a party majority big enough to override the vetoes then-President Richard M.

Nixon was exercising. However, no party leaders claimed after the election that a veto-proof Congress had been achieved.

Republicans, including Ford, have used the phrase to needle and sometimes to blame the Democratic-controlled Congress.

Until a death reduced their ranks by one, Democrats had exactly a two-to-one advantage in the House — 290 to 145. But since party ranks, especially those of the Democrats, are rarely absolutely solid, this was not considered to constitute a veto-proof House. The Senate, divided 61 to 38 with one seat still in dispute, had not even a mathematical two-thirds advantage for the Democrats.

Minority Leader John J. Rhodes, R-Ariz., congratulated Democrats who joined Republicans in sustaining the veto and said the "outcome just about completely dissipates the notion of a veto-proof Congress."

While 49 Republicans voted for the bill when the House passed it in May, only 19 voted to override the veto Wednesday. The Democrats lost 22 of their members on the vote.

Ford has vetoed 36 public bills. Of these, four have been overridden, all by the preceding Congress, which was less heavily Democratic.

An override vote on a strip mining bill is tentatively scheduled in the House next week.

State IRS Man Wins Appeal

DETROIT (AP) — An Internal Revenue Service administrator has been reinstated to his former job level following a flap in which he criticized IRS plans for expensive furnishings at its new Detroit headquarters.

John E. Moffat, 48, said Wednesday he agreed to accept an IRS post in Washington at his prescribed pay level, $26,178 a year.

Moffat was chief of facilities management for the IRS Michigan Region before being ousted Feb. 6 by IRS District Director Robert L. Plate. He remained on the IRS payroll in the audit section while appealing the order.

Only a month before, Moffat was quoted by columnist Jack Anderson as saying the IRS was planning to spend $1 million unnecessarily to furnish the new federal McNamara building in downtown Detroit.

Moffat said he was told five days after the article appeared that he would be fired or disciplined and said he got a formal notice Feb. 6.

The building is still under construction. Moffat and other IRS officials said Wednesday they did not know if plans to outfit the building were altered.

"I think this is very important," said Moffat. "If a person believes in himself and in the truth and in his competence, the obligation is on him to stand up for what he believes in and what he thinks is right."

"The spotlight of truth never hurt the cause of justice," he added.

Moffat appeared earlier this spring before a U.S. Senate subcommittee probing charges that federal employees face punishment if they talk to the news media about government problems.

Airplane Crashes Hurt 'Pot' Traffic

MIAMI (AP) — About 150 airplanes laden with marijuana cross the borders of the United States every day, and federal officials say a growing number of them aren't completing their illicit missions.

"The pilots come a dime-a-dozen. Whether they can fly is immaterial," Jacques Kiere, director of a federal drug enforcement intelligence agency, said Wednesday.

Kiere said his agency, the El Paso (Texas) Intelligence Center, knows of 49 crashes since Jan. 1 involving planes smuggling marijuana into this country. While many of those crashes occurred in other countries, all involved planes connected with marijuana traffic in the United States, he said.

Officials attribute the number of failed missions to the greed and inexperience of smugglers and enforcement efforts of local and federal officers.

"The smugglers tend to overload their planes, and the pilots often land on undeveloped strips and pieces of road," Kiere said.

David Costa, deputy regional director of the Federal Drug Enforcement Agency in Miami, said a major operation by Jamaican and American agents last year dealt a severe blow to the Jamaican marijuana industry.

The mission, dubbed Operation Buccaneer, ended with the confiscation of 730,000 pounds of marijuana and 8,083 pounds of marijuana seeds, Costa said.

As a result, smugglers began concentrating on the Colombian and Mexican brands.

To carry the marijuana that far, smugglers needed long-range, large-payload, dependable machines. Enter the World War II B25, Lockheed Lodestar and Constellation airplanes.

"The bombers can carry pot in the bomb bays, which are doubly effective because if the pilot suspects he is being followed he can dump the stuff before we catch up or just pass low over trucks or whatever and make the delivery without even landing," Kiere said.

For people seeking to make a lot of money quick, marijuana smuggling offers large rewards at comparatively little risk.

Pot retails on the street for about $300 a pound, depending on quality and location. It can be bought in large quantities for $8-$10 a pound in Colombia.

If 150 planes cross the borders each day, that means about 22,500 flights a year.

"There is a tremendous number of intrusions," Kiere said. "There has been a large upswing in drug traffic through the air."

Last year, only about 1,700 persons were arrested for trafficking in marijuana, said Ted Swift, a spokesman for the DEA in Miami.

"This does not include the college kid with a joint in his pocket," Swift said. "These arrests were for dealing in large quantities."

In the Southeast and Caribbean area, about 35,500 pounds of marijuana — the equivalent of 20 plane-loads — were confiscated last year, Swift said. The region accounts for most of the drug confiscations.

Kiere said the B25 that crashed Tuesday in a field near Dawsonville, Ga., had a subsidiary gas tank that allowed it to travel 3,000 miles at 275 miles an hour.

Two men were killed in that crash, and a ton of marijuana was found within a mile of the crash site.

OFFICIALS FEAR CRIME UPTURN

Teens Face Jobless Summer

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Most authorities say high unemployment and cutbacks in job and recreational programs will not cause the kind of massive rioting that plagued cities in the 1960s. But some expect an upsurge in minor violence and crime.

DANIEL AUER

Dan Auer Leaves Prison

BAY CITY, Mich. (AP) — Daniel David Auer has been released from Southern Michigan Prison at Jackson pending reduction of his 20-to-25-year sentence for selling two ounces of marijuana.

Auer, 30, was ordered released on $2,000 bond by Bay County Circuit Court Judge John X. Theiler, who issued the sentence in 1971.

Auer was one of the last Michigan residents sentenced prior to liberalization of the state's marijuana law.

Most marijuana offenders were paroled or given sharply reduced sentences when the law was changed, but Auer was passed over because he was appealing the conviction. He was ordered to report to prison in April after the state Supreme Court turned down his appeal.

Theiler scheduled a hearing next Tuesday for re-sentencing Auer and indicated he would order a substantial reduction in the penalty.

"I'm hoping I'm finished with prison," Auer said after returning to his parents' home in Bay City.

"Here you've got your friends, you've got your family, you've got complete freedom and more reality," he said.

"Jackson (the prison) is altogether a different story."

Until April 1972, Michigan's Controlled Substance Act provided a minimum 20-year sentence for sale of marijuana. The new law reduced the penalty to a maximum of four years.

Auer said he plans to drop his appeal to avoid further delays in re-sentencing. He already has served a total of more than a year in prison and is eligible for parole.

"We're thankful he's back and are hoping he's here to stay for keeps," said Auer's father, George.

MAYOR MUST PAY

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A federal appeals court has ordered Mayor John P. Moorer to pay $3,500 in attorney's fees for a woman who brought a successful suit against the city's anti-discrimination policy.

A few officials also say they are concerned that unemployment and cutbacks may create more extensive violence. Others question the optimistic forecasts for a calm summer.

"It's understandable that mayors, chiefs of police and others are very reluctant to talk about it on the theory that the more you talk about it the more likely it is to occur," said Mayor Richard Hatcher of Gary, Ind.

Hatcher and some other officials have expressed fears of troubles in cities unless the federal government provided extra employment funds, particularly for teenagers. Wednesday the House failed to override President Ford's veto of $5.3 billion for the kind of emergency employment aid Hatcher and the others had sought.

The bill provided $485 million for teen-age summer jobs. The U.S. Conference of Mayors Legislative Action Committee had asked $706 million for such jobs, saying cities will need 1.2 million positions for teenagers this summer.

Cutbacks in job programs from last year's levels seem inevitable.

Hatcher, co-chairman of the Legislative Action Committee, said that at best there will be delays in planning job programs just as millions of teenagers begin looking for summer work. Even cities hoping to maintain the same or increased levels face difficulties.

"Because of severe unemployment, especially among minority youths, there will be hundreds and perhaps thousands more seeking jobs," was how Mayor Abraham Beame explained the problem for New York.

Last year, 18,000 youths applied for 3,300 jobs in Kansas City. This year, officials were planning on 4,000 jobs, and applications are already double that, with more applying daily.

In Chicago, Joyce Bollinger of the City Manpower Department said it was hoped the federal government would provide funds to maintain the 36,000 summer jobs of last year, but she said without federal funds there would be only 18,000 such positions.

She said that while Chicago's population has dropped, its teen-age population, particularly minority youths, has increased. There are 543,000 people aged 14 to 21 in Chicago, she said.

"This gives you some idea of the dimension of the need," she added. "Even the 36,000 jobs are a drop in the bucket."

Police are uncertain about the relationship between unemployment and crime — some see no such relationship — but there is no doubt about high unemployment in cities, particularly among minorities and young people.

While many cities don't keep exact jobless figures for youths, it's agreed teen-age unemployment is far above the over-all rate. The latest figures put over-all unemployment at 15.4 per cent in Detroit, 11.8 per cent in Baltimore, 13.4 per cent in Boston and 12 per cent in Los Angeles.

Nationwide, the over-all unemployment rate in April, the latest month for which figures are available, was 8.9 per cent. It was 14.6 per cent for blacks, 20.4 per cent for teen-agers and 40.2 per cent for minority teen-agers.

Even with the high unemployment and cutbacks in job programs, there are arguments for saying there will be no largescale violence.

First, most police officials say they've seen no signs of violence developing. Two other reasons given are that authorities are more aware of minorities' problems now and that the frustrated minorities who rioted in big cities in the 1960s have become more sophisticated.

"More people realize that burning and looting don't do any good," said Chicago Deputy Police Superintendent Sam Nolan. "Some of the areas that were burned down in 1968 are still void of buildings. The people realize that the poor only get poorer when this happens."

John Gunther, executive director of the Conference of Mayors, put it more succinctly: "They know that you don't get any money by burning down the neighbor's house."

And the Rev. William Cunningham, who heads a civil rights program in Detroit, said the current recession may be less dangerous than were the rising expectations in 1967, when Detroit suffered a major riot.

"In 1967 there was no economic squeeze," he said. "People saw the light at the end of the tunnel and decided to run for it instead of walk. Now, there is no light."

"There is no mood of rebellion in inner-city Detroit now, no mean mood. The economic problems are very constraining."

Both Gunther and Father Cunningham expected an increase in personal crime, and Hatcher said he was worried the despair and sophistication the two spoke of could produce large-scale violence.

NEVADA UNION LAWS IN STEP WITH BIG STATES

By BOB ANGOVE
Associated Press Writer
LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) —

Nevada, best known for gambling and wide open spaces, has fallen in step with the big industrial states in labor union regulation.

A law just signed by Democratic Gov. Mike O'Callaghan puts the state up with the advance guard — New York and New Jersey — in the matter.

Fifteen states exercise some regulatory power over labor unions, usually minor. The aim, state officials say, is to suppress organized crime.

In New York and New Jersey, the regulations cite the waterfront as the problem area. In Nevada, it's the gambling industry.

Casino owners say they fear organized crime could use the unions as a back door into the industry which yielded over $1 billion in gross profits last year. The unions say the fears are unfounded, and they may challenge the law in the courts.

The Nevada law requires union organizers, officials and employees to file letters of their intentions with the State Gaming Control Board. They must also list their activities during the preceding five years, and note any criminal charges connected with them.

The Gaming Control Board, which already exercises powerful controls on casinos, is permitted to investigate union personnel and bar "undesirable elements."

Casino owners proposed the law after intensive efforts by unions to organize casino dealers, who are the men and women who operate the craps, blackjack and other games of chance. The non-gambling operations are already highly organized by the Teamsters and Culinary Workers union.

"It's just a move to perfect the statutory scheme of state regulation of a unique and sensitive business which has been, and continues to be the prey of those who would corrupt and tarnish the reputation we've worked so hard to establish," said Harry Wald, president of the Nevada Resort Hotel Association.

Wald, an executive of Caesar's Palace, denies his organization is anti-labor.

But an attorney for the AFL-CIO, Renny I. Ashleman, said proponents "have a complete lack of the type of evidence needed" to tie union personnel with organized crime.

"They had newspaper clippings on individuals who are no longer active in union affairs," he said.

The chairman of the Nevada Gaming Commission, Pete Echeverria, said at a hearing that many union organizers are clean. But he said: "I'm mindful of the fact that organized crime, the mob and the Mafia have made inroads in labor organizations."

Whatever the danger, the possibilities of crime are enormous, says Shannon L. Bybee Jr., of the three-member Gaming Control Board.

Gambling is a "cash-inventory" business, meaning there's no record of any merchandise or transaction until the money gets counted and entered into the books, Bybee said.

Starting when the hard cash hits the green felt tables, it is notoriously easy for anyone from mini-skirted Keno clerks to chief executives to steal a little at a time, he said.

"I'm sure you could see the publicity that would result if some Mafioso-led union got all the dealers in a hotel," said Bybee.

He cited the New York Waterfront Commission hearings which preceded that state's 1953 law.

"Corruption. Extortion tactics. There's reams of evidence in the public domain that shows what corrupt labor unions can do to an industry or a business," he said. "Kickbacks. Stealing from the house. Burglarizing the hotel rooms of high rollers.

Blackmail. There's all kinds of things that unsavory characters could do in gaming."

The board licenses casino owners, major investors, executives and key employees after extensive background investigations. It even issues "certificates of suitability" to the organizers of gamblers' junkets in distant cities.

Ashleman said the Nevada law could be challenged on grounds of federal pre-emption of labor law.

He said only New York, New Jersey, Florida and Texas can issue licenses to labor union personnel, which may not be certain classes of unpardoned ex-felons. The other 11 states require only some sort of registration.

"The new law puts Nevada on par with New York and New Jersey," he said. "The investigatory rights might even make it more powerful."

N-Waste Shipping Rules Hit

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Michigan Department of Public Health denied Wednesday it has been negligent in making rules to control nuclear waste shipping as charged Tuesday.

Donald Van Farowe, chief of the agency's division of Radiological Health, challenged accusations by Genesee County Prosecutor Robert F. Leonard that the state is heading for a "potential nuclear nightmare."

"I don't think he's read the whole law," said Van Farowe.

Leonard sent a letter about the situation to the Public Health Department.

In the letter, Leonard said a Michigan law passed in 1972 required the Public Health Department to set regulations on shipments of radioactive wastes and "other nuclear materials."

Van Farowe said Tuesday the state law Leonard is referring to contains an exemption for radioactive wastes hauled from atomic power plants.

He said the exemption states shipments of radioactive material are covered by federal regulation and the state law specifically says this prohibits the state from issuing its own regulations.

"The department has taken positive action to control public exposure through development of rules for all radiation sources for which state control hasn't been preempted," Van Farowe said.

He said Leonard will receive a letter explaining the department's legal position.

The Genesee County prosecutor warned the department he will take legal action to prevent nuclear material shipments on I-75 through his county unless the Public Health Department immediately starts public hearings to compile regulations.

Leonard said nuclear waste is currently transported on state roads from three atomic power plants—Big Rock near Traverse City, Palisades near Benton Harbor and Fermi near Monroe.

The waste material is usually shipped to a disposal site in South Carolina, Leonard said.

"It is outrageous that the department...has had two-and-a-half years since the legislature gave them the authority to take action, yet they have, done nothing to protect the residents of this state from the threat of nuclear contamination," Leonard wrote the department.

Leonard sent nine proposed regulations regarding radioactive shipments, ranging from driver training programs to specified shipment routes and State Police inspections.

Three Detroiters Killed One Hurt In Plane Crash

DETROIT (AP) — Three Detroiters were killed and a fourth injured Wednesday when a single-engine plane crashed and burned in a residential area near City Airport, police said.

Police identified the victims as Robert Wright, 59, Clarence Porter, 33, and Robert Mebus, 23, all from the Detroit area.

A fourth man aboard the plane, 26-year-old Edward Garbarino of Detroit, was hospitalized in critical condition.

Police said all were employees of the Detroit Water Board. The said Garbarino was being treated for second-degree burns over 90 per cent of his body.

"By the time I got there he (Garbarino) was in flames," said a witness. "He kept saying, 'My God, I was trying to get the plane up.'"

"When he was only 10 feet off the ground we knew he wasn't going to make it," said Keith Turner of Mount Clemens, a pilot who watched the takeoff.

"He seemed to be really heavy with people and fuel. The airplane is designed for only three people. He had four adults and apparently a full fuel load. He was doomed from the start."

Robert Dennison, operations manager at the airport, said the plane climbed to 300 feet, a wing dipped, indicating insufficient speed, and the pilot dropped the nose to gain airspeed. That move succeeded, Dennison said, but the plane tried to gain altitude too quickly and the plane stalled.

Others said the plane plunged nearly straight down, exploding as it struck a garage.

No one on the ground was reported injured although the plane crashed only 30 feet from a home in which four persons lived.

North Beefs Up DMZ Troops

WASHINGTON (AP) — Communist North Korea has moved strong armored forces close to the demilitarized boundary with South Korea, U.S. intelligence sources report. Pentagon officials watching the situation said they are concerned but not alarmed and that no special alerts were ordered for U.S. troops in South Korea. Officials noted that the North Koreans have made threatening moves from time to time without launching any major military action against South Korea since 1953. However, there has been some worry recently that North Korea might be emboldened to test the U.S. commitment to South Korea following the collapse of American-backed governments in Indochina.

Three Oaks Puts Final Touches On Flag Day Plans

THREE OAKS — Final plans are being made here for the 22nd annual Flag Day parade, to be staged at 3 p.m. Sunday, June 15, under sponsorship of the Randall Couchman American Legion Post 204.

The parade, which is known as "The Nation's Largest Flag Day Parade," will culminate a five-day celebration this year.

Other activities will include a carnival Wednesday through Sunday, June 11-13, at Legion Memorial park; professional wrestling, "a world's championship tag team match" at 8 p.m. Thursday, June 12, at River Valley high school; a public dance at the Legion home on Friday night, June 13; a water ball fight between Michigan and Indiana fire departments at 10 a.m. Saturday; a softball game between north and southside businessmen at 3 p.m. Saturday, June 14, at the Legion ball diamond; and on Sunday, June 15, a breakfast and chicken dinner at St. Mary's Hall under the sponsorship of the River Valley Athletic Boosters.

A queen's luncheon will also be served at noon Sunday at St. Mary's hall for all visiting queens.

Still another special event will be an Arts and Crafts show in the southside village park by the artists of this area.

George Gresse Jr., parade chairman, announced that he expects more than 100 units to take part in the parade.

Although the original deadline for entry was set for June 1, he added that entries can be included until almost starting time. More than 80 units are already included in the line-up.

Some of this year's special attractions include the War Birds of America, who come from all over the United States with their World War II military aircraft, and who will fly over to signal the start of the parade and will put on an air show later in the afternoon; the nationally known Maple City Cadets of LaPorte; the Moose Baton and Drum Corps of Michigan City; Caledonia Kilty Band of Mishawaka, Ind.; a float that was featured in the National American Legion parade in Florida; the Melvin E. Rolan family of Greenfield, Ind. (who have performed in the Rose Bowl parade) with their antique unicycles; and a 100-man National Guard unit from South Bend with five howitzers, trucks, jeeps and two helicopters.

Among the dignitaries will be Sandra Campbell, the reigning "Miss Dominion of Canada"; Susan Short, "Miss Michigan of 1974"; Penny Jean Tichenor, "Miss Indiana 1974"; Susan Shuran, "Miss Southwestern Michigan"; Cynthia Thornburg, "Miss Blossomtime"; plus a host of community blossom queens, including "Miss Three Oaks," Carrie Fiss.

Gresse added that he expects 20,000 on hand to view the parade. The parade will start on Pine street at the north edge of town.

Several of the participating units will perform at the Legion Memorial park at the close of the parade.

MAKES PLEA

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — U.S. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim has urged the world to help preserve the human environment "for generations yet unborn."

An important part of the popularity of aluminum is and around the house is that it is by nature a low maintenance material. But aluminum products do become dirty and require occasional cleaning.

Because harsh abrasives do more harm than good, the rule of thumb about cleaning aluminum is to use the least strong cleaner that will do the job. The No. 1 cleaner, therefore, is water and that, water and mild.

Aluminum siding is effectively cleaned with a handled brush, or a hollow-handled brush used for washing.

Advertising... a vote of confidence in business.

(or how to tell the leaders without a scorecard.)

Recently there has been a lot of talk about upturns, downturns, and sideturns in business and industry.

You ask a man these days how the "outlook" appears to him, and you're liable to get a diagonal reply. Not a straight up-and-down nod. Not even a negative, sideways shake of the head.

Mostly the diagonal approach. It doesn't mean yes, business is going up. It doesn't mean no, it isn't.

The answer you frequently get is we'll wait and see. Inflation and some of the other unrests, you know

So the man and his company pull their horns in.

They wait for someone else to "take the lead," they say: No sense sticking our heads out until the situation "improves" itself.

In other words, sure we'll advertise — or restore our budgets — just as soon as we get more business.

Beautiful.

Everyone hangs around and waits for everything to happen automatically. Hold up. Cut back. Wait. The Prosperity Wagon is right around the corner. And it's going to come to me, old friend, me. Without me going out to get it.

Want to bet?

One thing about this economy of ours has never changed. A lack of confidence in our business system, manifested across business, only inspires more of the same. With the result that that wagon may be farther down the block than you think.

Business activity stimulates business.

Advertising helps you get sales.

Companies, agencies and media that advertise should be the ones you do business with, because we suspect you'd rather do business with confident people.

They take the time, trouble and money to inform you — to help you know more — about their products, their services and their markets. They care enough about you to go out of their way to tell you they want to do business with you.

We suspect that when the chips are down, this is how you can tell the real leaders.

They get our vote.

They also should get yours. If for no other reason than they are helping to build business for both of us.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Andrews Teacher Author Of Book

BERRIEN SPRINGS — A professor at Andrews university here has written a book on elementary school physical education outlining a method which she describes as having improved classroom performance of pupils at the Seventh-day Adventist church school in Berrien Springs.

The book, entitled, "Happiness is Physical Education in the Elementary School," is scheduled to be off the press at the Andrews University Press this month. The author is Ingrid Johnson, associate professor of physical education and health and a registered nurse.

She outlines a program that minimizes competition by deferring regular sports to grades seven or eight and devoting the first six grades to general skill activities.

Alex Miskiewicz, principal of the Berrien Springs church school where the idea was tested during the past school year, said that his pupils have been better at their class work since participating in the new program. He said that Miss Johnson's method has given even uncoordinated children a sense of self-confidence that has helped in their school work.

Working with Miss Johnson at the church school was Hilary Robinson, music and physical education teacher there, who developed many of the rhythmic routines and composed much of the music. The art work for the book was done by Dan Hainault, a freshman physical education major in AU.

Miss Johnson wrote the book at the request of the General Conference of Seventh-day Adventists, who sponsored its publication.

ADC Dad Averts Jail Sentence

A delinquent ADC father in effect paid his way out of jail this week after getting a 60-day jail sentence in Berrien circuit court for $775 arrearage for one child on ADC.

George Westfield, Berrien friend of the court, reported that Joseph D. Hessey, of 2695 US-31, Niles, was released from jail after paying $200 towards the $775 arrears he owed in back child support. Hessey had been sentenced to 60 days in jail by Judge Chester J. Byrns for contempt of court.

Hessey was also placed on two years probation, and ordered to pay $16 weekly child support.

James E. Fisher, of 1384 Whitney, Benton township, was found in contempt, and placed on two years probation, for $363 arrears for one child. The child was not on public assistance. The father was also told to sign a wage assignment of $20 weekly support and $10 weekly towards the arrearage.

Marriage Licenses

The following marriage licenses have been issued by Berrien County Clerk Forrest H. Kesterke.

Stanley John Modelowski, III, 20, Benton Harbor; and Karen Lisa Klemm, 19, St. Joseph.

Ronald Allen Wooden, 21, Eau Claire, and Jureatha Thomas, 18, Benton Harbor.

Ronald Joseph Sherman, 23, and Susan Kay Van Ginhoven, 21, both of Benton Harbor.

James Ronn Clements, 25, Deluth, Minn., and Kathy Lucille Hultgren, 26, New Buffalo.

Lenhart Karl Kissinger, 20, LaGrange, Ill., and Darla Ann Allen, 19, Berrien Springs.

Charles Edward Karnes, 38, and Stella Nash, 32, both of Niles.

Ralph Richard Arnold, 25, and Kim Diane Bishop, 20, both of Niles.

Robert Nelson Aalfs, 22, and Jacqueline Sue Allee, 21, both of Buchanan.

David Lynn Casey, 32, Buchanan, and Lorraine Ann Miller, 22, Niles.

Mark Edward Robards, 23, and Judith Joycelyn Pease, 30, both of Buchanan.

Salvage Firm Helps U.S. Get Rid Of Surplus

AZLE, Tex. (AP) — Melton Dimock squinted into the bright Texas sun as he surveyed the sophisticated components of the super-expensive F-111 aircraft, industrial jewels, office machines, furniture and late model cars that all once belonged to the U.S. government.

They are junk now. "I'm sure we've got well over $1 million worth of government equipment," Dimock said as he studied the castoffs originally paid for with U.S. tax dollars.

"Altogether we probably paid $500 or $600 for it," said Dimock, a partner in a big salvage firm here whose "holdings" are spread over several acres of once-prime pastureland in the cow country northwest of Fort Worth.

Dimock said his firm gets "three or four sheets a month" from the General Services Administration (GSA), the federal agency charged with disposing of unwanted materials.

"They don't care what they get for the stuff they have for sale. They're not in the money-making business; they're in the getting-rid-of business." In recent weeks, Dimock and his partner, Louis Freeman, have consummated the following transactions with the U.S. government.

—Entered a successful bid of $37 each for three Litton bombsights off the F-111, which originally cost Uncle Sam $66,000 apiece.

—Bought $26,000 of tiny rubies and sapphires, used as jewel bearings in precision equipment, for $66.

—Purchased "about an acre and a half" of miscellaneous surplus items, including desks, appliances and other furniture for a total investment of $118.

Some months ago, the partners paid $35 for a radar "terrain finder" that had cost $185,000 in federal funds. They later resold the equipment for $15,000.

"Sometimes we're the only bidder," Dimock said. "When that happens, we can bid as little as $10 and get the stuff."

Used cars are put up for bid by the GSA every few weeks, he said.

"We just bought a 1971 Plymouth Fury with air and power for $161 and a 1972 Ambassador, similarly equipped, for $377," Dimock said.

Used cars have an obvious retail value, but some other items that cost American taxpayers tens of thousands of dollars only a few months ago may not move as quickly.

Who will buy, for instance, the F-111 bombsights?

Freeman and Dimock shrug their shoulders.

"I don't have any idea what we'll do with them," said Freeman. "But at the price we paid, who cares?"

Virgil Bennett Installed As AMVETS President

Virgil Bennett, of the Twin City Post 88 of the American Veterans of World War II (AMVETS), was installed recently as commander of both the district and local Post 88 of AMVETS.

Bennett was installed by Donald Wilde, second vice commander of the state department of Michigan AMVETS, at the recent installation banquet held at Post 88 headquarters, St. Joseph. District 4 of the Amvets covers much of western Michigan including Grand Rapids, Kalamazoo and Battle Creek.

Others installed as officers of Post 88 were Ed McCrone, first vice commander; Tony Tragna, second vice commander; Ray Lynn Mull, adjutant; Louis S. DiVanni, finance officer; Tom Sparks, provost marshal and post service officer, and Larry Paleschi, chaplain.

District 4 officers installed were Orland J. Brown, first vice commander; Vern Trudell, adjutant; Thomas Moss, finance officer; DiVanni, service officer and provost marshal; Stanley Burr, judge advocate, and Paleschi, chaplain.

Kelley Finds No Cause For Conflict Of Interest

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A husband and wife may hold related public offices even if there would be a conflict of interest if both posts were held by one person, Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley ruled Wednesday.

"Conflict of interest arises when a public servant becomes a party to any contract between himself and the public he or she serves ... In this case I see no way that the couple stands to make a personal gain at the public expense," Kelley said.

Kelley's opinion came after Ogemaw County Prosecutor Charles Jennings inquired regarding a married woman serving as director of county social services while her spouse is a county commissioner.

Kelley said "It is not incompatible for a person to serve as a public officer where his or her spouse holds another public office that would be incompatible if held by the same person."

Married women, Kelley noted, are entitled to own, retain and dispose of their earnings and to make contracts on them. Last February, Kelley made a similar ruling on an opinion requested by state Rep. David Hollister, D-Lansing. At that time Kelley said there is no conflict of interest if a person serves on a board of education while his wife is a board employee.

Kelley cited two similar cases in which courts ruled it was legal for a husband who was a school board member to hire his wife as a teacher and for a prosecuting attorney to hire his wife as an office stenographer.

Kelley said "It is not incompatible for a person to serve as a public officer where his or her spouse holds another public office that would be incompatible if held by the same person."

Married women, Kelley noted, are entitled to own, retain and dispose of their earnings and to make contracts on them. Last February, Kelley made a similar ruling on an opinion requested by state Rep. ## Lawmaker To Face Trial On Eaton Drug Charges

CHARLOTTE, Mich. (AP) — State Sen. Basil Brown, D-Highland Park, will have to stand trial on a charge of drug possession, an Eaton County District Court judge has ruled.

Judge Kenneth Hansen rejected a motion by Brown to suppress evidence against the 48-year-old chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

No trial date has been set. The misdemeanor charge carries a maximum penalty of one year in jail and a $1,000 fine upon conviction.

Brown claimed marijuana and hashish taken from his car last Jan. 7 was illegally seized by Eaton County Deputy Marshal Kimble.

Kimble testified at an April 22 hearing that he stopped Brown's car because Brown was driving erratically. Kimble said he instigated a search after smelling marijuana as he stood by the car. Brown has said the drugs were not his. He said his car was often used by friends and members of his staff who might have left the drugs in the glove compartment.

Hansen said Tuesday, "The issue ... is not the reasonableness of the traffic stop."

"The question is not whether the defendant is guilty of a traffic violation but whether the officer had a reasonable basis to believe the motor vehicle code was violated. The officer acted reasonably in believing that a violation had occurred."

'Comeback' Seen For Sailing Ship

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The energy crisis may bring back an old transportation mode: commercial sailing ships.

According to a University of Michigan study for the U.S. Maritime Administration, the comparative costs and potential profits of sailing boats are so close to powered ships that "moderate changes in the energy-cost situation might make it more favorable to sail."

The U-M researchers said sailing ships with huge sails moved by motors could be built and operated with about the same crew as conventionally powered vessels.

A sailing ship with a capacity of 45,000 deadweight tons could be built for about $24.4 million, compared to about $22.2 million for a powered ship.

But the sailing boats would require giant masts for their window-shade sails—so high they couldn't pass under the Verrazano-Narrows or Golden Gate bridges.

The study concluded that for shipping costs now, powered ships are still riding a wave of success—but sailing boats aren't far behind.

Bay City Drive To Raise $2 Million Oversubscribed

BAY CITY, Mich. (AP)—A drive to raise at least $2 million as the community's share of projected costs of a new $25 million medical center was oversubscribed Tuesday night when workers reported they had raised $3.4 million.

The report made the Bay Medical Center eligible to apply to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for federal funds for the balance.

The six-story, 342-bed hospital unit will replace the city's present Mercy and General Hospitals.

Board of Education Message...

MINIMUM STANDARDS SET FOR ALL BENTON HARBOR AREA SCHOOLS

Last January, the Board of Education of the Benton Harbor Area Schools appointed a team of experts to visit and evaluate each school building in the district.

The purpose of this evaluation was to establish minimal building and site needs so that each school building in the district could provide the proper physical and environmental surroundings necessary for providing a quality educational setting for our students.

Since the last building and site fund was voted upon and passed in February, 1968, (1 mill for 3 years) the local operating budget has not been adequate to keep all our school buildings properly maintained. Thus, the Board of Education has set forth a proposal of 3 mills for 5 years to create a building and site sinking fund to be used for repair and upgrading of school buildings. No operating millage is involved in this proposal and all schools will benefit.

The Board of Education is responsible for providing a quality education to every child in the district. It is of extreme importance that improvements in our school buildings be made now!

School Buildings Need Improvement...

In planning for and selecting the physical facilities, equipment, and materials for any age group, consideration must be given to what the child is like, his nature and his needs, and how he learns. Recognition needs to be given to the fact that children are alike yet different.

We are recommending that the schools in the Benton Harbor Area School district have physical plants which will provide for the best education of the children in the community; that each school building is planned with uniform standards in regards to safety, sanitation, healthful and pleasant living; and, meets the needs of the present educational program and can be adapted to future changes in school activities. Listed on this page are improvements necessary to accomplish this goal:

Benton Harbor High School
New floor covering in old section, improve lighting, new heating and ventilation in old section, replace wood sash in old section, improve office complex, and site improvement.

Benton Harbor 7th and 8th Grade Center

TOTAL ESTIMATED COST OF IMPROVING OUR SCHOOL BUILDINGS TO MEET MINIMUM STANDARDS $3,298,541.00
A LEVY OF 3 MILLS FOR 5 YEARS WILL PRODUCE ABOUT $3,298,541.00

ELECTION INFORMATION: Who Can Vote? All Registered Voters What's On The Ballot? In addition to the regular election of school board members, there will be two propositions.

PROPOSITION I TAX RATE LIMITATION INCREASE PROPOSITION FOR BUILDING AND SITE SINKING FUND TAX
Shall the limitation on the amount of taxes which may be assessed against all property in Benton Harbor Area Schools, Berrien County, Michigan, be increased by three (3) mills for a period of five (5) years, from 1975 to 1979, both inclusive, for the purpose of levying a building and site sinking fund tax to be used for the purchase of real estate for sites for, and the construction or repair of school buildings?
(This is a special account established to insure that all money in this account is earmarked specifically for building and site and that NO portion can be used for salaries or supplies.)

PROPOSITION II TO LEVY BUILDING AND SITE SINKING FUND TAX
Shall Benton Harbor Area Schools, Berrien County, Michigan, levy three (3) mills for a period of five (5) years, from 1975 to 1979, both inclusive, to create a building and site sinking fund to be used for the purchase of real estate for sites for, and the construction or repair of school buildings?
(This money will go into the building and site sinking fund established in proposition No. 1 and can be spent only for building and site needs as established in proposition No. 1.)

A "YES" VOTE ON BOTH PROPOSITIONS IS NECESSARY TO IMPLEMENT THESE IMPROVEMENTS

PLEASE VOTE — JUNE 9, 1975
POLLS OPEN 7:00 AM — 8:00 PM

State To Audit 'Fringe' Benefits For Councilmen

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — A full-scale audit of city finances in Dearborn is slated soon by state officials following complaints from citizens.

Auditors said the probe was prompted by a letter from Douglas Thomas, a one-time mayoral candidate who also has been trying to oust disabled Dearborn Mayor Orville Hubbard from office. Other complaints were received by phone from other citizens.

Fringe benefits to councilmen are expected to be the focus of the probe. Councilmen get new cars twice a year for full-time use, and they and their families receive fully paid medical insurance.

State Auditor Allen Auch said the probe originally was set to begin after the city's annual private audit, but those plans were changed.

"We're going to be there in a little while," he said. Auch also said the probe might touch on whether Hubbard's long illness has prompted any misuse of funds. The mayor has been disabled since a stroke last November and has not worked in almost seven months.

Doyne Jackson, a city spokesman, said a precedent for the car purchases has been set "in every legal department in the State of Michigan."

However, at least four cars were returned last week to the city. They had been driven by the mayor's estranged wife, and Nancy Dymtro, the mayor's granddaughter who also is a city clerk. Henry Ford Hubbard, one of the mayor's sons, runs the transportation department. The other cars were driven by other city employees.

Auditors also said they would look into reports Hubbard charged up to $25 to perform marriages. Jackson said any contributions were voluntary.

Veteran Actors Playing Key Roles In 'Midway'

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Stars galore on the "Midway" set, with Henry Fonda, Glenn Ford and Robert Mitchum wearing a total of nine stars as they portray naval brass of the Pacific war.

Stage 22 at Universal Studio attracted an unusual number of visitors one morning in response to the stellar confluence. "Midway" was back from its Pensacola, Fla., location, with director Jack Smight filming war room and other scenes dramatizing the sea battle that turned the tide against the Japanese in World War II.

Producer Walter Mirisch was on the set, worrying about the progress of his multistar epic — also Charlton Heston, James Coburn, Hal Holbrook, Toshio Mifune, Cliff Robertson, James Shigeta, Edward Albert. Mirisch needn't have worried. "These three guys are amazing," said Smight of Fonda, Mitchum and Ford, who among them have served 108 years in films.

"With most actors nowadays, you're dealing with several 'methods.' These guys just do their lines — and do them beautifully."

Each of the stars is playing a famed admiral. Curiously, each had contact with his portrayal. Fonda, who just turned 70, had to have his hair whitened to play fleet commander Chester

W. Nimitz, whom he served under on Guam.

"I was aide to Adm. John Hoover," the former Navy lieutenant recalled. "He was an interesting chap with a consuming interest in tennis. As soon as we conquered an island, he would order the Seabees to build a tennis court, and he assigned Bobby Riggs to play with him."

courts all the way across the Pacific."

"Anyway, I was sometimes assigned to take messages to Adm. Nimitz in his headquarters on Guam. I just handed them over, saluted and left."

"If he recognized me, he didn't let on. He just kept on with his business."

Glenn Ford, 59, is portraying Adm. Raymond A. Spruance, who commanded Task Force 16 including the Hornet and the Enterprise.

"I served under Adm. Spruance during the war," said the actor, now a captain in the Navy Reserves and then assigned to the Coast Guard.

"After the war I got to know Spruance and his wife very well. He was a dedicated man, much respected by his officers and men." Ford was present at the Battle of Midway, serving on a picket boat in the search for the Japanese fleet.

Mitchum, 57, is playing Adm. William F. "Bull" Halsey. It's a one-day job because Halsey, to his great distaste, was hospitalized with a skin ailment during the Battle of Midway.

"Yeah, I met Halsey one time after the war," said Mitchum, who rose to private first class in the Army — "And if I was still in the Army, I'd still be a PFC. ... It was at Marines' Day in Philadelphia. He was a great old bird."

Mitchum reported that he had made a small attempt at a resemblance by cutting his hair "but not like the crew cut that Halsey always had."

Ford also fashioned his hair Navy-style. The most striking conversion is Fonda with his bleached hair.

Knapp First Choice Of Sox

NEW YORK (AP) — A southwestern Michigan player was a first-round selection Wednesday in pro baseball's free agent draft.

Chris Knapp of St. Joseph was selected by the Chicago

CHRIS KNAPP
First Round Pick

White Sox as their top pick. He was the 11th player selected of a total of 384.

Knapp, a former Lakeshore high school pitching star, just concluded his collegiate career at Central Michigan University.

Knapp is believed to be the highest player to go in the baseball draft from this area.

Meanwhile, Dale Berra — son of Mets' manager Yogi Berra — was also a first round choice. And if Yogi wants to congratulate his boy, he has Commissioner Bowen Kuhn's permission — to write a letter.

"I would emphasize that your representatives are not to discuss negotiations by a player with another club," the commissioner warned the 24 major league clubs before Wednesday's draft got started. "If you want to congratulate a player, write him a letter. Any personal contact will be viewed with suspicion."

Yogi's 18-year-old son was picked in the first round of the draft, but not by the Mets. Instead, the Montclair, N.J., high school shortstop was grabbed by the Pittsburgh Pirates after the Mets had decided instead to choose a high school catcher, Alfred Benton of Tallahassee, Fla.

So Berra is forewarned. If he wants to talk to Dale at dinner time, it had better be about the food.

Young Berra batted .520 this season with 52 hits in 100 at bats including 10 home runs. But he may not be ready to turn pro. He's had baseball scholarship offers from Arizona State, Miami and Seton Hall among others and football offers from Ohio State and Notre Dame. His older brother, Tim, was a rookie wide receiver with the National Football League Baltimore Colts last season.

"I am very happy, and he was too," said Yogi, adding that he didn't care which team chose his son, as long as he got chosen.

What about his chances of making it to the majors? "If I didn't think he could play, I wouldn't let him sign," said Yogi. "All I had to do was see him swing the bat to know that he's a prospect."

General Manager Joe McDonald defended the Mets' pick, saying: "We draft by ability and not by position. Al Benton was the player we judged with the best ability when our turn came."

The Pirates also chose another familiar big-league name — later, picking Jim Busby's son, Jim Jr., an outfielder from Florida State University, on the draft's eighth round.

The first player chosen Wednesday was a familiar one to major league scouts — catcher Danny Goodwin of Southern University at Baton Rouge, La. He was selected by the California Angels and it marked the second time that he has been the top choice in the free-agent draft. The Chicago White Sox picked him No. 1 out of high school in 1971 but he went to college instead. Now, he says, he's ready for pro baseball.

He has a career .394 batting average with 20 homers and 166 runs batted in in 169 games at Southern, where he was a premed student. In his senior year, he batted .425 with a .380 slugging percentage and a .461 on-base percentage. He had 46 RBI in 41 games. That prompted the Angels to grab him.

After the Angels drafted Goodwin, the San Diego Padres selected left-handed pitcher Mike Lentz from Kirkland, Wash., who has his own set of impressive statistics.

Lentz was 14-2 with an 0.47 earned run average and 189 strikeouts and 22 walks in 104 innings. For his career, he had a 28-8 record with 441 strikeouts in 249 innings. What's more, he led his high school conference with batting averages of .461 and .451 the last two seasons.

Of the 24 first round selections, 16 were high school graduates and eight were collegiate products. Three of the first seven players chosen were catchers, including Goodwin and Benton. The third catcher picked was Rick Cerone of Seton Hall University, who was chosen by the Cleveland Indians.

Cerone was one of two first-round choices who will be playing in the College World Series at Omaha, Neb., beginning Friday. The other was pitcher Jim Gideon of the University of Texas, who was chosen by the Texas Rangers.

Besides Goodwin, Cerone, and Gideon, the college players selected in the draft's first round were left-handed pitcher Theodore Barnicle of Jacksonville State, picked by San Francisco; right-handed pitcher Knapp of Central Michigan, by the Chicago White Sox; right-handed pitcher Michael McLaughlin of David Lipscomb College, by Houston; first baseman Otis Foster of High Point College, by Boston; and catcher Bruce Robinson of Stanford, by Oakland.

Sixteen rounds were held Wednesday with 384 players selected. The draft continued with the secondary phase today.

Knapp's Dream Comes True

Pitching Great 'Thrilled' Over High Pick

"A dream come true!"

That's how St. Joseph's Chris Knapp reacted to his first round selection by the Chicago White Sox Wednesday in baseball's free agent draft.

Knapp, now staying with his parents at 1415 Castle Cl., St. Joseph, had the honor of being the 11th player selected in the first round. A total of 384 players were picked over 16 rounds on Wednesday.

"It's really a big thrill...I'm really excited," voiced Knapp, a former Lakeshore high school pitching whiz. "Ever since I was nine I've dreamed of playing major league ball."

"I really had no idea I would go that high in the draft. I expected to go fairly high from what my coaches at Central Michigan told me...but not in the first round."

The White Sox drafting came as a pleasant bonus for Knapp...White Sox Park is only about a 90-mile drive from St. Joseph.

"I really didn't care where I went before the draft but the White Sox drafting is a good situation," explains Knapp. "It's fairly close to home and I know a couple of the players in the White Sox organization — that could help out."

According to Knapp, the White Sox were supposed to contact him sometime today and make arrangements over signing a contract. After signing a contract Knapp would probably be assigned directly to one of the White Sox' minor league teams. Knapp, a hard-throwing right-hander, was only 3-4 this year at Central Michigan but he had a 2.60 ERA and fanned 76 batters in 50 innings. He was named to the MAC all-conference second team for the second straight year.

"It was mainly just not getting enough runs," notes Knapp of his losing record. "I lost a two-hitter and a three-hitter and by scores of 1-0 and 2-1."

Knapp's career started in the Benton Harbor Little League and included Benton Harbor Babe Ruth and North Lincoln Connie Mack action.

Knapp, a 6-5, 200-pounder, started his high school career with a freshman 6-3 mark at Benton Harbor St. John's. He then transferred to Lakeshore and compiled a three-year 23-4 record. He was a two-year all-Blossomland choice.

He gained all-conference and most valuable player recognition for two straight years at Kalamazoo Valley Junior College. He was 18-3 overall at Kalamazoo Valley.

Knapp spent the last two years hurling for Central Michigan. He was 4-2 in his first season and 3-4 this spring.

Knapp, who doesn't expect any signing problems, relates he needs work on a change-up pitch.

"I'm going to really have to work hard on developing a change-up pitch to go along with my fast ball."

Knapp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wes Knapp, is the second local player to be drafted from Central Michigan. Dave Machamer of Benton Harbor was drafted by the Angels and is a standout in the Angels' minor league system.

Knapp now can concentrate on becoming a major leaguer and join Don Hopkins at Benton Harbor (Oakland A's) as seeing his "major" goal fulfilled.

Tigers Tap Eight Pitchers In Draft

DETROIT (AP) — If the Detroit Tigers picked wisely Wednesday in the first round of this year's major league draft of amateur players, they won't have to worry about pitching for a while.

The Bengals bagged 16 players, eight of them pitchers. They also chose six infielders, a catcher and an outfielder.

The outfielder was the Tigers' first choice. He is Leslie Filkins of Chicago, who bats and throws from the left side.

But after Filkins, 18, was in the sack, the Tigers turned to pitching, grabbing southpaw John Murphy of Brooklyn, N.Y.

Here is a round-by-round breakdown of the Tigers' picks:

1. Leslie Filkins, 18, outfielder, Chicago.
2. John Murphy, 17, pitcher, Brooklyn, N.Y.
3. Bob Graden, 18, shortstop, Flint.
4. Jason Thompson, 20, first base, Mission Hills, Cal.
5. Lou Whitaker, 18, third base, Marietta, Ga.
6. Jeffrey Reineke, 22, pitcher, Pasadena, Cal.
7. Dana McManus, 21, pitcher, Orange, Cal.
8. Stephen Powers, 21, pitcher, Carmel, Cal.
9. Sandy Lopez, 21, shortstop, San Pedro, Cal.
10. Vince Diaz, 17, catcher, Miami, Fla.
11. Donolo Vavruska, 19, pitcher, Strongsville, Ohio.
12. Charles Black, 18, shortstop, Lima, Ohio.
13. John Rocanelli, 21, pitcher, Pacifica, Cal.
14. Steve Morrison, 17, shortstop, Farmington, Mich.
15. Donolo Thomas, 18, pitcher, New Baltimore, Ohio.
16. Kurt Boesch, 20, pitcher, Portland, Ore.

The draft continues today and Friday.

and then tagging Jeffrey Reineke, Dab McManus and Stephen Powers, all of California, in the sixth through eighth rounds. In between Murphy and Reineke the Tigers picked a trio of infielders.

Two Michigan players — Flint Central shortstop Bob Grandas and Farmington Harrison shortstop Steve Morrison — also were picked by Detroit.

Tiger scouts say Filkins is an outstanding outfielder, has great range, and has line-drive power at bat.

Other Michigan players taken were Chris Knapp of St. Joseph and Central Michigan University, drafted in the first round by the Chicago White Sox, and pitcher Thomas Willette of Plymouth, taken by San Diego.

Pitcher John Poloni of Allen Park went to Texas in the sixth round, outfielder Richard Leach of Flint went to Philadelphia in the 11th round, and Detroit first-baseman Gerald Taylor was picked by Houston in the same circuit. Pitcher David Johnson of Gaylord was grabbed in the opening round by St. Louis.

The Tigers have not had great luck in recent drafts, with Tom Verzyer the only player now on the team who was a top choice.

However, lower choices, such as Leon Roberts, Danny Meyer, Dave Lemanczyk and Vern Ruhle now are with the club. All were picked in 1972.

Latest Charge Denied By Parties Involved

Spartan Gridders Fly-Now-Pay-Later?

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A secret fly-now-pay-later account with a local travel agency was set up by a Michigan State University football coaches to shuttle players and their relatives to the campus, a newspaper reports.

But the parties named in the copyrighted story denied that a secret special account existed or that football players or recruits were given credit beyond that normally granted many other students.

Credit was extended to travelers on an individual basis and not in any special "account," and they were required to pay the bill, the parties said.

The Lansing State Journal said Wednesday a special account was arranged between MSU assistant football coach Howard Weyers and Lee Harrington of Harrington Travel of East Lansing. The arrangement allowed athletes to travel on credit against future summer job earnings, the Journal said.

About 15 to 20 trips were taken by MSU football recruits, players or their families on the account from the time it was opened in late 1974 and closed in early 1975, the State Journal said.

The newspaper said a National Collegiate Athletic Association investigator refused comment on the situation. But the unnamed official said hypothetically the use of a fly-now-pay-later account could be a "problem area" and "by design, it could be wrong."

The NCAA is investigating allegations of MSU football recruiting violations. Weyers reportedly stands in the center of the investigation.

The paper quoted the NCAA investigator as saying a pay-later account set up for recruits — even if they already signed a letter of intent to come to a university — might be considered aid from an outside source or improper inducement.

Payments to the alleged account were made in a haphazard way, and the balance due was described as something reaching alarming figures, the State Journal said.

Harrington denied a special account ever existed for MSU football players, their families or football coaches. His travel agency arranged flights for those people but on an individual account basis, Harrington said.

NCAA rules allow schools to pick up the tab for one visit by a recruiting prospect. After that, it is up to the student to pay the bill, Harrington said.

"Some of the players have traveled on credit, but so have other students," Harrington said. "Depending on who refers them or the individual circumstances surrounding each and if we feel certain there is no problem with payments, we go along with that for other people."

When a football player asks for travel credit, the company finds out the youth's financial situation and asks Weyers or some other coach if the player is good for the money, Harrington said. Other MSU students have been able to travel on future summer job income if they have good references and appear to be good risks, he said.

During recruiting season, there are occasionally outstanding bills for the traveling coaches, totaling up to $2,000 to $3,000, Harrington said. The total of bills owed by players have never been over $500 at a single time, Harrington said.

He accepts something that's illegal he knows it's wrong. Until some burden of responsibility is put on a player you'll never really finish it (illegal recruiting).

"...I never accepted a football coaching job where I didn't feel I could win straight. I've never been involved in any program where violations occurred."

Schembechler began his coaching career in 1961 as a graduate assistant under Hayes and has coached at five other schools, including Michigan.

TIME OUT!

"Darn it, isn't your mother disgusted yet with the way we're doing the wallpapering in the dining room?"

Bo Would Punish Recruiting Recipients

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Punish the recipients of illegal recruiting methods, insists Bo Schembechler, and then it will be easier to control the problem.

However, "there is not as much illegal recruiting going on as you people believe," the University of Michigan football coach said Wednesday in a speech to the Michigan Associated Press Sports Editors Association in Lansing.

"You will never stop it until you place some of the responsibility on the illegal recipient," he said.

The highly successful Wolverine coach spoke on a variety of topics but opened his comments with the remarks on recruiting.

Prior to his formal statement, he was besieged by questions on the matter, particularly because of an investigation by the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Big Ten over alleged recruiting violations by Michigan State.

MSU President Clifton Wharton Jr., has put a gag on university officials until July 11 when the school is to make an announcement of its own investigation results.

Asked if investigators came to U-M and what they might have discovered there, Schembechler said: "They talked to every kid on our team...I said I have no concrete information on anything. All the information I have is hearsay."

A number of reports said Coach Woody Hayes of Ohio State prompted the MSU investigation by indicating alleged Spartan recruiting illegalities. Those reports have never been confirmed.

Schembechler was asked if he knew of any Michigan State infractions of recruiting rules.

"Probably no," he said. "...I know as much as I've read."

Schembechler denied stories that Michigan recruiters purportedly advised prospects not to go to Michigan State because the school was under investigation and might be put on probation.

He said one investigator told him there was no evidence linking Michigan with such tactics and quoted the investigator as saying, "Bo, I want you to know everyone we talked to said it's been right down the line with you."

"For seven years it's been that way at Michigan," Schembechler said of his tenure there, "and that's the way it will be."

He said every player he recruits is told everything he may legally accept and that illegal offers such as use of a car, are violations.

"We feel a youngster coming out of high school is a grown man. He knows right from wrong," Schembechler said. "If

Phillies, Luzinski 'Slug' Padres

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

San Diego's Bill Greif played hit-and-run against the Phillies but slugger Greg Luzinski wasn't playing.

The Padres and the Phils enlivened their game with an exchange of beanballs Wednesday night. First Greif hit Philadelphia's Dave Cash in the sixth. Then Tug McGraw threw close to San Diego's John Grubb in the seventh. When Greif fired one over Luzinski's head in the bottom of the seventh, the big outfielder charged the mound.

"I hit him a few times," said Luzinski. "He ran looking for help. What I said to him isn't printable."

Both teams emptied their benches, there was a lot of milling around and shoving, but the only casualty was Padre third baseman Ted Kubiak who caught an elbow on the head.

The umpires, surprisingly, decided not to kick anyone out of the game.

"They were two people wanting each other," explained plate umpire Doug Harvey. "Just let 'em go at each other. We surrounded the group looking for cheap shots. A cheap shot and the man goes."

No one went. Oh yes, Philadelphia won the ballgame 7-2.

Mike Schmidt and Ollie Brown homered for the Phils and Wayne Twitchell, 4-6, was the winner. Schmidt's homer was his 10th of the season and fourth in the last three games.

Elsewhere in the National League, Pittsburgh edged Cincinnati 2-1, Los Angeles blanked Montreal 3-0, New York shaded Houston 1-0, St. Louis beat Atlanta 5-2 and San Francisco outslugged Chicago 10-8.

Jerry Reuss hurled no-hit ball until Dave Concepcion smashed a single off his right shin with one out in the seventh. Reuss had to leave the game but Dave Giusti and Ramon Hernandez held the Reds in check. Al Oliver's sacrifice fly in the first and Richie Hebner's home run in the fifth accounted for the Pittsburgh scoring.

The Dodgers were held hitless through seven innings and wound up with just two safeties on the night. They got all three runs in the fifth off Dennis Blair, 2-7, who left after five frames despite not allowing a hit. Andy Messersmith, 8-2, pitched an eight-hitter.

Jerry Koosman hurled a five-hitter and Ed Kranepool singled in the game's only run in the first inning. Koosman raised his record to 5-3 with his 20th career shutout. Kranepool had three hits to raise his batting average to .412.

Reggie Smith broke a 2-2 tie with a two-run triple in the eighth and then scored on Ken Reitz' single for St. Louis. Lou Brock raced all the way home from first on a single by Luis Melendez for another Cardinal run. John Curtis, 3-3, won it with relief help from Al Hrabosky.

Light-hitting Derrel Thomas and rookie Glenn Adams smacked ninth-inning home runs, powering the Giants to a wild victory over the Cubs.

Both blasts, two of the five the Giants hit, came off losing reliever Oscar Zamora. Thomas' shot was his second of the season and broke an 8-8 tie. Adams' homer was his second of the game and third of the year.

The Cubs had tied the score 8-8 in the bottom of the eighth on Bill Madlock's run-scoring double.

Marc Hill's run-scoring single with two out in the top of the eighth inning had put the Giants ahead 8-7. Hill's hit scored Ed Goodson, who beat out an infield hit with two out and went to second on shortstop Don Kessinger's wild throw.

The see-saw slugfest, in which seven home runs were hit, was tied 7-7 in the bottom of the seventh on a run-scoring pinch single by the Cubs' John Summers, which followed Manny Trillo's single and a walk to Steve Swisher.

Bobby Murcer, Adams and Hill homered earlier for the Giants, with Adams hitting a three-run shot to cap a four-run sixth inning. The Cubs, however, came back with four runs in the bottom of the sixth, with two scoring when Gary Thomasson dropped Madlock's fly ball for a two-base error.

Madlock and Trillo homered for the Cubs. Hill and Murcer hit their homers in the top of the seventh, putting San Francisco ahead 7-6.

Angels' Figueroa Checks

Tigers, Convinces Herzog

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — When Whitey Herzog first saw Ed Figueroa throw a baseball you could say he was unimpressed.

That was back in 1968 when Herzog was managing in the New York Mets chain at Durham, North Carolina and Figueroa was struggling along in his third season in the minors.

He didn't struggle long for Herzog. After seven appearances which produced an 0-2 record and an inflated 6.05 ERA, Herzog handed Figueroa his release.

"I didn't think he could throw that hard," Herzog reasoned.

Herzog, now a coach with the California Angels, caught Figueroa's act again Wednesday night and his opinion of the 26-year-old Angel pitcher was noticeably different.

"I'm amazed how hard he throws now," applauded Herzog, who along with fellow coach Grover Reisinger handled the reins for the Angels in the absence of Dick Williams who stayed in the clubhouse fighting the flu bug.

"He's sneaky fast ... I'd say he has a major league fastball," Herzog said of Figueroa.

These remarks were prompted by Figueroa's six-hit, 2-1 conquest of the Detroit Tigers Wednesday night at Anaheim Stadium. It was only the second victory in eight outings for the Angels who will try to make it two straight tonight when they send Bill Singer, 4-7, against Detroit rookie Vern Riffe (5-1) in the finale of the three-game series.

Figueroa improved his record to 4-1 and in his four successes — a six-hitter, a five-hitter and a pair of three-hitters — he has permitted the opposition just four earned runs in 31 innings, a ERA of 0.76.

U.S. Has Only Five Left

In British Amateur Golf

HOYLAK, England (AP) — The United States contingent is down to five going into the fourth day of the British Amateur Golf Championship.

Hoylelake's deceptive 6,989-yard par-72 layout on England's west coast was proving as tricky as ever, and only five U.S. Walker Cup stars made today's last 32 in the six-day competition.

An original U.S. entry of 37 hopefuls had started as hot favorites to produce a winner, but the American contingent was almost shattered by a mixture of bad weather, bad luck and plain bad play.

Even the winners were nervous.

Dick Siderow, a stockbroker from Westport, Conn. and winner of this coveted match play crown in 1973, summed up his thoughts this way: "I'm feeling very shaky and I'm certainly not going to win when the pressure comes on if I don't get my game right."

Another survivor into the fourth round, 27-year-old John Grace of Fort Worth, Tex., said his game also wasn't 100 per cent yet.

"I just hope it comes right when it really matters," said Grace, a real estate businessman.

Even the usually cheerful and talkative Craig Stadler, a senior at the University of Southern California, was subdued and anxious.

"I'm getting to know the course better each day," Stadler said. "But I'm still doing poorly on the front side."

There are plenty of reasons for all the worrying thoughts.

Six out of the eight seeded players were gone at the end of round three Wednesday. The only surviving seeds were Siderow and England's Dick Eyles.

Upsets were the rule. They included little Neville Chess, a 17-year-old English youngster who bounced out U.S. champion and joint top seed Jerry Pate of Pensacola, Fla., and Nicky Fald, another 17-year-old from Scotland who overwhelmed seeded Englishman John Davies with an astonishing seven birdies.

Then there was Gavin Levenson, unknown outside his native South Africa, who stunned George Burns of Port Washington, N.Y., the other top seed, with a two-hole second round win.

Hoping to put these shocks behind him, Siderow now meets England's Jack Tate. Grace is up against Geoffrey Godwin of England while Stadler's fourth round opponent is Geoff Marks of England.

The other American fourth round hopes hinged on Hay Haas of Winston-Salem, N.C., and Vinny Giles of Richmond, Va. Haas takes on Scotland's Peter Wilson and Giles meets the seeded Eyles.

Area Baseball Hopes Riding With Mustangs, Bees

Can River Valley and Bridgman continue their heated baseball feud?

That question will be answered this Saturday when the two county teams carry the lone area colors in regional competition of the state baseball tournament.

The Mustangs have pranced to 16 wins in their last 17 games in carving an overall 21-5 record. Valley's lone setback in that hot stretch, which included a 12-game winning streak, was a 6-5 loss in nine innings to Buchanan in the Blossomland conference title clash. On April 17 the Mustangs were only 5-4.

Bridgman is only 10-9 overall but has come on strong the last half of the season with seven victories in its last nine contests.

River Valley, which lost in the regional finals in Class B last year, will meet Hanover-Horton at noon Saturday in the second game of the Kalamazoo Hackett Class C regional. Bridgman, reaching the regionals for the first time, will face Morenci at 12:30 p.m. in the Class D regional at North Adams high school.

The Mustangs appear to have a solid shot at winning the regional with two strong pitchers, a hefty team batting mark of .288 and the benefit of some tough district competition.

"If we play as we're capable of playing I think we have a good chance," says Valley coach Jerry Hinman. "We came from an awfully tough district. But last Saturday we were careless at times. We made mistakes that could cost us games further along."

Steve Rennhack and Dan Hinman give the Mustangs a one-two kick in the pitching department. Rennhack is 10-3 with an 1.61 ERA and 128 fans in 90 innings while Hinman is 8-2 with an 1.75 ERA and 70 strikeouts in 63 and two-thirds innings.

Outfielder Cary Harrington tops the River Valley hitters with his .368 average. Jeff Jackson is slugging .348. Dave North .344 and Denny Busse .307.

"We've been hitting the ball real good, that's a big factor," notes Hinman. "Also different guys have come through for us in different games. North had a big day Saturday but Greg Johnson, our ninth hitter, hit a big three-run homer the week before against Berrien Springs."

The Mustangs also have two fine pinch-hitters in Roger Shermak, out most of the season with knee problems, and Mark Francis. Shermak, North, Rennhack and Hinman were all starters on last year's squad which lost to Lowell 5-1 in the regional title contest.

Hanover-Horton (12-5) is also on a sizzling streak with 10 consecutive triumphs, including a 6-2 win over East Jackson Monday in its district title game. Hanover-Horton, two cities located about seven miles apart just southwest of Jackson, has a .400 hitter in Jim Brown and standout pitchers in Brown and Larry Goldsmith.

The four Kalamazoo Hackett regional clubs have a combined 67-18 record. However, host Hackett, which creamed Galesburg-Augusta 18-1 in its district final, will be without leading pitcher Dave Schanz (6-1, 1.75 ERA), who will be on a trip to the Bahamas. Hackett has beaten seven Class A schools this spring.

The Hackett regional games will be played at Sutherland Field, Lake Michigan Catholic, ousted last Saturday, is defending regional champ.

Bridgman looms as a darkhorse candidate in the North Adams regional.

"We're probably not the strongest team in the regional but if we continue to get strong pitching—that's the key—we'll be okay," offers Bee coach Gary Owen. "We've been playing real good ball the last half of the season. Our defense has really been outstanding...we're only averaging one error a game in the last six games."

Dan Kamradt holds a 6-1 mark and 2.15 ERA while Jeff Runser is 4-6 with a 2.10 ERA. Runser is also hitting .400. Dale Burwell .350 and John Jones .330.

Bridgman, hitting .260 as a team, has been getting excellent defensive work from center-fielder Chuck Jaymes and shortstop Burwell.

The Bees, who finished in a four-way tie for third place in the final Red Arrow standings, will meet Morenci, which ended second in the Lenawee County Athletic Association. Morenci, located 15 miles south of Adrian on the Indiana border, has a .446 batter in Ken VanArsdalen.

Climax-Scotts, St. Joe Valley champs, will be the regional favorite based on its 16-1 record.

All regional winners Saturday will advance to the state semi-finals and finals the following Saturday. Rain date for this Saturday's games is Monday.

Red Arrow Stars Selected Fearsome Foursome Athletes Of Year

A fearsome foursome of Red Arrow stars are the latest nominees for the 1975 Berrien County Sportswriters Award.

Jim McVay of Watersliet, Taylor Lanier of Eau Claire, Jeff Runser of Bridgman and Bill Decker of Berrien Springs have been selected to represent their schools in the 26th annual competition for the trophy awarded to the county's top senior athlete.

The award will be presented June 10 at a banquet at Tosi's restaurant.

McVay won an amazing total of 15 letters in four varsity sports. He received all-conference honors twice in football as a lineman and was an honorable mention pick in basketball last season. The 6-2½, 210-pound McVay was the top shot put thrower in the area this spring with his toss of 50 feet, ½ inch heading the honor roll. He also took first in the shot in the conference meet, regional, Rotary and Lions Invitational.

McVay, who carried a four-year perfect average of 4.0 and was also active in choir and student government, will attend Western Michigan on a football scholarship.

Lanier was one of the most spectacular running backs in area history. The Beaver great set Red Arrow scoring records last fall and led all area rushers with 1,578 yards (7.3 per carry). His three-year rushing stats include three straight 1,000 yards seasons, a total of 3,789 and a 6.8 average. His scoring records include 278 points overall and 216 in the league. He made all-conference three consecutive years and was named to the Class C all-state team last fall.

Lanier also was one of the area's leading wrestlers the last two years with an overall 19-3 record this past season as the regional runnerup. He also won four track letters and set conference records this spring in the 100 and 220 dashes.

The 6-0, 185-pound star, who will attend Central Michigan on a full ride football scholarship, was a member of the Varsity Club and Fellowship Of Christian Athletes.

Runser captured a total of 11 letters in four years of competition. He was a member of the all-conference football team the last two years and a second-team choice in 1972. Runser also took first-unit honors on the all-conference basketball squad the last two years. Runser is the leading hitter (.400) on the Bee baseball team this spring.

Runser is a member of the Honor Society and has held several school offices. He plans to go to Southwestern Michigan College and play basketball.

Decker participated in football, basketball and track and had the rare honor of being named to star football teams in two leagues (Berrien switched from the Blossomland to the Red Arrow conference). He was the Shamrocks' MVP in football in 1972 and also the Golden Key Award winner the same year.

Decker made the honorable mention list of the all-league cage team this year and also was a member of the Berrien mile relay team this spring which took first in the conference and regionals and set a new school record.

Decker, who will attend Ferris State, was president of the Varsity Club this past year and president of his class as a sophomore.

The 100-lap race has prize monies of $750 for first and $500 for second, and is expected to draw some of the best drivers from the Michigan-Indiana area.

The program for Super Stocks and Streaker Stocks gets underway at 7 p.m. with time trials. Racing starts at 8:30.

Gillette's Bat Carries Plangger's Past Cobra

Vic Gillette pounded out three hits, a double and two singles, for a perfect 3-for-3 to pace Plangger's to a 4-3 win over Cobra Wednesday night in a Michiana League game at Plangger's Park.

Nick Shushman tripled for the winners while Fred Chabot and Dick Hocker had RBI singles in the third inning.

Rick Plangger fanned five and allowed five hits in picking up the mound win. He survived back-to-back homers by Cobra in the fifth inning.

Plangger's, which had eight hits, is now 9-8 for the season and travels to Kankakee (Ill.) Friday night for its next game.

Decathlon Gives Cougars Lead

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Clarence Robinson wouldn't mind if the NCAA Track and Field Championships were turned into a series of decathlons.

The Brigham Young University head coach grinned despite cold winds late Wednesday night after four of his athletes gave the Cougars 19 points even before the single events begin in the 53rd annual collegiate title meet, and the hometown favorite, Raimo Pihl, came through with a meet record and a victory.

The muscular 25-year-old Pihl scored 8,079 points — just 10 short of C.K. Yang's collegiate record — and said it was only the start of much bigger things.

"I missed the javelin badly," said Pihl. "It made me sick. I just blew it. I know I can throw much further."

Pihl has done 278-1 in the javelin and his 238-0 may have been a disappointment but still surpassed the NCAA meet mark he set two years ago when he won his first NCAA title.

"It's nice to have those 19 points on the scoreboard," said Robinson. "I only wish they had more decathlons."

"Still, it's nice to have the lead. Maybe those early points will become contagious."

He said two factors hurt Pihl as he attempted to break the Yang mark and the Swedish national record of 8,188.

"The altitude — if he had competed at a lower altitude — he certainly would have scored better. Also, the 100 and long jump being contested in the rain on Tuesday really hurt," said the coach.

Oregon's Craig Brigham scored 7,847 for second but Chrysler Lythell of BYU grabbed third, teammate Stefan von Gerich was fifth and Aaro Alaruto, sixth in the 10-86-4-2-1 scoring.

Today's session, with only qualifying races and field events, opens with some unusual pairings in the heats.

Jamaica's Hasley Crawford, running for Eastern Michigan, and defending champion Reggie Jones were seeded next to each other in the second heat of the 100-yard dash.

Jones gets another stiff test in the 220. Defending champion James Jilks is in the same heat against Jones, last year's runner-up in the furlong.

Another dogfight shapes up in the second heat of the 800, where experienced Bob Smith of Louisiana State and Keith Francis of Boston College meet upstarts Mark Eneyart of Utah State and Alan Schultz of BYU.

And, if that isn't enough, defending mile champion Paul Cummings of BYU is in the same heat with Villanova's Eamonn Coghlin, who ran a 3:53.3 mile just two weeks ago.

The 1975 meet throws a new challenge from recent years at the athletes. The 1973 meet was at Baton Rouge, La., and last year, at Austin, Texas, where both meets were beset by excessive heat and humidity.

The biggest obstacle this year is the 4,500-foot altitude and cold evening breezes.

Ali 'KO's' Harvard Seniors With Lecture

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Harvard University seniors whooped and shouted as world heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali made his debut as a Harvard lecturer Wednesday night.

More than 1,200 students jammed the Harvard Business School auditorium to hear the words of the famed boxer who admits to "barely making it out of high school with a D-minus average."

For more than an hour, Ali talked without notes to the predominantly white audience about life and love and the value of true friendship.

"I had to let you know there are more sides to Muhammad Ali than you see on television," the 33-year-old fighter told Harvard's graduating class.

"People don't pay for that," he said of his lecture and poem on friendship. "They pay for foolishness."

In a lecture interrupted by applause and several standing ovations, Ali urged the students to "remember what you are today, because when you make it, you have a tendency to forget what you were yesterday."

"I'm from Louisville, Ky., a little black boy who made $18 a week and wanted to be Golden Gloves champ," he said.

Ali estimated he would make about $2 million in his next bout with Joe Bugner of Great Britain, set for July 1 in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia.

Noting that some of those present in the auditorium would go on to be presidents, doctors, lawyers and scientists, Ali added, "I understand to speak to you, it's got to be pretty heavy."

But it was the familiar "Ali shuffle" and the fighter's quips about an imitation of sports-caster Howard Cosell that really brought the house down.

Most of the queries tossed at Ali during the question and answer session which ended the program tended to be light, referring to his antics in and out of the ring. One of the few serious questions was about the Boston school integration situation, which was "I don't know nothing about Boston," Ali said. "We love our Islamic schools. We're too proud," he said, to want to be integrated into white schools.

"I don't hate nobody," he added. "I just love my own. Why upset the whole neighborhood? Exert your energies in your own neighborhoods. The problem is not busing, the problem is not a white problem, the problem is in your mind."

No Ali appearance would be complete without poetry, and the champion had a few offerings for the students.

At his wife Melinda's request, he recited his shortest poem, "How it feels to be as great as me."

"Me. Whee."

Ali told a news conference earlier in the day he expected to be in the fight business five more years, then spend another 10 years in exhibition bouts to "let them see the ex-champ in places like Libya and Malaysia."

Belmont Stakes Expected To Produce Exciting Race

NEW YORK (AP) — "It's going to be some horse race, I can tell you that," says LeRoy Jolley, trainer of Kentucky Derby-winner Foolish Pleasure, who is one of the top contenders for Saturday's $125,000-added Belmont Stakes.

Foolish Pleasure, Preakness champion Master Derby and seven other 3-year-olds were expected to be entered this morning for the 107th running of the 1½-mile final leg of the Triple Crown at Belmont Park.

Others expected to be entered were Avalar, runnerup in the Kentucky Derby; Diabolo, third in both the Derby and Preakness; Singh, winner of the Jersey Derby on Memorial Day; Prince Thon Art, conqueror of Foolish Pleasure in the Florida Derby; Nalees Rialto and the Johnny Campo-trained entry of Just The Time and Syllabus.

Seattle Zonkers?

SEATTLE (AP) — Somewhere between Aardvarks and Zonkers may lie a name for Seattle's National Football League team. The selection process comes up Tuesday at a meeting of Seattle Professional Football.

More than 3,000 proposed nicknames were submitted in 20,365 entries during the "Name the Team" contest that ended Saturday.

Herman Sarkowsky, a spokesman for SPF, the franchise owner, said the nicknames would be discussed at Tuesday's meeting "but I don't know if we will select the winner."

Elimination Of Center Jump, Third Official

NBA Proposes Two New Rule Changes

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The National Basketball Association may do away with center jumps and add a third official for its games next season.

But which team, if any, will George McGinnis be playing for?

The proposed rules changes, to be tried on an experimental basis in exhibition games and perhaps adopted for the 1975-76 regular season, were the most interesting items coming out of Wednesday's NBA Board of Governors meetings.

Outside the meeting room, the Golden State Warriors completed a trade made last week by sending guard Butch Beard to the Cleveland Cavaliers and there was continued speculation that Milwaukee would trade 7-foot-2 star Kareem Abdul-Jabbar. The NBA champion Warriors earlier gave Cleveland two draft picks in exchange for veteran forward Dwight Davis.

The agenda for today's final sessions of the league meeting included the cases of McGinnis and Julius Erving, co-Most Valuable Players of the ABA this past season.

McGinnis bought his way out of his contract with the Indiana Pacers and signed last week with the NBA's New York Knicks for almost $3 million. But the Philadelphia 76ers hold NBA draft rights to the ABA scoring champion and want the signing declared illegal and void.

Erving is playing now with the ABA's New York Nets under a long-term contract, but the Atlanta Hawks signed him three years ago, a few days before the Bucks selected him in the NBA draft. The Hawks were fined for using him in two exhibition games, then sold his rights to the Nets. The Bucks have asked for compensation.

Larry O'Brien, new NBA commissioner, said he hoped decisions could be made today in both cases.

Boston Celtics President Red Auerbach and special league consultant Eddie Gottlieb announced the proposed changes involving center jumps and officiating. Both are on the league's competition committee.

Instead of having center jumps to open each period of a game, the teams will alternate taking the ball out of bounds. There still would be jump balls called during the game in tieup situations.

"There are a lot of reasons for the change," Auerbach said, including the fact that short referees have trouble throwing the ball straight up and high enough for 7-foot centers.

Under the NBA proposal, the third official would be called the umpire and would work along one side of the court between the foul lines, making calls involving the 24-second shooting clocks, goaltending, 10-second violations and shots taken at the end of each period.

DOING FINE: Dual Purpose, a three-year-old filly, and her colt were doing fine Wednesday at Golden Gate Fields in Albany, Calif. On Tuesday, Dual Purpose finished 10th in a field of 12, but before returning to the barn she gave birth to the colt. Track spokesmen say the name and whereabouts of the father is unknown. ## Interest Shifting To Colleges--Byers KANSAS CITY (AP) — Walter Byers, executive director of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, feels interest in professional sports has peaked and college sports are even more in demand now, particularly by the television networks.

"There are signals that spectator attendance and interest is shifting away from the pros and more toward the colleges,"

Byers said. "There has been tremendous interest in college sports on television and our NCAA basketball tournament was in the top three of the ratings. There was more interest in it than in professional basketball."

Byers told 100 members of the Associated Press Sports Editors Convention that spectator attendance had increased 83.5 per cent at collegiate football games in the past 20 years. He said there was a drop of one-tenth of one per cent last year, and attributed it to the economy more than a drop in interest.

"I think newspapers are taking a broader look at the sports spectrum," said Byers. "I believe pro sports has reached its crescendo and we have reached a time of change."

Byers said the NCAA was concerned that with an uncertain economy that professional football — with its numerous games — might take away some of the exposure given the college game.

On other subjects, Byers said, "I believe major moves will be made economically," when a special NCAA session convenes in Chicago in August. "I have never seen so much unity to achieve a common objective ... and the greatest determination for money saving is in Division I among the major schools."

Byers said he felt economy cuts would include cutting down coaching staffs, the number of visits for schoolboy recruits, and cutting traveling squads.

Asked from the floor to comment on the illegal recruiting charged by some coaches, Byers said, "I don't believe there is any more cheating in recruiting than there used to be. We just have more investigative reporting going on which is bringing it to the surface."

"We should restrict multiple visits, beef up enforcement and have more effective penalties," said Byers, who added the NCAA would implement these procedures as soon as possible.

DH Makes Lolic Work Harder

DETROIT (AP) — Becoming baseball's all-time left-handed strikeout ace — as Mickey Lolich will likely do in this weekend's series in Oakland — hasn't been made any easier with the establishment of the designated hitter rule.

Lolich, the Detroit Tigers' winningest southpaw pitcher, figures the DH rule has lopped plenty of strikeouts off his total. Perhaps several hundred.

Heading into his next start the 34-year-old, 13-year veteran has totaled 2,582 strikeouts. Three strikeouts Sunday against Chicago put him at that figure, moving him one ahead of Bob Feller for sixth place on the all-time list.

Two more strikeouts will push him past Warren Spahn into fifth place. Spahn is the only lefty in the top five. The first four strikeout aces are Walter Johnson, Bob Gibson, Jim Bunning and Cy Young.

"Since the DH rule you're not going to have any more games when you strike out 10 or 11," Lolich said. "I used to do that a lot. Now when you strike out six or seven that's a lot."

"When the DH came in my strikeout average dropped to four or five a game."

Asked if he is glad he doesn't have to bat any more, since the DH bats in place of the pitcher, Lolich said: "I wish I did have to bat because the other pitcher would have to bat too. With the DH you have to go as hard as you can for nine innings. Pitching is a lot more difficult than it used to be. It takes a lot more out of you."

Pitchers often, if not as a rule, struck out when they batted.

Generally a pitcher would get to the plate at least three times in a game at the bottom of the order. A pitcher could breathe easy when he got to the bottom of the order because there were usually at least two light hitters.

Tiger Manager Ralph Houk is extremely high on three minor league pitching prospects, and their promotion to Detroit shouldn't be too far away. They are Frank McCormack, Mark Limongello and Gene Pentz. All are righthanders.

Catcher Bob Adams is another farm player tabbed soon for the big club.

Third baseman Aurelio Rodriguez, "is the best fielding third baseman we've ever had," says Tiger General Manager Jim Campbell. But he adds that George Kell also was a fine fielder, besides being a top hitter.

Newcomer Bob Reynolds says his spring training holdout with Baltimore "probably wasn't worth it."

The right-handed pitcher wanted $2,000 more than the Orioles were willing to pay and he consequently reported to camp about a week late. He wound up working only six innings before he was traded to the Tigers recently.

Berrien Action Marks 6 Months Of Expansion

Berrien County Action, Inc., the antipoverty agency for the county, is marking its sixth month as a new expanded program, according to Helen Ford, BCA executive director. BCA was formed in 1973 to replace the former Tri-CAP antipoverty agency, but Mrs. Ford said BCA had been "low profile and non-functioning" until recently.

Mrs. Ford pointed to expanded staff, grant resources and office space as signs of the agency's growth and progress. Quarters have been expanded from a small office at the Model Cities Highland house in September to a five-room suite of offices in the Fidelity building with community service centers in Niles, Coloma and New Buffalo. All office space is rent-free and donated by the building owners.

The BCA staff has been expanded from one executive director in September to its current two secretaries, a bookkeeper, program planner, coordinator, 12 community outreach workers and a crew of winterizing workers, according to Mrs. Ford.

Grant resources have also been increased in the past six months, according to Mrs. Ford. From a budget of $24,000 left over from two previous years, the agency has increased its resources for the year to $88,000, Mrs. Ford said. The agency receives funds from the U.S. Department of Labor and the Federal Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA).

Services offered by the agency include Community Outreach, Emergency Food Bank, Emergency Clothing, Home Winterization, Information and Referral and four advisory boards throughout the county.

Mrs. Ford, who previously headed the county Tri-CAP antipoverty agency, was appointed as executive director of BCA in October.

Milliken Appointments

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Two appointments and one reappointment have been made to the state Board of Nursing for terms expiring Sept. 17, 1977.

Appointed by Gov. William Milliken were Virginia A. Smith of Grand Rapids and John H. Wick of Livonia. Reappointed was Ann Marie Casey of Midland.

Southern Rock Talks Plain Like Wallace's Speeches

By MATT YANCEY
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — After years of being ignored by almost all areas of the music industry except country, the South has risen again in the field of rock 'n' roll.

Not that it ever left, really. Elvis Presley and Jerry Lee Lewis, reared on a tradition of blues and country and western, have always stirred enough interest to keep serious rockers aware of their roots.

But the Southern style of rock found itself taking a back seat to the British groups and the more bizarre and elaborate stage productions of some American bands beginning in the mid '60s.

A tune by a group out of Atlanta called "Midnight Rider" kindled a new pride among Southerners in their music. Soon afterwards, the rest of the nation's latent hard rockers were on to the Allman Brothers Band.

Now, the Charlie Daniels Band has put it all in song. The two featured singles from the Mt. Juliet, Tenn., group's latest album are "The South's Gonna Do It Again" and "Long-Haired Country Boy."

"The old Allman Brothers Band was the flagship of the movement," Daniels says. "They weren't just another super group; they meant something to a lot of people, funky street people."

At 38, Daniels is emerging in his own right with a style that picks up from bluegrass, folk, Negro spirituals, blues, bigband and country.

It's not hard to see why. For years he was regarded as one of the top studio fiddlers and guitar pickers in Nashville, recording with Bob Dylan, Ringo Starr, Pete Seeger, Leonard Cohen and Flatt & Scruggs, among others.

Daniels attributes the revival in Southern music to a new emphasis on getting back to rural roots and the same type of feeling that causes people to identify with George Wallace.

"We play music like George Wallace makes speeches," Daniels says. "I WOULDN'T VOTE FOR Wallace, but I can understand every word that comes out of his mouth."

"Ralph Nader's got something important to say, but he'll get on television and speak in such stilted terms that people will turn the channel."

"People identify with George Wallace because they know what he's talking about. Southern bands are the same; they play basic music that people can understand." Daniels' popularity, along with that of other Southern rock acts like the Marshall Tucker Band, Wet Willie, Lynyrd Skynyrd and the Allman Brothers exemplifies a turn away from the more decadent and theatrical. There's no jumping around all over a stage when they put on a show.

Daniels lives a quiet middle-class, middle-class lifestyle when he's home with his wife and 11-year-old son. Helped by success motivation books, he's reduced from 325 to 250 pounds in the last year.

"It has to be the music," he says. "I surely ain't a sex symbol."

May Auto Sales Increase

DETROIT (AP) — U.S. car sales in May, although still down sharply from year-ago levels, ran 16 per cent ahead of April's anemic pace to signal a modest upturn for the beleaguered auto industry. Even so, deliveries were the lowest for a May in 14 years. Import sales were down 3 per cent from a good April performance but outpaced their weak May 1974 results to capture an 18.5 per cent share of the U.S. market. The four major U.S. companies on Wednesday reported May sales of 602,789, an increase from 517,637 in April, but a 21 per cent decline from 766,443 in May 1974.

Group Against Delay

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Research Council says the government should stick to standards for automobile pollution set to go into effect in 1978. The Environmental Protection Administration has proposed a five-year postponement of the standards. In a 26-page report Wednesday, a group of 22 council members concluded that achievement of the 1978 standards for emissions of hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide "is both feasible and worthwhile." The group said it is "probably feasible" to achieve the 1978 standard for nitrogen oxides on schedule, but the participants could not agree whether meeting the deadline would be worth its costs. EPA Administrator Russell E. Train has proposed to ease the nitrogen oxide standard and to postpone for five years the full application of the hydrocarbon and carbon monoxide standards.

Mental Health Study Asked

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A state representative, noting the number of foreign psychiatrists employed in state mental institutions, has called for a Department of Mental Health manpower study. "The department has had great difficulty in recruiting American trained personnel, especially physicians with training in institutional and community psychiatry," said Rep. Peter Kok, R-Grand Rapids, sponsor of the study resolution. More than 50 per cent of the psychiatrists employed in state mental institutions are of foreign origin, Kok said. "There has been a growing concern about language and cultural barriers which may affect the quality of care provided by these doctors," he said.

Bilingual Funds Approved

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Board of Education has approved applications for almost $750,000 in federal money to set up four bilingual vocational programs. Requesting funds were the Detroit Board of Education ($100,000), Charles Stewart Mott Community College in Flint ($224,868), the Latin American Council for Western Michigan in Grand Rapids ($206,160), and the Lansing School District ($218,710). The programs are designed for persons whose limited English speaking ability hampers efforts to get jobs. The board also approved $300,000 in grants for training those who will conduct bilingual classes in five school districts. The programs are in the Birmingham-Oak Park-Southfield, Detroit, Grand Rapids, Lansing and Saginaw school districts and will be used as models for other programs.

Compromise Won By U.P.

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — House Conservation Committee members agreed Wednesday to draft a compromise measure limiting lawsuits under the state Environmental Protection Act. The compromise is a nod to Upper Peninsula legislators who argue the 1970 act may impede industrial expansion in Northern Michigan. Lawmakers said the compromise probably will stipulate that once permits are issued for industrial or other expansion projects, citizens groups would have a "grace period" of a month to 45 days to file lawsuits on environmental grounds. After the grace period, lawsuits could not be filed under the provisions of the act. The act says potential harm to the environment is a basis for courts to block projects. The legislation, introduced on behalf of mining interests, would prohibit lawsuits once the proper agencies have issued permits.

Degree Programs Approved

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Board of Education has approved 11 new degree programs for five Michigan colleges and universities. The institutions are Eastern Michigan University, Ferris State College, Grand Valley State College, Northern Michigan University and Saginaw Valley College. The board also approved bilingual education teaching majors in Spanish, Arabic and Chaldean for Detroit's Mercy College.

Methodist Will Ordain

ADRIAN, Mich. (AP) — Thirty-eight ministers, including five women, were approved for ordination as a four-day United Methodist conference opened Wednesday. One woman, Juanita Ferguson of Ann Arbor, was elected by the 1,400 delegates to full membership in the conference and will be ordained as an elder. Four ordained as deacons by the presiding bishop, Dwight Loder. They were Paula Barker, Ann Arbor; Susan Bennett, Saginaw; Janice Martineau, Flint; and Margaret Paige, Hermansville.

TODAY In History

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, June 5, the 156th day of 1975. There are 209 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1940, the World War II Battle of France began.

On this date — In 1872, a Republican National Convention in Philadelphia nominated General Ulysses S. Grant for president.

In 1917, more than 9,000,000 American men registered for the World War I draft.

In 1947, Secretary of State George Marshall, speaking at Harvard University, outlined a program for Europe's economic recovery which became known as the Marshall Plan.

In 1962, Richard Nixon won a Republican primary election in California and became the party nominee for governor of the state.

In 1968, it was disclosed that the U.S. submarine, Scorpion, was presumed lost in the Atlantic off the Azores, with 99 men aboard.

Also in 1968, Senator Robert F. Kennedy was shot and fatally wounded in a Los Angeles hotel.

Ten years ago: The State Department acknowledged publicly for the first time that U.S. ground troops in South Vietnam were engaging in combat in defense of key installations.

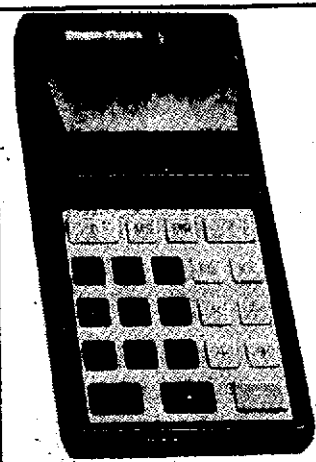

Five years ago: Israeli planes hammered Egyptian targets for 11 hours on the third anniversary of the six-day war.

One year ago: United Nations troops moved into the Golan Heights buffer zone between Israel and Syria after the two countries had signed disengagement documents.

Today's birthdays: The head of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, James Fletcher, is 56. Former White House News Secretary Bill Moyers is 41.

Thought for today: The lazier a man is, the more he is going to do tomorrow — Norwegian proverb.

Awards Presented Outstanding Dowagiac Graduates

DOWAGIAC — Scholarships and awards were presented to outstanding 1975 graduates and students of Dowagiac Union high school during honors ceremonies held Monday in the high school.

Some of the awards and scholarships have been previously announced.

A major scholarship winner was Catherine McGrew, 1975 valedictorian, who received a four-year all-expense paid ROTC scholarship. She was also the recipient of a Michigan competitive scholarship, but plans on attending Massachusetts Institute of Technology. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McGrew, 107 Spruce street, Dowagiac.

A $400 grant from the Sister Lakes Lions club was awarded to Daniel Ely, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Ely, route 6, Dowagiac, and a $300 grant from the Dowagiac Rotary club was presented to Lorraine French, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laverne French, route 6, Dowagiac. Miss French also received a scholarship from Southwestern Michigan college.

Marilyn Swisher — Exchange club scholarship and Southwestern Michigan college scholarship.

Diane Pankauski — $100 Art club scholarship.

Sandra Allen — $50 National Honor society scholarship.

Deborah Grady — $100 Student council scholarship.

Deborah Bogseth — Northern Michigan university scholarship.

Patricia Clough — Michigan State university scholarship.

Dennis Grady — Athletic grant from St. Joseph's college, Rensselaer, Ind.

Jane Kurlmeyer — Grant for Ferris State college.

Marcia Leighton — Michigan Business Schools association scholarship and Michigan competitive scholarship.

Kenneth McDonald — Grant

MISTRIAL: A mistrial was declared Wednesday in the robbery trial in Harrisburg, Pa., of Joseph Kallinger, above, a Philadelphia shoe repairman. The mistrial was declared after a jury matron was accused of making remarks to jurors about charges pending against Kallinger in New Jersey and Maryland. Kallinger has been accused of a rape and robbery spree through the three states with his 13-year-old son. (AP Wirephoto)

SMC Receives Federal Grants

DOWAGIAC — Southwestern Michigan college has received $87,695 in federal grants for its student financial aid programs for 1975-76.

An allocation of $37,608 was received under the National Direct-Student Loan program in which students enrolled half-time or more can receive up to $1,000 per academic year. Interest of three per cent and repayment of the loan must begin nine months after the student leaves school unless the student becomes a teacher, in which case the loan is cancelled. Partial cancellation is also given for military service.

An additional $30,040 has been allocated for the SMC work-study program, which provides work opportunities for students needing financial assistance. Eligible fulltime students work a maximum of 15 hours per week on the campus while attending school.

Funding of $20,047 has also been received for the supplementary educational opportunity grant program, which provides grants of $100 to $1,000 per academic year for exceptionally needy fulltime students of good academic standing.

Van Buren Judge Halts Drain Cleanout

By DENNIS COGSWELL
PAW PAW — Van Buren Circuit Court Judge David Anderson, Jr. yesterday issued a temporary restraining order halting any work on the proposed cleanout of the Gates drain.

Anderson's action came following a lawsuit filed by Kalamazoo Atty. Robert McWhorter on behalf of Paw Paw township, the Paw Paw conservation club, and Dr. Charles Tenhouten of Paw Paw seeking to stop the project. Tenhouten owns land along the drain, which is the west branch of the Paw Paw river.

Named as defendants in the suit were Elmyra Hearn, Van Buren county drain commissioner, and Bernard Thomas and Sons, Decatur, the project contractors.

A hearing has been scheduled for June 24 in circuit court to show cause why a permanent injunction against the project should not be made. The hearing will be before Judge James E. Hoff of Cass county. Anderson has disqualified himself because he lives on Maple lake in Paw Paw, where the drain empties.

Work on the $70,000 project was scheduled to begin late this month and be finished by the end of the summer. The dredging of the drain was ordered by a board of determination in 1973 to help alleviate flooding.

According to the suit, the effect of dredging would be to "destroy wildlife and natural habitat within the Paw Paw river and to create sediment and other debris which would filter into, damage and pollute Maple lake."

The suit also contends that the project would "materially impair" the rights of property owners along the river and lake, as well as unreasonably assessing people within the drainage district for its costs.

Citing a state supreme court decision in January which stopped a drain project in Mason county, the suit maintained that it is up to the drain commissioner to show that there is "no feasible and prudent alternative" to dredging.

The suit contends that because of a partial dredge of the upper half of the drain in 1948, silt and other debris washed into Maple lake, but that recently the silt has begun to stabilize.

Mrs. Hearn, according to the suit, failed to comply with state law by appointing the board of determination prior to the formal filing of petitions asking for the cleanout. The suit also claimed that the petitioners were insufficient in number to be representative of everyone living within the drainage district.

The suit also said that Mrs. Hearn was disqualified from appointing the board because she had members of her immediate family living within the district, and that she failed to give proper notice of a hearing on the project to the governmental units involved.

No evidence was given to the board of determination that the dredging was necessary, according to the suit, and no permit for the project, as required by state law, was issued by the county board of commissioners.

The suit added that a letter from Department of Natural Resources officials to Mrs. Hearn on May 23 indicated the drain's problems could be solved with a small dike at considerably less cost and with no significant damage to the environment.

The area of the drain scheduled to be cleaned out is a 2.5 mile stretch from 78th street north to 68th street. About 1,000 property owners would be involved in any assessment.

COUNTERFEIT: This check and two pieces of identification are counterfeit, Benton Harbor Det. Lt. Alfred Edwards said. He warned area merchants to be on the lookout for identical checks. (Staff photo)

Area Merchants Warned About Bad Check Ring

By TOM SAWYER
Staff Writer

Benton Harbor detectives warned Twin Cities area merchants to beware of a phony check operation which they classified as "very professional."

Det. Lt. Alfred Edwards said a man presented a "Veterans Administration State Of Michigan Department Of Rehabilitation" check at the J.C. Penny store in Benton Harbor Saturday. The $150 check, payable to a "Larry Harris," was drawn on the American Bank and Trust Company, Lansing.

A "State Of Michigan Veterans Administration" registration card was presented for identification. There is no such agency, according to W.B. Kirsch, deputy executive secretary of the Michigan Veterans Trust Fund in Lansing.

The check and identification card listed the address of "Larry Harris" as 270 East Vineyard street, Benton Harbor. Edwards said there is no such address in Benton Harbor and

"Larry Harris" is an assumed name. According to Kirsch, all Veterans' Administration checks are federal, drawn on the U.S. Treasury department. He noted that there is no state-issued identification card such as the one presented.

The bogus check passer was also a year behind the times. Don W. Johnson, who supposedly signed the check, left office as administrator of veterans affairs about a year ago. Richard Roubush now serves in that capacity in Washington D.C.

Kirsch said it was not possible for the check to be a Vietnam bonus. These checks are drawn on the Michigan Department of Military Affairs, Vietnam Era Bonus Section.

Police Rescue Kidnap Victim

ALESSANDRIA, Italy (AP) — Police stormed a farmhouse near this north Italian city today and freed Vittorio Vallarino Gancia, a 43-year-old vermouth magnate kidnaped Wednesday night. Police said a woman in the farmhouse was killed and two police agents seriously wounded in a shootout. Gancia was reported unharmed.

Vanessa Trying To Work Two Careers

Q: I haven't heard much about Vanessa Redgrave lately. Has she given up show business for political militancy? — G.W., Montgomery, Ala.

A: Unfortunately, Ms. Redgrave is attempting to combine both careers. Appearing in a stage play recently in Hollywood she took time off to canvass a local film unit, Avic Embassy's "Farewell, My Lovely," for her "Workers Revolutionary Party." There were no takers, nor any word on how star Robert Mitchum reacted to the plea for support.

Q: You wrote that Van Johnson was often seen in New York with Greta Garbo. Were you implying a romance? — F.R., Pueblo, Colo.

A: Certainly not. The latest we hear on Van is that after losing some 17 pounds with strenuous dieting while in England he put the weight right back on again when he returned to the U.S. This would hardly be worth noting except that another woman he frequently takes out is Jean Nidetch, founder of Weight Watchers.

Q: I read that Julie Andrews had adopted a Vietnamese baby and thinks it's wonderful. Have any other famous people adopted any? — G.L., Spokane, Wash.

A: Yes. Mia Farrow and Andre Previn; Yul Brynner; President Kennedy's sister and brother-in-law, Jean and Steve Smith; newscaster Marjorie Margulies and most recently Charles Bronson and his wife, Jill Ireland.

QUESTION YOU NEVER ASKED: What has replaced abortions as the new medical money-maker for Japanese doctors? Plastic surgery. American women are heading for Japan to get quick low-cost face lifts. An eye lift, which can set you back more than $3,000 for both the surgery and hospital stay, can be done in Tokyo for $400.

Q: I remember you reported that actress Joanna Shimkus was trying to decide whether or not to marry Sidney Poitier, after a six-year friendship and two daughters. Well, is she or isn't she? — D.O., Aurora, Ill.

A: The gossip is that she said no, which used to be Poitier's line. But the relationship still flourishes with Joanna claiming that she wants to have three more children. Couldn't have been a very firm "no."

Q: Did I hear that Lana Turner made a new film? — E.W., Eugene, Ore.

A: She just made one in England with Trevor Howard. But you may never see it if Lana has her wish. She is reported to VAN JOHNSON: Watching Nidetch.

VANESSA: Mixing her careers.

BRYNNER: He adopted two (too).

NEW YORK (AP) — Increased Canadian export taxes on refined petroleum products will have little impact on U.S. prices at present, according to dealers here.

On Tuesday the Canadian National Energy Board raised export taxes on gasoline to $3.50 a barrel from $1.50, on fuel oil to $8 from $2.75 a barrel.

Legalized Gambling Is A 2-1 Favorite

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Legalized casino gambling was favored by a 2-1 margin by persons who filled out a House questionnaire, according to Rep. Casmer Ogonowski, D-Detroit.

Ogonowski heads a special House committee examining the possibility of instituting casino gambling in Michigan. The seven-member committee sent out questionnaires to city and county officials, tourist-related industries and other interested parties.

People favoring casino gambling also favor "strict state control of gambling operations," Ogonowski said.

His committee is conducting a statewide study to determine the criminal and social implications of casino gambling.

Ogonowski said he will ask the Michigan Hotel and Motor Hotel Association at a Traverse City meeting June 7 to poll its members about the subject.

"They could help us tremendously by conducting a survey to determine what their customers, being from neighboring states as well as from Michigan, think," Ogonowski said.

State To Test Random Auto Inspection

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan will test a random vehicle inspection plan beginning this month in an effort to save up to $25 million in federal funds while ridding state roads of unsafe vehicles. The government is trying to force states to adopt a mandatory inspection system. About 40 states now require the checks. Michigan was to adopt such a plan by June 30, but the state got an 18-month extension to try the random system.

If Michigan doesn't prove random checks work as well and cost less than regular checks, or if it refuses to start periodic checks, it could lose up to $5 million in federal highway safety funds and $20 million in federal highway construction money. Random checks will begin late this month in Jackson County. Inspectors will scrutinize cars and hopefully will find and correct as many deficiencies as in the periodic procedures, Gov. William Milliken said Tuesday. Michigan doesn't like periodic inspections for three main reasons, said Ron Bos, deputy director of the office of safety planning.

It is expensive, he said, costing from $4 to $10 per vehicle. When multiplied by an estimated five million vehicles, the cost runs to $50 million a year. Bad equipment is a factor in only 2.5 per cent of accidents, making the mandatory periodic inspection inefficient and impractical, he said. And, motorists tend to fix their vehicles when inspection time roles around rather than when repairs are needed, Bos said.

Berrien Springs To Fill 2 Seats, Decide On Levy

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Berrien Springs school district voters will decide the fate of an 8.2-mill property tax renewal key for three years for school operations in the annual school election Monday, June 9. They will also choose two school board members from among eight candidates.

The candidates are Blaine G. Brown, Mrs. Roberta Fishburn, David W. Gordon, Mrs. Shirley Harner, Edwin A. Kerlikowski, Max K. Pearcy, Jeffrey L. Porter, and Richard W. Stover. Supt. Lee Auble said the board is seeking renewal of 8.2

mills for operations which expired with the last tax collection. If approved, total millage for the district would remain the same as last year, at 27.277 mills, including a debt retirement millage of 4.5 mills.

Based on the district's new tentative state equalized valuation of approximately $47,300,000, the 8.2 mills would raise around $388,000 in local taxes. The district's tentative operational budget for 1975-76 is $2,077,000, some $5,000 less than 1974-75, according to Auble.

Among the candidates, Brown, 38, route 1, box 326, Lemon Creek road, is employed by Clark Equipment company, Buchanan, and is also a part-time grower. He and his wife, Deana, have three children.

Mrs. Fishburn, 34, 312 North Cass street, is a housewife and she and her husband, Douglas, have two children.

Gordon, 35, 100 Niles avenue, is manager of Leisure Living Mobile Homes, Berrien Springs. He and his wife, Joanne, have two children.

Mrs. Lynn (Shirley) Harner, 32, of Rose Hill apartments, is a housewife and she and her husband, Lynn, have two children.

Kerlikowski, 32, 3101 US-31, is a fruit grower and an industrial arts teacher in St. Joseph schools. He and his wife, Mary, have two children.

Pearcy, 54, 1110 Red Bud trail, is a history teacher at Coloma high school. He and his wife, Wanda, have one child.

Porter, 29, route 1, box 266, Hinchman road, owns and operates two service station and a cleaning service. He and his wife, Mary, have three children.

Stover, 37, route 1, box 330, Berrien Springs, is a fruit grower and operates a plumbing and heating service. He and his wife, Beverly, have three children.

Robinson, board secretary, and Ed Stone, board treasurer, are not seeking re-election.

7 Named As U-M Scholars

Seven high school seniors from Van Buren and Cass counties are among 1,024 high schoolers who have been named Regents-Alumni Scholars by the University of Michigan.

The University of Michigan annually selects Regents-Alumni Scholars for their "superior academic achievement and their potential contribution to the scholarly community of the U of M."

Each scholar receives a $50 honorarium upon enrollment at the university in September. Financial need is not a consideration in the selection of the Regents-Alumni Scholars.

Van Buren county students are David P. Richardson, Hartford high school; Daniel G. Oas, Paw Paw high school; and Andrea L. Saunders, Mattawan high school.

Cass county students receiving the same recognition are Michael J. Morrow and Daniel A. Smith, both of Dowagiac Union high school; Herbert J. Hoffman, Cassopolis high school; and Dennis C. Eckold, Edwardsburg high school.

Twenty-five high school seniors from Berrien county have also been named Regents-Alumni Scholars, as previously mentioned in this newspaper last week.

OIL PORT CLOSED

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — The Israeli government announced today that Ashkelon, its Mediterranean oil port, is closed to tankers until the labor dispute that halted loading two weeks ago is settled.

Buildings will house commercial exhibits and should be ready for use by this year's fair, Aug. 12 to 16. Both have clear-span interiors and are of pole-type construction. Two buildings used in past for commercial exhibits will be used to hold ever-increasing number of youth exhibits. Cost of building halls has been estimated at $25,000 each. ## Educator Quits Buchanan Post

BUCHANAN — Norman Kreager, Buchanan community schools assistant superintendent, has resigned the post to accept a job as superintendent of the St. Charles, Mich., school system.

Kreager, 39, said his resignation from the Buchanan post would be effective June 30, and he would assume the new job at St. Charles on July 1.

Kreager said he was a native of St. Charles and attended high school there. He said the community is near Saginaw and the school system has some 2,000 students.

Assistant superintendent for business affairs at Buchanan for the past seven years, Kreager will be paid $25,000 yearly at St. Charles. His salary this year at Buchanan was $23,100.

Buchanan Supt. Richard Dougherty said yesterday that the school board has informally approved Kreager's resignation and will give formal approval at its June 16 meeting.

Kreager said he submitted the resignation on Monday.

Niles Library Offers Program

NILES — Niles Community library will offer a teen program geared to junior and senior high school age students this summer. Informal book discussions will be held every other Monday at 3 p.m. beginning June 9, and on Tuesdays demonstrations will be conducted in various areas, ranging from scuba diving to karate. The library's noon-hour film program for this week includes "Rapids of Colorado," "Glaciers," and "Quebec Ski."

DOCTORATE: William F. Schaefer III, superintendent-elect of Eau Claire school system, has received his doctorate degree from Michigan State university. Schaefer is to assume superintendent's position in Eau Claire July 1, following formal retirement of Supt. Donald McAlvey.

Weesaw Approves Rezoning Parcels

NEW TROY — Weesaw township board last night approved rezoning two parcels of land on Cleveland avenue south of Glendora for commercial use.

The zoning changes recommended by the township zoning board were sought by Merle Philippi and Bernard Padzer. The lots had previously been zoned for residential and agricultural use.

Board action came after Philippi was told by the board last November that if he wanted to process and sell goods owned by others for a fee at his cider mill and his fruitstand, a zoning change was necessary.

Padzer's property was given new zoning to have it conform with the surrounding area, according to Alan Boyd, township supervisor.

In other areas, the board approved a resolution opposing state restrictions now being placed on the township's volunteer ambulance attendants. The resolution was to be sent to Rep. Harry Gast (R-St. Joseph) and

Sen. Charles Zollar (R-Benton Harbor).

The major objection to the state requirements is the additional training the ambulance attendants are required to have, according to the supervisor.

The township's two ambulances are operated by the township volunteer fire department.

William Bartholomew, township building inspector, reported he issued four permits totaling $80,500 for new construction and five permits totaling $14,500 for remodeling during May.

Fireman Felled By Smoke

NILES — Niles fireman Jerry Westfall was hospitalized yesterday afternoon as the result of a house fire at 409 North Fourth street.

Firemen said Westfall was hospitalized because of smoke inhalation. He was reported in good condition this morning in Pawing hospital here.

According to the fire department, Westfall was overcome while firemen worked to put out a fire in the two-apartment structure.

Firemen said John Clutter, occupant of one of the apartments, escaped uninjured. Cause of the fire has not yet been determined. Firemen said, however that Clutter reported he had burned paint off the side of the house Tuesday.

They theorized the heat may have caused tar paper inside the walls to smoulder and then ignite later.

Firemen said the blaze in the building was confined to the outside wall and attic of the house.

More Workers Enjoying Longer Paid Vacations

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Paid vacations are getting longer.

This might seem to be a distorted reflection of the present economic scene, with millions looking for work and not finding it and others unable to afford a vacation even if paid, but it is indisputable fact.

A survey of corporation vacation practices in 1961 showed only 2 per cent permitted paid vacations of up to five weeks. A similar survey about a decade later showed the percentage at 23. And the six-week vacation had arrived.

The Conference Board, which conducted both surveys of about 1,800 concerns, found that paid time off costs companies the equivalent of an average 8.2 per cent of payroll in 1973, up more than one per cent in six years.

Vacations and days off for personal affairs also may be getting more frequent. Time off for birthdays, and floating holidays, to be used when and as desired, are among the innovations.

The notion of paid time off has come a long way from the early days of the industrial revolution, which was supposed to have put machinery to work in behalf of mankind but which may have affected just the opposite.

It was less than a century ago, you may have read, when the foreman might have felt justifiably angered at the request of a worker to leave his machine unattended while he scurried to the washroom.

But time off with pay, it seems, is now becoming one of those inalienable worker rights, imprinted that way in the minds of both workers and employers and maybe even more indelibly in hundreds of major labor contracts.

One of the biggest changes found by the board, which describes itself as a private, nonprofit educational and research organization, was the addition of two paid holidays in the past decade.

Most companies now recognize six standard holidays and three more that vary with the employer. New Year's Day, Memorial Day, Independence Day, Labor Day, Thanksgiving and Christmas are standard almost everywhere.

No other single day was specified by a majority in the study, but the most commonly named were: Thanksgiving

Friday, Good Friday, Washington's Birthday, Veterans Day, Columbus Day and a day before or after Christmas.

While it is true that a growing number of companies now grant five and six-week annual vacations with pay, the average company's maximum still remains close to four weeks.

In most companies, the board found, that is the reward for a minimum of 20 years of service. Typically, 10 years of service usually earns a worker three weeks of paid vacation time.

Vacations for workers with less company service reveal differences between the front office and the plant. It usually takes a nonoffice worker two years to earn a two-week vacation, but an office worker only one year.

Again, for a one-week vacation, the office worker typically needs to put in only six months, but the plant worker must put in a full year, a situation that you may be sure union leaders are studying right at the moment.

Non-office workers also are treated less generously in the category of non-leisure paid time. Coverage of jury service and bereavement leave is almost universal for both categories, but then the differences appear. Office workers generally are paid during time off because of trial witness service, military duty for summer encampments and civil emergencies, voting, and for medical and dental appointments.

About half the companies paid non-office workers for brief, temporary military duty, but almost any other remaining time is at their own expense.

MOVING DAY: An alligator got special, and very careful, treatment this week when it was transferred from its winter to its summer quarters at Como Zoo in St. Paul, Minn. Zookeepers tied the beast to a ladder, transported it by truck and eased it into a pool before unwrapping the dangerous package. (AP Wirephoto)

Lancaster Likes Playing Moses

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — I met Moses the other day. He had a slight limp from recent knee surgery, but otherwise looked fairly spry. He was in town to talk about his coming TV debut. It's a Biblical show, of course.

The press agent's book of revelations disclosed Moses actually was Burt Lancaster, at 61 one of Hollywood's most durable film stars in a career spanning nearly 30 years and more than 50 movies.

Come June 21, the veteran actor will appear on CBS in the first of six one-hour summer drama specials called "Moses — the Lawgiver." It's based on the Book of Exodus and filmed both in Israel and Rome.

Lancaster, a polite, quiet-spoken man, praised the project and most everyone connected with it in glowing terms. But he grinned and abruptly backed off after realizing his visitor hadn't seen it yet.

"It's terrible to talk about these things when you're talking in limbo," he conceded, lighting a cigarette. "You might say, 'Is this man full of bull or isn't he?'"

He said his decision to appear as Moses had its genesis in 1968 when he was making "Castle Keep" in Yugoslavia. The castle accidentally burned down, halting production for five weeks he spent in Italy.

It was there he bumped into a friend, a leading Italian cameraman named Pepe Rotunno, "and while we were talking, he said, 'Would you be interested in doing a television show here in Italy?'"

Rotunno introduced him to Vincenzo Labello, who was producing the Moses show for Italy's RAI Television and ATV, Ltd., a British TV production firm run by showman Lew Grade.

Lancaster then got a 150-page outline of the project, and declared himself greatly interested. Four months later, he got a 300-page script co-authored by Anthony Burgess of "Clockwork Orange" fame.

"And it was lovely, just lovely," Lancaster said. "So Labella says, 'Will you do it?' And I said yes. It was as simple as that."

Filming began in July 1973, the actor said. It didn't end until a year later, the work having been delayed by the Yom Kippur war. Lancaster said he worked on the show a total of seven months.

The actor, whose only previous starring role in a movie about Biblical matters was in "Elmer Gantry," said he and the makers of the Moses show aimed at emphasizing the human side of the story. They didn't want to make it the gaudy sort of Biblical spectacular of Hollywood legend.

Because of that, he said, when this show's Red Seasplitting scene occurs there'll be no expression that "now we're going to show you the grand finale and bring on the elephants." Playing Moses as a human and not as a stock pageant figure was rugged, Lancaster said: "You had to be very careful you didn't get rhetorical and pontifical."

"Even though the language

(in the script) is lovely and in many instances has an exquisite kind of poetic beauty, we had to try to make these so-called 'great utterances' casual but not colloquial."

His only gripe about the show is that CBS is airing it this summer rather than in the fall or Easter, when more viewers are at home nights.

"I hope it's successful enough that they'll bring it back in another period, another time," he said. "Because I think it merits it. It's really that good."

Steam Beer: A Legacy Of The Gold Rush Days

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Had any steam beer lately? If you have, you're a connoisseur of an unique libation — or just plain curious.

Steam beer is a legacy of the California gold rush, and it has held onto a tenuous existence in these modern times.

Steam beer, a strong, nutty flavored brew, is peculiar to San Francisco and is held in affection by old and young.

At one time there were 27 steam beer breweries in this city but only one remains. It is Anchor Steam Beer Brewing Co., which is preserving a tradition and quenching an exotic thirst.

Fritz Maytag, 36, a scion of the Iowa washing machine family, rescued the ancient brewery — smallest in the United States — from closing a few years ago and has expanded its production from 600 barrels a year to 6,000. That contrasts with a major brewery like Coors, which produces about 10 million barrels.

Anchor Steam beer, which used to be sold only in a few San Francisco taverns, now is distributed in other parts of California and in Arizona, Nevada and Colorado.

With San Francisco thronged with thirsty men in the 1850s, there was a great demand for beer. But it was difficult to produce because the lager process required fermentation and aging temperatures near freezing.

There were no large quantities of ice available, so steam beer, which could be fermented at Bay Area temperatures of 60-to-68 degrees, was developed. What makes steam beer so different from the light beers which prevail in this country today?

"It's simply beerier," Maytag said in an interview at the brewery, situated in a factory area south of Market Street. "It's more like an English ale. We use more hops than American beers and most European beers. We use nothing but barley malt. It's kind of like homemade bread compared with bakery bread."

Maytag said steam beer drinkers tend to be younger people.

"They are people who have traveled in Europe, liked the beer there and when they got home they were disappointed that we didn't have beer like it." The nostalgia craze also has directed attention to steam beer. It is becoming more readily available in bars and liquor stores.

"What we are trying to do," Maytag says, "is to brew a very traditional beer, using the old-fashioned materials of brewing in as much conformity with the old-fashioned style as we can." Incidentally, steam has nothing to do with brewing the beer. It refers to the pressure building up in the barrels and tanks during the process of natural carbonization.

Most of Anchor's beer is sold in bottles. It costs about 50 cents a bottle, compared with 60 cents for imported beers and 30 cents for premium domestic beers.

Anchor grossed about $500,000 in 1974, Maytag says.

With the taste for steam beer spreading — steadily if not spectacularly — Maytag plans to boost production about 30 per cent this year.

THEY CALL IT STEAM BEER: Fritz Maytag, 36, a scion of the Iowa washing machine family, draws a glass of steam beer at his Anchor Steam Beer Brewing Co. in San Francisco, Calif. At one time there were 27 steam beer breweries in San Francisco, but only Anchor Beer remains. (AP Wirephoto)

Indicted For Phone Cheating

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Playboy financier Bernard Cornfeld, once considered a financial and promotional wizard, has been indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of attempting to make free over-seas phone calls.

The three-count indictment Wednesday said Cornfeld used a "blue box" electronic device to place 343 overseas calls from telephones in his Beverly Hills mansion.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Stocks Head Lower

NEW YORK (AP) — Stocks headed lower today, continuing the downturn that set in late Wednesday.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down about a point. Losers moved out to a 3-2 lead over gainers on the New York Stock Exchange.

In the economic news, the government reported at the opening that wholesale prices rose for the second month in a row in May, although the 4.8 per cent annual rate of increase recorded for the month was down from April's 18 per cent annual rate.

In Tehran, the governor of Iran's central bank asserted that the oil producing nations might raise crude oil prices 30 to 35 per cent in September.

Today's prices included Brunswick, up 1/4 at 15; MCA, down 1/2 at 61 1/2; Darnoff, off 1/2 at 15 1/2; and General Cable, up 1/2 at 15 1/2.

In Wednesday's mixed market the Dow Jones industrial average dropped 6.18 to 839.96.

But gainers outnumbered losers by about a 7-6 margin in turnover of 24.90 million shares on the Big Board.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks was off .11 at 49.24.

At the American Stock Exchange, the Market value index rose .43 to a 13-month closing high of 90.04.

Oil Cartel May Hike Prices

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — The oil cartel may raise prices on crude oil 30 to 35 per cent in September, the governor of Iran's central bank warned today.

Mohammed Yeganeh told a news conference the hike would balance recent losses in the purchasing power of the dollar. He said "an early upward revision of oil prices has become imperative." But he refused to say exactly what increase is being considered.

Yeganeh is heading Iran's delegation to the ministerial meeting of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries in Libreville, Gabon, in West Africa next week.

Marathon To Make Changes In Service

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — Nearly all company-owned Marathon Oil Co. service stations in Michigan and four other states will be converted to limited service or self-service operations within the next month, the firm announced Wednesday.

Marathon said the 230 stations affected will be operated under the "Speedway" name by a subsidiary, Speedway Petroleum Corp.

The Speedway name, acquired by Marathon in 1959, has not been used since 1962 except in a handful of Michigan outlets.

The new venture will not affect some 3,100 dealer-operated stations, which will continue to do business as Marathon outlets.

Marathon officials said the Speedway stations will offer gasoline priced to compete with other so-called "private" brand

INVESTORS' GUIDE

Warrants Do Not Produce Dividends

By SAM SHULSKY
Q. I have held warrants for six or seven years without receiving a nickel in dividends. Should I use them to acquire the company's shares? How?

A. It is very clear to me that six or seven years ago you invested $9,500 without having the slightest idea of what you were doing. Not the foggiest idea! Either you are a millionaire who throws $9,500 around as easily as most of us dispense 95 cents, or else you should not be allowed out with money in your pocket.

This is clear to me because:
(1) You complain of not receiving any dividends and
(2) You wonder whether you should now use the warrants to acquire the common shares.

Whoever told you that warrants pay dividends? Warrants are options...nothing more. They are not shares of stock. They earn no money, pay no dividends and have no vote in the corporation's affairs. Your warrant represents an option to acquire (until Jan. 31, 1978) 1.03 shares of the company's common shares by turning in the warrant plus $55 cash.

As to your second question — whether to turn in the warrants now for the purchase of shares: On the day your letter arrived, the warrants were selling for $5 and the common itself for 36 1/2. Can you please explain to me why you would want to add $55 to the $5 warrant (a total of $60) to acquire 1.03 shares of a $36.50 stock — which would have a total market value of $37.595.

I have absolutely no opinion on the value of these warrants — pro or con. I haven't any idea of how they will work out before the expiration date. But I can't help being angry with people who lay out $9,500 without the slightest idea of what they are buying.

ESTATE QUESTION
Q. We are past 70, with holdings of corporate and tax-exempt bonds and now have about $35,000 for further investment. What would you suggest? We have no heirs.

A. This is more of an estate question than an investment problem. As a straight investment answer, I would suggest more tax-exempts since, I assume, you are in a pretty high tax bracket.

The question of an estate should be discussed with an estate expert. It seems to me that perhaps you should consider some charitable, religious or educational annuities which would not only provide lifetime income, but give you some tax credits.

WILD RUMORS
Q. I understand the Federal Reserve will soon offer short-term bills paying over 7 per cent.

A. If your name is Arthur Burns, you've given me a "scoop." If it is not — you are just listening to wild rumors.

WARNING: Please, please do not mail me any documents of value — stock certificates, original purchase or sale confirmation, mutual fund records — and it should go without saying, money.

STOCK DIVIDEND
Q. If you get a 10 per cent stock dividend on a holding of 200 shares how do you figure the tax cost of the 20 shares received as a dividend?

A. Your tax cost per share — for all your shares — is the amount you paid for the 200 shares divided by 220. If you sell the entire 220, all you need do is figure your profit or loss by comparing the proceeds of the 220-share sale with what you paid for the 200 shares.

Mr. Shulsky welcomes written questions, but he will be able to provide answers only through the column.

For information on mutual funds, please include a self-addressed stamped envelope. Address your requests to Sam Shulsky, care of this newspaper.

Thieves Get Advice On Loot's Care

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Plant lover Ben J. Burkhart hopes thieves who stole 25 of his rarest items know and appreciate what they have.

And if they need any advice on how to care for them, Burkhart offers to give it to them with no questions asked.

Further, if the thieves want to sell the plants, Burkhart wants the chance to make the first bid, again with no questions asked.

"I am willing to pay whatever price they can get anywhere else," he said.

Burkhart said the plants were stolen last Saturday from an outdoor display he has at his one-man printing plant in Ann Arbor.

Burkhart said he did not raise plants for money but rather for his own enjoyment.

He said the thieves knew exactly what items to take in their raid on his plant area. The loot included a jade plant which he said was at least 15 years old, flowering maples and a fiddle fig tree.

The print shop operator said he always puts his plants outside as summer approaches to give them time to build their strength for the winter months when they are inside.

"I have grown to know all the idiosyncrasies of the plants and even the music they like," explained the 60-year-old Burkhart.

Galien Sewer Costs Soar

NEW BUFFALO — Cost of the proposed Galien river sanitary sewer project is going to be about $17.7 million, up $5 million from estimates earlier this year and more than double the $8 million estimate when the project was first proposed 10 years ago.

That was the latest cost information the sanitary sewer board got last night from Robert Barnes, director of Berrien county department of public works.

Herbert Seeder, Chikaming township representative on the sanitary sewer board, said the new figure means that it is going to cost 100 per cent more at the local level than it would have 10 years ago.

Board members blamed skyrocketing costs on delays and inflation.

At the beginning of the year, the cost was estimated at $12 million. Several months ago, engineers announced the estimated cost at $15 million.

The new cost estimate includes a treatment facility and collection system. Initial costs 10 years ago did not include the collection system.

The project is to serve New Buffalo city and township and Chikaming township.

The board has applied for a federal grant that would pay for 75 per cent of the project, and a state grant that would pay for five per cent of project costs.

At last night's meeting in New Buffalo township hall, Barnes said the $17.7 million figure includes legal, administrative and construction costs of the major system, but not the costs of converting New Buffalo city's present sewer system.

Barnes also told the board that local governments will have to bear the entire cost of acquiring land for the treatment facility.

In other areas, Ambu Patel, engineer for Clyde E. Williams and associates, the project's engineers, said the state health department has approved plans for the treatment system and engineers are now waiting for approval by the federal Environmental Protection agency.

Berrien Springs Council Seeks Ambulance Action

BERRIEN SPRINGS — A meeting to get a proposed mid-county ambulance service out of the discussion stage into a planning stage was suggested by Berrien Springs village council last night.

Village President Edgar Kes-terke said he will contact the five other units scheduled to participate and try to set up a board and the initial planning session.

Other units involved include Eau Claire village and Ortonville and Berrien townships, Berrien General hospital and Andrews university.

In other areas, the council also adopted a resolution appointing Leslie Cripps to head a Community Development planning program pending the approval of a $7,000 state grant.

The planning program is to include research of housing conditions, population characteristics and public facilities in the village.

In other areas, the council voted to hold village elections every two years rather than every year. If approved by the state, the next elections would be in 1976, and every two years thereafter. The council has six trustees, and every two years three trustees would be elected to four-year terms.

The village president, clerk, treasurer and assessor would be elected to two-year terms. Trustees now serve two-year terms and the others, one-year terms.

Council trustees announced that construction bids on street, curb and gutter improvements will be opened July 7.

Involved are Cass street, from Ferry to Pitt; Mechanic, from Ferry to Pitt; and Pitt, from Cass to Mechanic.

Cause Of Pool Fire Unknown

SODUS — Fire caused an estimated $10,000 worth of damage to a swimming pool pump house and swimming pool area early this morning at the home of William Schumacher, 3032 St. Joseph River drive, Sodus township.

Sodus township firemen were called to the home about 1:40 a.m. to extinguish the blaze which may have been caused by lightning or a malfunction of a gas-fired heater in the pump house, according to Calvin Bennett Jr., fire chief. The cause, he added, was still under investigation.

Bennett said Schumacher estimated the damage at $10,000 which included about $3,000 worth of swimming pool chemicals stored in the pump house and damage to the lining of the pool.

POLICEMAN SLAIN

BILBAO, Spain (AP) — A lone gunman presumed to be a Basque separatist shot and killed one member of the Guardia Civil police today and gravely wounded another on the San Sebastian-Bilbao train, police reported.

Two-Car Smash-Up Injures 5

Five people received minor injuries yesterday in a two-car collision on Pipestone road near Tabor road, Pipestone township, according to Berrien sheriff's deputies.

Treated for cuts and bruises and released from Berrien general hospital were Byron, Penny and Shiela Codman and Lavel Hunter, all of Eau Claire, and Patty Wiggins of Cassopolis. Neither Byron Codman, nor Hunter, the two drivers, were ticketed.

FOOD STILL FACTOR Wholesale Price Rise Slows To .4% In May

WASHINGTON (AP) — Increases in wholesale prices slowed to four-tenths of a per cent in May after April's sharp jump, the Labor Department reported today.

Two-thirds of the May increase was attributed to higher prices for farm products.

Wholesale prices had fallen for four consecutive months before rising 1.5 per cent in April. However, the Ford administration said that sharp one-month increase did not portend a return to the high monthly rates of inflation in 1974.

Industrial commodities prices rose only two-tenths of a per cent last month following increases of one-tenth in each of the previous two months.

Economists regard the industrial commodities portion of the Wholesale Price Index as a truer measure of inflation because food prices are more erratic and therefore do not have as great an impact on the overall price structure as do changes in industrial prices.

The four-tenths rise in wholesale prices last month, although high by historical standards, was well below the monthly increases typical in 1974.

Berrien Court Sentences Twenty; Two Bound Over

Two persons were bound over to Berrien Circuit court, two demanded preliminary examinations, 20 were sentenced and a woman pleaded innocent yesterday in Berrien Fifth District court.

Bound over were:

Ivory Lee Jones, 21, of 997 Pipestone, Benton Harbor, on a charge of armed robbery at C&T Cleaners, Benton Harbor Feb. 22, 1974. He remained free on $2,500 personal recognizance bond.

Thomas James Johnson, 37, of Evanston, Ill., charged with carrying a concealed pistol in a

Lawrence Man Pleads Innocent

PAW PAW — Norman Burfield, Jr., 33, 404 West James street, Lawrence, pleaded innocent to a charge of assault when arraigned yesterday in Seventh district court.

Burfield was arrested Monday after his wife, Judy, told police she had been assaulted during a family quarrel at her home.

Burfield was freed after posting $1,500 bond. A pre-trial conference was scheduled for June 16.

Bound Over On Charge Of Assault

SOUTH HAVEN — Melvin Booker, 28, 201 Dyckman avenue, South Haven, was bound over to Van Buren circuit court yesterday following a preliminary examination in Seventh district court here on a charge of assault without intent to murder.

Booker was arrested May 21 by state police from the South Haven post in the culmination of a five month investigation of alleged illegal drug sales in the South Haven area.

He was arrested on a non-drug related charge that developed in part of the investigation. Another charge of subordination of perjury was dismissed for lack of evidence.

Booker was arrested in connection with an incident Dec. 10 in which a state police trooper working undercover is alleged to have been threatened by a man with a gun.

Bond of $40,000 was reduced to $10,000 by Judge Donald Goodwillie, Jr.

POLICE ROUNDUP

Two Men Arrested On Break-In Charges

Two Benton Harbor men were arrested Wednesday night when they were found by Benton Harbor police in an unoccupied home at 546 Division street.

Booked at the Berrien jail on charges of breaking and entering were Willie L. Partee, 17, of 560 Division, and Anthony A. Henry, 20, of 875 Waukonda avenue.

Police said a portable washing machine was found in a car nearby. The washing machine was identified by the owner of the home, Dale Kilpatrick, Lake Michigan Beach, as having been in the house on

SJ Woman Sues For $411,530

A St. Joseph woman whose husband was killed in a head-on car-truck collision in April filed suit in Berrien circuit court seeking $411,530.

The plaintiff, Mrs. Beverly Mielke, filed the suit in connection with an April 4 accident which killed her husband, Theodore.

Named defendant was the alleged driver of a pickup truck which struck the Mielke auto, Joel Dean Morrow, of Coloma. Morrow this week pleaded innocent to a charge of manslaughter when arraigned in circuit court.

The suit claims the Morrow truck crossed the center line of US-96 in Hagar township resulting in the head-on crash.

car May 25 in Chikamin township. He waived examination and was continued free on $1,500 bail.

Demanding examinations were:

Tim G. Strong, 18, of Paw Paw Lake road, Coloma, charged with car theft June 3 in Coloma. He posted $500 bail.

Ricky Lee Franks, 21, of Russell road, Baroda, charged with assault with a deadly weapon, a hammer, against Alexander Zandarski May 27 in Baroda. He was released on $2,500 bail.

Sentenced were:

James Bo Johnson, 39, of 806 Pitkin avenue, Benton Harbor, fine and costs of $50 for disorderly person, maintaining a gambling place, June 3 at his residence.

Michael J. Vega, 20, of Gary, Ind., $125 for possession of a police monitor in a car, without either a permit from state police or a license from the Federal Communication Commission, May 23 in New Buffalo.

James Reed, of 248 Jefferson court, Benton Harbor, 90 days in jail for tampering with a car May 18 in Benton Harbor.

Jeffery G. Catania, 17, of 511 Howard, St. Joseph, $121 for petty larceny of cash from the Harbor Inn, New Buffalo, June 2.

John W. Catahan, 23, of Holland, three days in jail and $240 or 30 days in jail for driving while license suspended April 17 in St. Joseph.

Jeffery A. Mansfield, 25, of Westville, Ind., $100 for possession of an unregistered pistol May 23 in New Buffalo.

Sentenced for the following violations were:

Assault and battery — Alvin Taylor, 26, of Farina road, New Buffalo, $51, against Vicki Taylor; Lawrence C. Ollens, 22, of 253 Bellview, Benton Harbor, $55 or 30 days in jail, against Meta Fleming.

Impaired driving — Leonard H. Popke, 45, of 1235 Ravenna avenue, Benton township, Donald F. Churchill, 46, of 412 North Elm, Three Oaks and David R. Frazier, 50, of 119 Spring lane, Benton township, each $150 and six months probation; Peter W. Nelson, Jr., 24, of 589 Highland, Benton Harbor, and Charles Nush, 50, of East Gary, Ind., each $101; Larry D. Mock, 22, of Hickory road, Coloma, $200 and 18 months probation; Daniel M. Guy, 24, of 39th street, Decatur, $230 and six months probation for second offense.

Use of marijuana — John C. Watson, 18, of 4886 Beechnut drive, Royalton township, $235; Eric R. Struck, 18, of 825 Bend, Ind., Derrick J. Evans, 21, of 777 East Napier, apartment W-1, Benton township, Dan M. Ernst, 18, of 2831 Lake Shore drive and Steven A. Fernwalt, 19, both of St. Joseph, each $150 and six months probation; Peter W. Nelson, Jr., 24, of 589 Highland, Benton Harbor, and Charles Nush, 50, of East Gary, Ind., each $101; Larry D. Mock, 22, of Hickory road, Coloma, $200 and 18 months probation; Daniel M. Guy, 24, of 39th street, Decatur, $230 and six months probation for second offense.

Use of marijuana — John C. Watson, 18, of 4886 Beechnut drive, Royalton township, $235; Eric R. Struck, 18, of 825 Bend, Ind., Derrick J. Evans, 21, of 777 East Napier, apartment W-1, Benton township, Dan M. Ernst, 18, of 2831 Lake Shore drive and Steven A. Fernwalt, 19, both of St. Joseph, each $150 and six months probation; Peter W. Nelson, Jr., 24, of 589 Highland, Benton Harbor, and Charles Nush, 50, of East Gary, Ind., each $101; Larry D. Mock, 22, of Hickory road, Coloma, $200 and 18 months probation; Daniel M. Guy, 24, of 39th street, Decatur, $230 and six months probation for second offense.

Thieves stole 51 personal checks from the home of Walter P. Scott, route 1, box 432A, Coloma. State police of the Benton Harbor post said the checks are blue, numbered 200-226 and 250-275 and are drawn on the State Bank of Coloma.

Two color television sets were reported stolen to St. Joseph police. The rental sets were reportedly taken from unoccupied rooms at Memorial hospital.

A U-Haul rental truck was reported stolen to Benton township police. Police were told a woman rented the truck May 23 from a service station at 2138 East Napier avenue with return set for the next day.

KEEP FIT

Pleading innocent was Beverly A. Blue (also known as Tate), 20, of 2237 Butler drive, Benton township, who is charged with harboring a fugitive at her home June 3. She allegedly harbored Robert Lee Campbell, 24, of 747 Buena Vista road, Benton Harbor, who ran from the county courthouse on June 2 and was allegedly apprehended at the Butler street address. She was freed on $1,000 bail.
